SEAGOING HEARSE — This 44-foot cabin cruiser being given a trial run on the San Rafael Canal will soon be carrying the dead beyond Golden Gate for burial at sea. The spacious cabin will provide shelter for the bereaved and the presiding minister, according to James B. Magee and Chester M. Shumate, partners in the new service.

LOCAL TRIO'S NEW BUSINESS

Sea Burials: A West Coast First

By MARY LEYDECKER

"Everlasting beauty and perpetual care" are being offered patrons of The Seaway, according to the partners in a new San Rafael business which they say provides the first burial-at-sea charter boat on the West Coast.

James B. Magee, a retired Navy officer who conceived The Seaway, likes to show a picture of a sunset off the Golden Gate, saying "what more beautiful monument could you have."

As for the perpetual care, Magee said this will be "provided by the Good Lord" for persons buried at sea.

Magee, has just started the business along with Chester M. Shumate, owner of Seaway Marina in San Rafael, and another retired Navy man, Alexander T. Coutts of Corte Madera, who is president of the new firm.

The three men yesterday proudly showed off the 44-foot motor yacht, "Seaway," which will be used for the burials at sea. The afterdeck soon will be equipped with a platform on which a special Navy-type coffin (heavily weighted and with vents) can rest. Also to be installed is a catapult, which will make easier the chore of committing bodies to the deep.

Inside the spacious cabin "just like your living room" in the words of Shumate, who owns the boat) families and friends, "a minister of their choice and their funeral director" can ride to sea in comfort.

Families will have a choice of several options, according to the three partners. Under a law enacted last January, ashes of cremated remains can be scattered beyond the three-mile limit offshore. If the family wants "intact remains," the boat will take them out beyond the 12-mile limit, as required by law.

Families will be encouraged to take along their own ministers, according to Magee, but if they wish Magee will provide a "dignified service."

He plans at such burials to read Tennyson's poem, "Crossing the Bar," which ends with the lines, "May there be no moaning at the bar when I put out to sea."

"It's simple and appropriate," he said, adding he has read the poem several times for members of his own family and friends.

The idea for The Seaway came to Magee because "most of my family is buried at sea," he said. His father, a longtime bar pilot, was buried from a pilot boat, Magee said, and he has scattered ashes of other relatives and friends.

Formerly, however, there was no boat available for most families to use who wanted sea burials.

The partners, who are planning full cooperation with undertakers ("we only provide transportation," they said), plan to lean heavily on the Navy. Not only will Navy-type coffins be used but also special Navy canvas shrouds.

The new project is being well-received by Navy officials, the partners said, and they have been told they can use the wharf at Treasure Island to pick up cargoes directly from a chapel there. (The Navy only provides sea burial for persons on active duty, not dependents or retired persons — but many families want it, the men said.)

Coutts estimated a complete funeral (including cremation or casket) could be purchased for between $500 and $600 compared to what he called the $1,500-minimum now possible in the Bay Area.

Motto of the new firm, whose boat will make pickups at any Bay Area dock, is "Internment at sea with dignity." The partners insisted that the word "interment" is for earth burials and that the additional "n" is necessary for those in the ocean.

Possible Remap Solution

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Lt. Gov.Ed Reinecke says a special commission he heads is prepared to reapportion the Legislature and congressional seats if lawmakers fail to do it.

Lawmakers have recessed until Dec. 17 to give reapportionment experts time to design plans and allow a period for inter-party negotiations.

Reinecke said he believes the commission would withstand a court challenge by Democrats, who contend it is unconstitutional.

"I personally feel it is a valid constitutional concept," Reinecke told newsmen Tuesday. "At the appropriate time, it will be put into effect."

However, he was unsure when the "appropriate time" would arise. Reinecke said he is reviewing the situation but will move only if lawmakers fail to agree on redistricting their plans are vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"If the Legislature can do it, I'm sure the plan would be upheld in court," the lieutenant governor said.

The constitution outlines a special commission composed of the lieutenant governor, state controller, treasurer, attorney general, secretary of state and state superintendent of public instruction to redistrict California if lawmakers cannot. Reinecke would be the chairman and Republicans would control it 3-2.

Meanwhile, legislative reapportionment experts began drafting new plans for both houses and the state's enlarged —from 38 to 43—congressional delegation.

Democrats kept pressing Reagan to assure them he would sign any proposal agreed to by Republicans. The governor refused.

"I cannot give away in advance, sight unseen, my veto power," he told newsmen when adding reapportionment to the special session agenda.

Senate Democrats and Republicans had worked out a bipartisan plan but the governor insisted on reviewing it.

The Assembly passed a partisan plan increasing the Democrats' majority from 42-38 to 44-36. Neither proposal could get the approval of the other House. Neither reached Reagan's desk.

Senate reapportionment chairman Mervyn Dymally began drafting a new plan he said will be based on the bipartisan measure.

"The first thing I'm going to do is protect our 21 guys," he said, referring to the 21 Senate Democrats. "But it won't hurt the Republicans.

Dymally also said he "hopefully" will design a Chicano district in East Los Angeles, but declined to elaborate anymore, except to say that Republican Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino of Ojai would continue to represent the area of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

7-YEAR BATTLE ENDS: WITHHOLDING LAW

Reagan Signs Bill At Airport — California Last To Adopt Method

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan today signed a bill establishing state income tax withholding in California— the nation's last holdout for the federal-type payroll deduction system.

Reagan, once a staunch apponent of withholding who two years ago "just could not hold out any longer," signed the historic act at the Los Angeles International Airport after flying from a football awards dinner in New York.

For a man on a $12,000 annual salary with a wife and two children it will mean $11.10 less in the monthly paycheck.

The legislature, accomplishing in a two-day special session what it couldn't do during an 11-month record regular session, Tuesday dramatically passed the measure after only a brief debate in both Houses.

The Assembly passed it 57-12 and the Senate followed 27-4.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, voted for the bill. Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was absent and did not vote.

Withholding was the key feature of a bill raising taxes this fiscal year by $501 million to plug a $310 million revenue gap in the $6.8 billion state budget, finance $150 million in building construction, pump $21 million into business inventory tax relief and provide the state with a $20 million fiscal cushion.

Withholding will bring in $420 million this fiscal year and business-oriented taxes will net the state another $81 million.

California is the last of the 38 states levying an income tax to impose some form of withholding.

"We followed the progressive state of Mississippi," observed the bill's jubilant author, Bagley, one of the first Republicans in the legislature to advocate withholding.

The State Department of Human Resources Development began mailing detailed withholding instructions to 400,000 employers. The state estimated 90 per cent of California's businesses will be able to inaugurate the payroll deduction system on Jan. 1, but conceded some of the largest corporations will not be able to tool up in time. They will not be penalized.

The bill's passage saved the state from having to issue registered warrant I.O.U.s, a device not used since the great depression. Controller Houston I. Flournoy had been prepared to issue the script about Christmas to pay the state's creditors.

The bill extended the state's authority to sale tax anticipation notes, a step up from warrants. Neither will be necessary after Jan. 1 because withholding will even out the state's cash flow.

Californians will pay 80 per cent more state income tax during the first year of with-

Orr Was Incompetent, Another Policeman Says

By LARRY MOWELL

The city's eighth witness against Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr took the stand last night to add to the record more assertions of incompetence on the part of the chief and favoritism toward police matron and clerk Marsha Kittelman.

Officer Michael Morarity — testifying before the Fairfax Board of Review hearing Orr's appeal of his firing in September — made these points:

That Mrs. Kittelman was permitted to call the chief "dumdum" to his face, give orders in his name, study during working hours and, on occasion, flout his orders.

That the chief was strongly influenced by Mrs. Kittelman in departmental administration, that he was on occasion drunk and quarrelsome, failed to provide adequate training of personnel, and did not maintain a chain of command.

Morarity's testimony, all elicited on direct examination by City Atty. Wallace S. Myers, was largely repetitive and in support of previous testimony by other officers.

Cross examination by Orr's attorney, Leonard Shaw, is scheduled for tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Fairfax Women's Club. About 40 persons attended last night's session.

Morarity — whose tendency to wander from the point of questions was curbed five times by review board member Freeman Blake — said he had discussed the chief and his clerk-matron with all the officers on the force and "we all agreed that Mrs. Kittelman had very, very unusual influence on the chief and his decisions."

He said her nickname in the department had been 5-A-2, code name for the chief's immediate subordinate in the chain of command.

He said she was often missing during working hours but only once to his knowledge did Orr rebuke her. He said she once reported back to work almost six hours after being released as a court witness. Orr confronted her with the fact, but dropped the matter when she said she "had things to do," he said.

Morarity also said the chief had ignored his request to attend two police courses Mrs. Kittelman had gone to.

Among 20 charges against Orr are allegations that he improperly made Mrs. Kittelman a policewoman, showed favoritism to her and engaged in improper social relations with her.

Morarity terrified that evidence was lost or disposed of by Orr on at least two occasions and that there was no procedure for handling evidence.

He said some rules did exist, but "to the best of my knowledge, none of these rules and procedures have ever been enforced since the beginning on my employment."

The officer said that when he

Rehnquist Gains A 'Liberal'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today he would vote in favor of confirmation of William H. Rehnquist to the Supreme court.

Proxmire, who usually votes with Senate liberals, said in a Senate speech that he had had more pressure brought on him by his friends to vote against Rehnquist than any other Supreme Court nominee since he has been in the Senate.

"My friends almost unanimously oppose him," Proxmire said. "But I have become convinced that the case has not been made that Rehnquist does not understand or support the Bill of Rights."

Debate on the Rehnquist nominatio began Monday and almost all of it has been waged by opposing liberals —so much so that they have been accused of filibustering.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said he had a petition to bring the debate to a halt —a cloture motion —ready to file, although he told reporters later that he would not file it today.

Plan For Strawberry Apartments Approved

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, which last month criticized an architect's drawings of an apartment development overlooking Strawberry, took a fresh look at it yesterday and approved it. (Other supervisor's stories, page 3.)

Approval came on a 3-to-2 vote with Supervisors Arnold Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni opposing the high density of the project proposed for the ridge south of the Town and Country Village Shopping Center.

However, other superivosrs liked what they saw in the new renderings of the Sea Port Hills development which propose 334 apartment units to be constructed on the hill in two phases.

The first phase of 200 units will concentrate development on the ridgetop giving the appearance of one large building along the skyline. The second phase will be built on the slopes below.

Architect Karl Treffinger said his project will leave most of the 24-acre site undeveloped and deeded to the county as a open space easement.

"We felt it had a better visual impact on the community by keeping the buildings together rather than scattering them around," said Treffinger, drawing a comparison to the Shelter Ridge development above the Tiburon turnoff on Highway 101.

Supervisor John F. McInnis, who switched his position to support the project, said the new renderings which related building size to surrounding open space did not give as objectionable an impression as those presented the board last month.

Those drawing, which showed just the buildings, were then labled "freightening" by the board.

Development Firm Loses Permit Bid

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A superior court judge yesterday rejected a plea by a development firm that he order Richardson Bay Sanitary District to grant it virtually all available sewer permits.

Judge Ira A. Brown Jr., also angrily denounced the sanitary district for its "contemptuous" failure to file written documents by the Nov. 29 deadline he had ordered, found the district guilty of contempt of court and fined it $500 — payable before the close of business today.

Attorneys for the district admitted to the judge that they were to blame for the failure to file the documents in the suit, but declined to tell the Independent-Journal whether they or the district taxpayers would pay the fine.

One of the two, Michael R. Nave of San Mateo, told the judge that the court order "be-

Yosemite Winds Down 200 Trees

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) —High winds knocked down an estimated 200 trees in the park Tuesday night blocking roads. There were no reported injuries.

Lew Albert, park spokesman, said there was only one known case of minor structural damage when a falling tree clipped the corner of Yosemite Lodge.

Albert said 16 trees, with diameters ranging up to 30 inches, fell in a two-mile stretch of the Badger Pass road.

U.S. Steel Given Nod To Hike Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Price Commission has granted an increase averaging 3.6 per cent to U.S. Steel Corp.

The action, announced late yesterday in a two paragraph statement, gave U.S. Steel permission to boost prices for its entire line of products between now and Aug. 1.

A Surprise In Portland: Snow

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)— Northwest Oregonians woke up to a surprise snowfall today.

Morning rush hour traffic in Portland snarled and a few schools closed as up to two inches fell. By 8 a.m. though it was raining in downtown Portland and forecasters called for a warming trend.

Travelers warnings were up in the Columbia Gorge, the Cascades and eastern Oregon— where 2 to 4 inches of snow was expected.

Angela Trial To Be In San Jose

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — The trial of Angela Y. Davis will be held in San Jose, Santa Clara County Superior Court Presiding Judge John T. Raconelli ruled today.

He set no date for the beginning of Miss Davis's trial on murder, kidnap and conspiracy charges arising from the Aug. 7, 1970 shoot-out at the Marin County Civic Center.

Berlin Visit Hopes Dashed

BERLIN (UPI)—East Germany rejected Wednesday a compromise plan to open the wall, allowing West Berliners to visit the East, West German officials announced. Mayor Klaus Schuetz said the deadlock dashed hopes the East Germans would open the wall over Christmas for family reunions.

The wall talks which were broken off early Saturday resumed Tuesday night and made such progress the West German government spokesman told newsmen they probably would be completed Wednesday.

But Schuetz said the East Germans backed down at the last minute.

Nonstrikers Ask For Ouster Of AFT As Bargaining Agent

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Nonstriking lay teachers at seven Bay Area Roman Catholic high schools today called upon strikers to disavow the American Federation of Teachers and called for the ouster of the union as sole bargaining agent.

The nonstrikers, saying a majority of teachers back them, deplored strike tactics such as last Friday's sit-in, and laid the strife at the door of the AFT.

About 110 teachers — members of the Secondary Teachers Association — walked off the job Nov. 15 in a bid for better pay and improved working conditions, later affiliating with the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO. Among the schools struck was Marin Catholic in Kentfield.

In a news conference today, the nonstrikers challenged the AFT as representing a majority of the high school teachers, and attacked its position at the bargaining table. The group said it had a petition signed by 95 of the Archdiocese's 165 teachers that supported its stand. The document will be forwarded to federal mediator Gene Barry, who had been presiding over bargaining, now stalled, the group said.

"We reaffirm our conviction that the Secondary Teachers Association should be the sole collective bargaining agent for the diocesan lay teachers," a group statement said.

"We deplore the tactics which have been inspired by the AFT — tactics which we consider totally incongrous with a professional teacher in a Catholic school," the statement went on. It cited alleged inciting and manipulation of students to achieve AFT ends and alleged harassment of substitute teachers, as well as last week's sit-in at the archdiocesan offices, which led to 19 arrests.

"In spite of the AFT activities, 11 striking teachers have returned to work," the statement said.

A spokesman, Joel Kiff, a Marin Catholic teacher, hinted at possible court action challenging the AFT's presence if no action is taken on its demands.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Prison View

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger told a National Conference on Corrections yesterday that a criminal sentence should permit an inmate to "learn his way out of prison."

Burger said figures on literacy alone are enough "to make one wish that every sentence imposed could include a provision that would grant release when the prisoner has learned to read and write, to do simple arithmetic, and then to develop some basic skill that is saleable in the marketplace . . . to which he must some day return."

Cancer Fund

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $1.5 billion program to find a cure for cancer was approved yesterday by a House-Senate conference committee.

The compromise bill takes a House approach to strengthen and expand the existing National Cancer Institute. The Senate wanted to establish a new independent conquest of cancer agency.

The compromise bill calls for spending $400 million in this fiscal year, $500 million in fiscal 1973, and $600 million in fiscal 1974.

New Postmaster General

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Elmer T. (Ted) Klassen started his career in private business in 1925 when he joined American Can Co. as a 17-year-old office boy.

Klassen

Yesterday, Klassen was named U.S. Postmaster General and placed in charge of the 750,000-employe U.S. Postal Service.

Klassen, 63, of Conway, Mass., who rose to president of American Can, succeeded Winton M. Blount, who left the postmaster general's post to ponder a try at winning election to the U.S. Senate from Alabama.

Klassen was elected postmaster general by the Postal Service's nine-man board of governors. He was a member of the board.

Frederick R. Kappel, former chairman of the board of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., was named chairman of the postal board.

Belfast Shooting

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Three masked gunmen burst into the home of a part-time soldier late Tuesday and shot him to death in his bed, police said.

Pvt. Dennis Wilson, 31, was half-awake and trying to scramble out of bed when the gunmen marched into his room and opened fire. He was killed instantly.

Wilson was a member of the Ulster Defense Regiment (UDR), a paramilitary force comparable to a civilian militia or national guard.

Disabled Robot

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet scientific robot sat disabled on hurricane-swept Mars today, having sent man's first television signals from the surface of the planet.

Tass news agency reports said the robot explorer had parachuted into a black hurricane of dust driving across Mars at speeds of up to 300 miles per hour when it descended from the Mars 3 mother ship Dec. 2. Its mission was to probe for life forms.

Torrico Passes Bar

Edward Torrico of 520 C Street, San Rafael, also was among the Marin County residents who successfully passed the 1971 fall bar examinations. His name was omitted from the list published yesterday.

Fire Alert

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The fire department declared a "major emergency" today as gale force winds spread a score of brush fires through the populous northeastern rim of the Los Angeles basin, but firefighters held off the flames and only a few homes were damaged.

The emergency was in effect for about two hours, and all the fires were reported contained before dawn.

Houston Mayor

HOUSTON (UPI) — Louie Welch, a conservative law-and-order advocate who Tuesday became the first five-term mayor in Houston's history, called his victory over young Fred Hofheinz "the sweetest ever."

"I am very proud," Welch said. This was an endorsement of my four terms in office."

Apollo 16 Ship

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— The Apollo 16 moonship was mounted on its Saturn 5 rocket in the towering assembly building today in a major step toward launch March 17.

The whole 363-foot assembly is scheduled to be moved to the oceanside launch pad next Monday.

Muskie Sets Date For Announcement

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine said today he would formally declare his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination on Jan. 4.

Muskie made the announcement at a news conference at which Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., and California assembly speaker Bob Moretti endorsed the Maine Democrat's candidacy.

Muskie's statement confirmed earlier reports from his staff and from CBS-TV, which said Muskie had reserved 10 minutes of air time for a nationwide broadcast that night.

Tunney, a close friend of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said that he took Kennedy "at his word that he is not a candidate."

Tunney said he planned to head a California delegation commited to Muskie and said he hoped that Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., would join him as co-chairman.

Muskie said he was even more interested in the help that they would give him in the campaign. "I will lean on them heavily, both in the California campaign and elsewhere," he said.

Muskie said he was revealing the date of his formal declaration because of constant questioning by reporters.

"On Jan. 4 I will announce my intentions for the coming year," he said, adding that the strategy had been to put himself into the best possible position by the beginning of 1972.

"The preparatory period will end on Jan. 4," he said.

No Case, Says Kent Prosecutor

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI)—The Ohio attorney general, conceding "we just didn't have enough to go on," asked that charges be dropped against the remaining 20 defendants in the Kent State violence.

Attorney General William J. Brown made his unexpected announcement Tuesday. A Portage County Court jury had just acquitted the fourth of 25 persons indicted on charges stemming from the May1970 disorders at Kent in which National Guardsmen shot and killed four students.

The dismissal order was delayed by legal technicalities, expected to be cleared up today.

Weight-Measure System Hit

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Public Interest Law Center Tuesday questioned the effectiveness of California's weights and measures control system in protecting the consumer.

"It's suffering from what I call the Rip Van Winkle Syndrome-controlled slumber," Center Director Ray Bourhis said in releasing a 109-page report on the system.

But in Sacramento Walter Watson, chief of the state's Bureau of Weights and Measures, called the charge "utter nonsense."

Watson said, "I know we're doing a good job ... As a matter of fact, the chances are 20 to one in California that the consumer gets the stated amount of what he buys—or more."

Last month Bourhis said Californians were losing at least $30.6 million a year because of short-weighing in retail stores.

Bill Would Halter The President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The course has been set for a Senate vote next year, during the presidential campaign, on sweeping legislation to stop Presidents from committing American troops abroad on their own.

The unusual bill, which would require a President to obtain Congressional consent for committing troops to battle for longer than 30 days, cleared the Senate Foreign Relations Committee 13 to 0 Tuesday, despite opposition from the administration. It has strong bipartisan backing from both hawks and doves. Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, is one of its authors.

The debate, likely to begin in the spring, probably will become the primary focus of Vietnam war critics and its timing to coincide with the campaign is considered fortunate by its sponsors. In the past, ex-Senators who have become Presidents have been known to lose their sensitivity to the powers of Congress in the foreign policy field, and backers of the bill believe the debate will force candidates to pledge themselves to be more considerate of Congress if they get elected.

B52s Hit Cong HQ; 100 Killed

SAIGON (UPI)—High-flying U.S. B52 bombers, guided to targets pinpointed by elite South Vietnamese ground troops, early this week attacked a suspected Viet Cong headquarters in Cambodia and killed at least 100 Communists, military sources said today.

Far to the north, supersonic American jet fighters twice attacked anti-aircraft gun and missile sites inside North Vietnam in a pair of "protective reaction" raids, the U.S. command said.

The Communists also fired a pair of surface-to-air missiles (SAMS) at a third flight of U.S. jet fighters, but the pilots flew back to their aircraft carrier instead of attacking the missile sites, spokesmen said.

The Cambodian high command said nightlong fighting was reported at several points along the outskirts of Phnom Penh while U.S. helicopter gunships circled the city to aid Cambodian troops.

In Saigon, military spokesmen said seven Americans were injured Monday night when South Vietnamese officers "accidentally" threw a live cannon round into a U.S. officers' hut at Danang.

American ground troops Tuesday fought the first battle inside South Vietnam in four days. Two Communists were killed and six U.S. soldiers were wounded before American helicopters drove the Communists back into the jungles, 63 miles northeast of Saigon.

South Vietnamese officers said waves of B52s dumped hundreds of tons of high explosive bombs on the Chup rubber plantation, believed to house the headquarters of the Viet Cong 9th Division.

Members of the elite long range patrols scouted Chup for two days, avoiding contact with the Communists in order to pinpoint headquarters and supply areas in the plantation, centered 60 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

South Vietnamese troops have been sweeping around the former French plantation since they began their latest massive drive into Cambodia Nov. 23, officers said.

"There were at least 100 Communists killed. There were perhaps up to 1,000 or more killed," spokesmen said.

Lawsuit In Schoolbook Case Urged

Assemblyman Floyd L. Wakefield, R-Downey, has recommended that a taxpayers' suit be brought against San Rafael High School District for spending tax money to purchase copies of "The Movement Toward a New America."

Thirty-five copies of the book were bought for use in an American government class in San Rafael High School.

If a taxpayers' suit cannot be initiated locally, Wakefield wrote Monday to Paul L. Jones, chairman of the San Rafael Board of Education, "I personally intend to call this matter to the attorney general's attention, as well as the board of education and the curriculum committee."

The Downey assemblyman wrote that he had been visited in Sacramento by "some concerned citizens and students from San Rafael" who "are very disturbed with the use of the book." Wakefield did not identify the citizens or students who visited him, nor indicate why he was selected for their visit.

"After having reviewed the book," he wrote Jones, "I strongly advised these people to contact legal counsel in their city and the district attorney for the purpose of bringing about a taxpayers' suit . . .

"I also recommend that action should be taken against the teacher responsible for introducing this book to the students, with a view toward removing her from her position, as I feel she has acted in a most irresponsible manner."

The books were purchased for use by Mrs. Virginia Franklin in her American government class. After protests from some citizens, the board of education referred the matter to a faculty committee, which has not yet reported.

Carillon Duty Refund Is Voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House has passed for a second time the bill to repay the University of California at Santa Barbara $8,160.35 paid in duties on an imported carillon.

Similar legislation was passed by the House in the previous Congress but the bill died when the House would not accept a Senate amendment to the measure.

In recommending that no duty be charged on the imported bells valued at $6,046, the House Ways and Means Committee said they were not being produced in the United States.

Five Women Picked As Customs Agents

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Customs Bureau has announced the appointment of five women as customs agents. They were the first women ever named to the corps of agents which detects narcotics smuggling and investigates other customs-related fraud.

The five were Janet Ingram, 29, Denver, one of the first women sky marshals named last year; Susan Rowley, 25, Miami; Geraldine Baker, 25, New York; Sarah Durantan 23, Boston; and Phyllis Barrett, 24, New Orleans.

She Just Can't Understand

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)— Blonde Riki Chaist just can't understand why she faces court action on indecent exposure charges for going topless on a beach.

"Here cities are being destroyed. minds are being destroyed and I'm arrested for going topless," she said in court Tuesday. She was supposed to go on trial then, but the district attorney asked for a postponement.

"They print pictures of people being killed bat won't print pictures of the human body in its natural form," said the statuesque 22-year-old defendant. "To me pictures of people being killed are obscene but a naked person isn't obscene."

New Auditorium Storm Brewing

The new Marin Veteran's Memorial Building — already the center of one controversy over musicians — may become the center of another, Marin County supervisors were warned yesterday. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

No sooner had supervisors agreed to delay discussion of one controversy by continuing a moratorium on rock concerts than they were told a musicians' union has demanded 16 musicians be employed for performances at the audiotrium whether needed or not.

The demand prompted chairman Louis H. Baar, an opponent of rock at the memorial building, to ask, "When can they start their first pickets?"

The "minimum number" of musicians was demanded in a letter from the Musicians Union No. 6 of San Francisco, which this week ended music on the Sausalito — San Francisco ferry with a similar demand. The union, said Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella, "believes it has unilateral power to set a minimum."

Asked whether a "house band" would be required during such nontheatrical events as dog shows, Campanella said the letter was vague on that point.

The supervisors referred the letter back to its staff for further clarification from the union.

The board continued its moratorium on rock music concerts until a policy guideline is established regulating the auditorium's use.

Supervisor John F. McInnis, working on the policy, said he didn't expect it to be completed until mid-January.

Cycle Taken Form Under A Staircase

A 1970 Kawasaki motorcycle, with license 8A2023, was stolen yesterday from under a staircase at the residence of its owner, San Rafael police reported today.

Police said the tan and gold vehicle was stolen between 5 and 6 p.m. from outside the residence of Kenneth Vernon of 260 Canal Street.

'Garbage Can Tax' Is Sought

Marin County residents may be in for another tax — a "garbage can tax" to finance recycling.

The proposal, made yesterday by Supervisor Michael Wornum, envisions the county taking the lead in recycling old cans and bottles since the demise last Wednesday of the Whole Systems, Inc. recycling depot.

Supervisors appeared receptive to Wornum's idea, directing the county administrators office to investigate how the county could initiate such a project.

The "garbage can tax" could provide the added revenue to support private recycling operations which apparently run on a marginal basis at best, Wornum said.

Whole Systems officials complained last month that their operation was folding due to declining participation by residents and the resulting loss in revenue.

"Possibly a 5 cent tax on garbage cans" could make such an operation feasible, Wornum said.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said he would work with Marin's 11 communities to see if a coordinated approach to recycling could be achieved.

Presumably, the five-cent tax could be added to garage garbage collection bills and then collected from the refuge companies.

Camper Is Looted

Robert Morgan, 1155 Bodega Avenue, Petaluma, told police that a tool box and rifle valued at $370 were stolen from his camper truck yesterday while parked in the municipal lot adjacent to the Petaluma River.

Concert Set At Mission

The Sonoma State College Chorus, Opera Workshop, Children's Chorus and Philharmonic will combine to perform Heinrich Schutz's "The Christmas Story" Tuesday at 8 p.m. at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael.

The concert is drawn from a 17th Century piece of music based on the birth of Christ.

Principal soloist will be tenor Donald Andrews, who plays the part of an evangelist. The Children's Chorus, formed last year, will feature Gerald Moynihan, 11, and Amy Daggett, 12, both of Petaluma.

Admission is free.

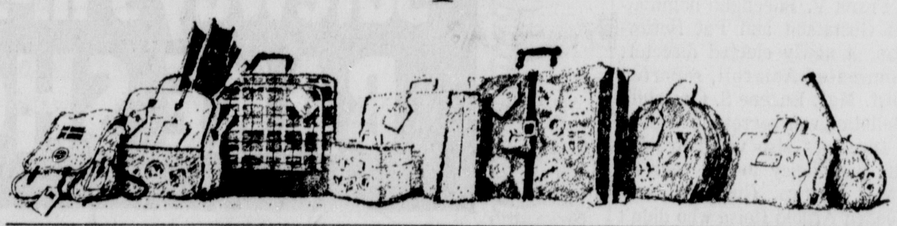
For the first time the world's largest travel company offers charter flight tours to Europe.

Now, without membership in any organization, you can save up to $324* by flying the new European charter tours created by American Express.



Why American Express saves you money.
Because American Express Company is now chartering entire planes, your air transportation is computed at the charter rate which is lower than any non-charter rate charged by regular I.A.T.A. carriers.

This means substantial savings (savings of up to $324 on the total tour price) to you.

In effect, we have been able to lower the price of a ticket. With no strings attached. You don't have to join any clubs in advance. This offer is open to anyone.

We have 18 different charter flight/escorted tour itineraries. With 189 different departures. There are 16-day tours, 23-day tours and 30-day tours.

The land portion of the tours begin either in London, Athens or Malaga. We will fly you to one of these destinations, depending on the tour you have chosen.

Carefree 1

Day 1	Depart Los Angeles
Day 2	Arrive London—free time
Day 3	London—local sightseeing
Day 4	Motorcoach and hovercraft to Paris
Day 5	Paris—local sightseeing
Day 6	Motorcoach to Dijon and Montreux
Day 7	Motorcoach to Geneva
Day 8	Motorcoach to Rhone Valley and Stresa
Day 9	Motorcoach to Milan and Rome
Day 10	Rome—local sightseeing
Day 11	Motorcoach to Florence
Day 12	Motorcoach to Venice
Day 13	Motorcoach to Cortina and Innsbruck
Day 14	Motorcoach to Munich, Nuremberg and Rudesheim
Day 15	Motorcoach to Luxembourg and Brussels
Day 16	Direct flight Brussels to Los Angeles

16 Days—8 Countries—from $498

That's just one itinerary. There are 17 more charter tour itineraries in the "Charters to Europe" book ranging in price from $498 to $1149. American Express also has 85 regular, non-charter European tours to choose from in the 236-page "The Europe Book."

Decide where you want to go and how much time you have to spend. The chances are we have exactly what you want. At the price you want to pay.

Where they leave from and when.
All American Express charter tour flights leave from Los Angeles on Saturday and return on a Sunday. And all fly direct to Europe from Los Angeles. They begin in April, 1972 and carry through the end of September, 1972. With flights leaving every weekend, we certainly offer a tour that fits your schedule.

American Express, a trusted name for 122 years.
The American Express name is one of the best known in the tour business. 122 years of service testifies to the reliability and trustworthiness of the world's largest travel company.

And we stand behind our name.

All the planes on the charter flight tours are Douglas super DC-8's. The same jet aircraft used by many major scheduled airlines. They are operated by World Airways, the largest supplemental carrier in the world.

Your accommodations in Europe.
Over the years American Express has gained the reputation of giving excellent value to travelers. The reasons are easily understood.

Because we bring so many travelers to Europe, hotels, restaurants and sites of interest are anxious to please us. They give our customers the very best of attention.

The American Express Network.
American Express Company and its subsidiaries and representatives also have over 800 offices around the world. So, if for any reason you need assistance, the chances are that one of our people will be on hand. You can stop worrying about being alone if an emergency arrives. This is most important for the first-time European traveler. And it can't hurt the experienced traveler either.

Motorcoaches used in Europe are luxurious, air-conditioned and custom-made to American Express specifications. Most are new. We doubt that anyone else can offer you more comfortable vehicles.

American Express will never leave you stranded in Europe.
With American Express standing behind your charter flight, you need never worry about being stranded in Europe. You have complete peace of mind that no matter what happens to prevent you from returning with your tour group, American Express will get you home. The resources of the world's largest travel company guarantee this.

AMERICAN EXPRESS
Cancellation Protection
This certificate can save you hundreds of dollars in air fare charges. American Express guarantees 100 percent refund if cancellation occurs for a permitted reason up to 24 hours before departure.

American Express will also guarantee a 100% refund of your total tour cost if your plans change for a permitted reason and you must cancel...provided the cancellation takes place up to 24 hours before scheduled departure.

All details are explained in the free "Charters To Europe" book offered in the coupon below.

How to find out more about our European tours.
Fill in the coupon and send it to us. We will send you our new 60-page, illustrated "Charters To Europe" book as well as our regular 236-page "The Europe Book." Both spell out every tour's itinerary and provide much useful information for the traveler. Both are free, of course.

You may also pick up copies of both books at any American Express Travel Office or at your local travel agent.

U.N. Asks End To Fighting In India

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The U.N. General Assembly voted overwhelmingly after nine hours of nonstop debate last night to call on India and Pakistan to observe a cease-fire and withdraw their troops from each other's territory. Diplomats said today India would ignore the resolution.

Stepping in after the Security Council deadlocked three times in efforts to act on the five-day-old Indo-Pakistani war, the 131-member assembly voted 104-11 with 10 abstentions to adopt the cease-fire resolution introduced by Argentina and endorsed by 31 other nations.

The Soviet Union vetoed two nearly identical resolutions in the Council Saturday and Sunday.

Indian Ambassador Samar Sen said his government would study the truce resolution carefully but said, "What is unrealistic about it is that if it is implemented, the West Pakistanis could go on killing the Bangla Desh (East Pakistani) people."

Several diplomats close to the Indian U.N. delegation said India would ignore the resolution. Israel for four years has disregarded a resolution by the Security Council—which, unlike the Assembly, has powers of enforcement—calling on it to withdraw from the Arab territory it seized during the 1967 war.

Pakistani Ambasador Agha Shaki said the assembly vote was "a great decision for the future. The assembly has taken action with overwhelming support, and the membership has shown that it is determined to assert itself."

Justice Abu Sayeed Chowdhury, chairman of the unofficial rebel East Pakistani U.N. delegation, expressed dissatisfaction with the resolution and said, "Nothing short of independence of Bangla Desh ... will be acceptable to the people of Bangla Desh."

Pakistan, the United States and China voted in favor of the measure. India, the Soviet Union and its East European satellites—with the exception of Romania and Yugoslavia— voted against the resolution.

Pleas Are Entered In Pot Charges

Three men arrested in a big narcotics raid in May of last year have pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and will be sentenced on Jan. 10 in Marin Superior Court.

Michael Gene Ludwig, 28, of Tamalpais Valley admitted having marijuana for sale on May 15, 1970. Norman Novitsky, 25, of no known address, and Ivan Kezsbom, 24, of Mill Valley admitted having marijuana in their possession.

The three and Douglas Edward Rambo, 30, of Wood Lane, Fairfax, were arrested in raids at Rambo's home and at 240 Mountain View Avenue in Tamalpais Valley.

Police and narcotics agents seized a half-ton of marijuana and $23,000 in cash in the round-up.

Rambo, also charged with trying to smuggle a barge load of marijuana into Long Beach, has been missing for three months. A warrant for his arrest was issued in September when he failed to show up in Marin Superior Court. In Long Beach, he faces federal charges of trying to smuggle marijuana into this country.

In addition, Rambo was arrested on Sept. 24, 1970, with two suspected marijuana cigarettes in his pocket. While being taken to Marin County Jail, agents said Rambo offered them $5,800 in cash he had hidden in his boot for turning him loose. The officers turned the cash over to the Internal Revenue Service and slapped a charge of attempted bribery against Rambo.

Theft, Molesting Sentence Given

Floyd Kermit Ware, 20, of San Francisco, was sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a state prison term of one year to life for burglary and child molesting.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner sentenced Ware for burglary of a home of Edgewood Avenue and for molesting a 12-year-old girl at her home on Cypress Avenue, both in Mill Valley, last Aug. 17.

A jury of four men and eight women found Ware guilty last Friday following more than eight hours of deliberation.

Ware had a prior burglary conviction in Marin in November 1970, for which he drew three years' probation and a suspended prison sentence.

He also faces trial on a rape charge in San Francisco.

Mobile Post Office For Holiday Rush

The unit will be open from 10:30 to 2:30 p.m. daily except Sundays through Dec. 18.

ORR

first reported to work in 1969, he was sent on patrol without any instruction and did not learn to use police shotguns until six months after he joined the force.

Morarity also mentioned two instances when he thought the chief had been drinking and quarrelled. In one case, the chief threw a beer bottle at a motorist and in the other Orr was in a fight at a bar, he said.

Shaw objected to testimony on these matters saying they were not in the charges, but was overruled.

In addition to the charges involving Mrs. Kittelman, Orr is charged with drunkenness, both on and off duty, failing to set up proper procedures and training, dismissing parking tickets without justification, failing to care for evidence and threatening his officers.

Morarity confirmed previous testimony by Police Sgt. Melvin Dollahite and Officer James Davis that Orr — apparently after drinking — had challenged Davis in 1970, but like them did not explain what caused the incident nor what the challenge meant.

Dollahite, who began testifying Saturday, said under cross-examination last night that regulations drawn up by Orr when he took office in 1962 were not bad, but in need of revision.

Dollahite also testified he felt more letters of commendation should have been given and said he was sometimes denied permission to go to juvenile meetings.

However, he said the chief's excuse that he was needed in town had merit.

Board member Alfred F. Daubenfeld, an attorney, asked the sergeant if he had formed any impressions about the social relations of Orr and Mrs. Kittelman, but never got an answer. Shaw objected to the question and Daubenfeld's colleagues upheld the objection.

Parking Plan Revision Asked For Apartments

The Petaluma Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday asked that parking plans be redrawn for a proposed 78-unit apartment complex.

Asst. Planner Richard D.A. Anderson said the board delayed action on the plans by Irving Caster Association for the apartments at 205 Douglas Street.

Anderson said the board asked that covered carports planned for the perimeter of the site be relocated to the center to increase open space around the buildings.

In other actions, the board approved plans by Rollins Enterprises to build a duplex at 1062 and 1064 Antone Way, but denied the request of Harold Gager for a triplex behind an existing home at 22 Cherry Street, saying it would set a bad precedent for the area.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

Arthur Michael Farmer, 18, of Novato pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of burglarizing a San Rafael home on Dec. 3.

San Rafael police arrested Farmer on Latham Street carrying an armful of clothing believed taken from the home of Peter Martens of 25 Hayes Street.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 21 as the time for preliminary hearing.

Prison Term

SEOUL (UPI) — Kim Chull, head of South Korea's splinter opposition United Socialist party, was found guilty Wednesday of violating the anti-Communist law and given a suspended sentence of one year in prison.

Vote Is Set On School Tax Rate

The Petaluma Board of Education last night set a March 21 election to seek voter approval to increase the elementary district tax rate by 88 cents and the high school district tax rate by 68 cents.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said the board will seek approval to increase the elementary tax rate from $1.83 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.71. The high school district rate would go from $1.55 to $2.23 per $100 assessed valuation, if voters approve.

Meyer said the board agreed at last night's special session that additional tax revenue was necessary to avoid further reductions in teaching programs. In attempting to juggle the budget last spring, the board reduced the teaching staff, cut drastically into the purchase of materials and textbooks and considered cutting educational programs.

Voters last Feburary defeated a tax rate increase election by a margin of 2-1. The board had asked for a 95 cent increase for the high school district and 67 cents for the elementary district.

Meyer told the board he believed the increase would suffice for two years. At that time, he said, additional money is expected to be available from the state.

He said the board was optimistic that the second election try would be successful since needs of the districts are now more evident to the community.

TAXES

holding. This will be caused by a sudden speedup in tax collections as citizens begin paying taxes as they earn their income—not months later, as now.

To lessen the initial burden of having current taxes collected through withholding while also making a lump sum payment in April on 1971 wages, the legislature authorized a 20 per cent "credit" on 1971 taxes.

Not covered by withholding will be farm workers, ministers, private domestic employes, newsboys under 18 and military personnel.

Reagan was a staunch opponent of withholding when first elected governor in 1966, declaring: "I will not step back. My feet are in concrete on my opposition to withholding."

Early in 1970 the Republican governor dramatically reversed his position. "That sound you hear is the concrete cracking around my feet," he told newsmen in explaining that the demand for property tax relief (still undelivered by the legislature), the state's critical cash flow and inflation had changed things.

By Tuesday's vote, most Republican legislators had switched over with Reagan, but not all.

"I hope you live to have to pay the penalty to the people of California for this damnable thing," Veteran Assemblyman John L. E. (Bud) Collier, R-Los Angeles, shouted to his colleagues.

Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, observed that Tuesday was the 30th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and added, "the only thing being sunk today is the taxpayers of California. It's a tragic day."

Planning Commission Is Reformed

The Rohnert Park City Council last night appointed five men to its newly reestablished planning commission.

Appointees and their terms include Michael Mullins and Raymond Goff, four years; James Steinberg, president of the Rohnert Park Homeowners Association, and Eugene Grenache, two-year terms, and James Cronin, past president of the Homeowners Association, one-year term.

Other applicants interviewed by the council were Richard Blair, Thomas Coffman, Jean Bennett, Karl J. Clark, Philip Rush, Richard Day, Arthur Hollingsworth, Clarence Santy, John Giertz and Gordon Adam.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the council interviewed each candidate in closed session and then questioned them publicly before making the appointments.

The commissioners will be sworn in at the Dec. 20 city council meeting and officially take office in January. Meeting dates for the commission have not been set.

The planning commission had been disbanded three years ago, but the council voted in October to reinstate it on the urging of homeowner groups. Residents convinced the council that the city growth and increasing rate of development warranted reinstatement of the commission.

Probation Meted Out In Hash Sale

Jeffrey David Wyard, 26, of Missoula, Mont., has been sentenced to three years' supervised probation for possession of hashish for sale.

Wyard pleaded guilty on Nov. 1 and was sentenced Monday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court.

Wyard was arrested with David Stuart King, 26, of Billings, Mont., Dec. 16, 1969, at the Fountain motel in Mill Valley, where agents said they found more than $134,000 worth of hashish and $24,000 in cash.

Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony recommended a state prison term, but a probation officer urged probation, explaining that Wyard had a responsible job and was never in serious trouble before or following the hashish raid.

King also pleaded guilty on Nov. 1 to hashish possession for sale and will appear in court on Dec. 13 for sentencing.

Charges against a third man caught in the same raid were dismissed last month on grounds that he was illegally searched.

OBITUARIES

MRS. DeCARLI

Requiem Mass for Lilly Anna DeCarli, 86, retired Petaluma nurse, will be offered at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Vincent DePaul Church, Petaluma.

Mrs. DeCarli died Monday after she walked into the path of a car on Lakeville Highway, Petaluma.

She was born on the family dairy ranch in Nicasio and was reared in Sonoma. Mrs. DeCarli graduated from St. Mary's School of Nursing, San Francisco, as a registered nurse and worked for more than 30 years for Petaluma doctors and at Petaluma General Hospital.

Her husband, Robert DeCarli, died in 1946.

She is survived by a son, Joseph A. DeCarli of Petaluma; four sisters, Lydia Masciorini, Ermina Altenreuther and Mary Masciorini of Petaluma, and Florence Petersen of Cotati; a granddaughter, and two great-grandchildren.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery. Contributions may be made to any charity.

M. L. WEBER

Dr. Manuel L. Weber, father of Thelma Percy of Mill Valley, died Thursday in Denver, friends here have learned. He was 79.

Before his retirement in 1966, Weber was chief of cardiology at Fort Miley Veterans Hospital. He later moved to Denver.

He was born in Russia, and studied medicine at the University of Geneva, Switzerland, and Moscow University before coming to the U.S. in 1922 with his wife, Dora Levine, whom he had married in Moscow in 1918.

In addition to his wife and Mrs. Percy, he is survived by another daughter, Betty Tobias of Denver, and three grandsons.

The family prefers contributions to the Rose Hospital Heart Fund, Denver.

EMMA SALINE

Private funeral has been held in San Rafael for Emma Saline, 80, of San Rafael, who died Friday in a local convalescent hospital after a short illness.

Miss Saline was a retired secretary for the I. Zellerbach Co. in San Francisco. She lived at 1323 Nye Street with a sister, Martha, who survives.

She was a California resident for 70 years, 15 of which were spent in Marin.

GUY WEST

Guy West, 67, retired electrician, died yesterday at his home in San Anselmo following a short illness.

West was born in Morgantown, W. Va., and lived in West Virginia and Pennsylvania until 1941, when he moved to Washington, D.C. He worked for the General Services Administration. When West retired in 1967, he moved to 182 Pine Street, San Anselmo.

He is survived by his wife, Pearle West; a daughter, Deanie Wallis of Novato; two sons, Dale West of Colma and Allen West of San Anselmo; two brothers. Raymond and Tony West. both of Pennsylvania, and 10 grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

came, I suspect, mislaid on one of the desks in our office."

The Strawberry developers, Martell J. and Raymond Kalisky and Vladimir J. Turski, have been trying to get 389 sewer permits from the district since last March for two new projects at Harbor Point and Strawberry Hill.

The district, however, came under fire from the Regional Water Quality Control Board for pollution a month before the developers applied for their permits. The district finally was ordered in June by the regional board to allow new permits only to the extent that it cut pollution.

The developers thus have been stymied while the district upgrades its sewage treatment to earn new connections. Seaside attorney Saul M. Weingarten, their attorney, testified that 205 permits now had been earned in the Ricardo Road watershed of the district, or three more than his clients want. In the Salt Works watershed, he said, the district has earned only 108 permits, while his clients want 187.

Judge Brown, citing a legal battle pending in Marin Superior Court between developers competing for the available permits, put off his own ruling until after the Marin case is decided next month. He set further trial for 1:30 p.m. on Jan. 24, noting that the Marin decision may settle the whole matter.

Still pending decision by Judge Brown is yet a third suit by other Marin developers challenging the constitutionality of the state law under which the regional board limited new sewer permits — effectively stopping most new construction.

Water Panel Picks New President

Franklin Gustafson was elected president of the North Marin County Water District board last night by a 3-2 vote over George A. Amaroli.

Frank V. Baccaglio nominated Gustafson and Pat Heffernan, a newly elected director, nominated Amaroli, reported Dist. Mgr. Eugene S. Churchill. Balloting was secret, he said.

Directors also voted to limit the presidency to one year instead of two. Gustafson succeeded Arnold Heise who didn't seek reelection to the board.

Baccaglio was unanimously elected vice president. Meeting dates were reset for first and third Tuesdays with at least one meeting a quarter in West Marin.

Directors also passed a resolution of intention to annex 12.3 acres in the developed area of Marshall, a strip between Shoreline Highway and Tomales Bay in the areas of the Marshall Hotel and set a public hearing at 8 p.m. Jan. 18 at the district office, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato, on the annexation.

They awarded BIF Industries, low bidder, a $15,102 contract for valves in the relocation of aqueduct lines for the Highway 101 bypass project, with the cost to be paid by the state Division of Highways.

Bound Over On Sale Of Heroin

Christopher Austin Fenn, 24, of San Rafael must appear in Marin Superior Court on Dec. 20 to face a charge of heroin sale.

After a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court yesterday, Judge David Menary bound Fenn over to the higher court for trial.

Marin City Land Fuss: Court Action?

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Threatening court action if necessary, some 60 Marin City residents again stalled a deal which would release to a developer valuable ridgeland property surrounding their community in exchange for his rights to develop flatlands.

The warning of a suit came as residents repeated demands to Marin County's housing authority and redevelopment agency boards that any agreement on release of the property include an option to buy it back.

Their fear is based on a belief that the predominantly black, low-income community can not develop properly if the ridgeland is developed privately with expensive housing.

To forestall and stop such a circumstance, residents will tie up the agencies and the developer in a lengthy court battle, Frank T. Phillips of the Marin City Community Services District told the boards.

The stormy four-hour session at the Manzanita Center was highlighted by repeated calls for the resignation of Wallace K. Shepherd, the agencies' executive director, whom residents accused of trying to "hoodwink and bamboozle" them.

Their ouster demands came as the executive director repeated his recommendation of last Thursday that title to the 167-acre ridgeland property be released to California Development Co. in return for development rights to the 60-acre redevelopment lands in the heart of the community.

He said proposals Monday to the firm that a three-year option be included in "mutual release agreements" was flatly rejected. The option condition was added Thursday at residents' request.

"Release agreements," without the option, he said last night, would allow the agencies to regain the development land and then, at a later time, negotiate for an option to buy back the ridgelands.

His no-strings-attached proposal was at first warmly received by the two boards but both changed their positions under heavy pressure from residents.

As a result, the negotiating team — made up of Shepherd, two board members from each agency and two residents — will meet with Cal Development officials today to take up the option proposal anew.

Ten years ago, Cal Development was offered the choice ridgelands by the agencies as a financial incentive to offset money losses expected in the development of lowland properties.

The development firm agreed and has since paid the ridgeland purchase price of $441,000. But the agencies refused to accept final payment pending final development of the lowlands.

A stalemate has resulted with Cal Development refusing to continue lowland development until its final payment is accepted and the title to the ridgelands turned over to it.

The federal government, meanwhile, has threatened to foreclose the lowland redevelopment project — if progress is not made in negotiations — meaning the demise of the redevelopment agency, already bankrupt.

Last night's meeting appeared at first to be over almost before it started. Directors of the two agencies swiftly moved and seconded approval of the no-strings-attached proposal from Shepherd.

As the vote was called — with the housing authority board unanimously endorsing the proposal — residents shouted their protest making it impossible for the redevelopment agency to vote.

"You're not giving the community a chance to speak," protested C. J. Williams of the Marin City Community Services District. "This isn't fair."

"What do you think we are, a bunch of jackasses that don't know what you're doing . . . You're trying to hoodwink us," added Thelma McKinney, a county human rights commissioner and resident of Marin City. "We want you out," she continued, saying she was demanding the resignation of Shepherd and planned to ask the board of supervisors to dissolve both boards.

To the applause of other residents who voice similar demands, Mrs. McKinney said the "mutual release" action was an attempt to "sell out" the residents' voice in the future of their community.

She along with others charged that Shepherd had already signed the release agreements and that his proposal last night was simply a ploy to get board confirmation of unauthorized action.

"I've said it before . . . Shepherd, I believe you are on Cal Development's payroll," Williams said.

Shepherd replied to the charges saying an "informal" release agreement had been offered and accepted recently by the development firm but that community demands for an option had killed negotiations.

Residents, returning to their demands for Shepherd's resignation, pressed to know by whom and when he was authorized to make such an "informal" offer.

He responded that the authorization had come from the board prior to mid-September.

Chairman Arthur Miller of the housing authority, when asked by the audience at which meeting the authorization was made, did not reply.

"I've attended every meeting and didn't hear anything about it," said Phillips, who is also head of a Marin City group interested in taking over development.

(The housing authority board was accused by some Marin City residents in August of holding a secret meeting just prior to its first round of negotiations with Cal Development.

(The district attorney's office, following an investigation, said it could find no "intent" to violate the state's antisecret-meeting law by the board and took no action.)

"If I've been misguided, you won't have to come and drag me to jail . . . I'll go willingly," Chairman Miller said of the meeting.

"Last Thursday was the first we heard of mutual releases," added Mrs. McKinney.

The meeting cooled somewhat when Robert B. Pitts of the redevelopment agency board agreed with residents that they had been left out of the planning process despite earlier assurances they wouldn't.

On his suggestion the boards directed the negotiating committee to meet today with the development firm representative and report back tonight at an adjourned meeting of the two boards.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

Eat lupper at Dominic's.

For Fashionable Marinites, Sunday brunch on Dominic's colorful, umbrella-shaded patio has become a tradition. But it has also become a problem. After all, when they feel like eating again, it's too early for supper, and too late for lunch. Thus, lupper. This meal, to be enjoyed between three to four-thirty in the afternoon, is not only a fine solution to the above problem, but, in all likelihood, the beginning of a new Bay Area tradition. And after lupper, what then? Why, dinkfast, of course.

Dominic's
507 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael 456-1383.
The finest in southwestern central Marin County cuisine, through brunch, lupper and dinkfast.

India Reported In Victory Push

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An Indian government spokesman announced today in New Delhi that a general withdrawal of Pakistani troops from the borders of East Pakistan and India was underway. He reported the capture of Comilla and said Indian troops were within 22 miles of Dacca.

Comilla, a major garrison town in the eastern sector of East Pakistan, was the third district headquarters in East Pakistan to be captured in two days. Fall of Jessore and Sylhet Tuesday opened the way for the drive toward the capital city of Dacca.

Defense Secretary K. B. Lall, the Indian spokesman, said the Pakistanis were retreating toward the center of East Pakistan and that Gen. S. H. F. J. Manekshaw, the Indian chief of staff, had repeated his demands they surrender.

In Kashmir, 1,000 miles away across the subcontinent of India, Pakistan was on the offensive after spearing into India territory five to seven miles in tha Chamb region of southeastern Kashmir. Heavy fighting was reported underway with men, tanks and planes.

Lall said Indian troops captured Comilla without resistance during the afternoon. He said Comilla, Jessore and Sylhet were left undefended and that the fleeing Pakistanis abandoned large quantities of war material.

"There is a general withdrawal from all around the borders into the heart of East Pakistan," Lall said. "It does not seemed to be a planned withdrawal." He said intelligence indicated the Pakistanis from Comilla were trying to reach two river ports south of Dacca.

"I have taken measures to prevent you from getting away by sea and have deployed naval forces," Manekshaw said in a statement broadcast to the Pakistanis in several languages and dialects. "Should you endeavor toescape, I assure you that a certain fate awaits you."

Comilla is about five miles inside East Pakistan and is between 50 and 60 miles east of Dacca. Its fall opened the way for still another Indian army spearhead to drive on Dacca across the many rivers and streams in that low-lying part of the world.

Lall said that on the western front Pakistani troops launched a second major attack on Indian positions in the Akhnur sector of the disputed state of Kashmir but that "our troops have held the ground." A major Pakistani attack Tuesday captured the important road town of Chamb which links India with Western Kashmir.

He said nine Pakistani tanks were destroyed by air strikes during the day in fighting on the eastern bank of the Munawar Tawi River—little more than a rivulet—and that one Indian jet fighter was shot down during the battle.

He said more than 18,000 Pakistani infantry troops and more than 130 tanks launched a heavy attack before dawn today on Indian positions on the eastern bank and "our troops were hard pressed."

Bolinas Fire Routs Niman From Home

The home of William E. Niman, a Bolinas school teacher and newly elected member of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District board, was destroyed today by a fire which routed him, his wife and two guests.

Damage to the split-level frame house at 165 Rosewood Road on the Bolinas Mesa was estimated at $25,000 by Bolinas Fire Chief Jose A. Silva. He said $6,500 in the Nimans' belongings and household contents also were destroyed.

Niman, his wife and two unidentified house guests from New York were awakened shortly before 3 a.m. by the roar of flames and crawled out a window to safety.

Silva said sparks and cinders were carried aloft by winds and several nearby residents were forced to hose down their roofs to save their houses. Numerous small grass fires were started by flying sparks but were quickly extinguished.

Twenty volunteers, using three engines, fought the blaze, Silva said, and one unit of the Stinson Beach Volunteer Fire Department stood by at the Bolinas fire station.

Firemen spent until 8:30 a.m. mopping up. Silva said the cause of the blaze was unknown but Niman reported it apparently started in the downstairs area near a heater.

Niman was elected Nov. 2 to the public utility district board to replace Sherman R. Smith, who was ousted from office in a recall.

Innovent Plea To Vehicle Theft

Victor A. Santini, 33, of El Verano, Sonoma County pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of vehicle theft.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set a preliminary hearing for Dec. 21 in municipal court.

Santini was arrested Dec. 6 by California Highway Patrol officers on a warrant accusing him of renting a one-ton van from Nationwide Rentals at 439 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael and failing to return the vehicle. The district attorney said Santini rented the van for only one day on May 4, then disappeared.

Gnoss Field Busy Enough For Tower

Gnoss Field, the Marin County airport at Novato, is nearly busy enough to merit a control tower by federal standards, the Marin Aviation Commission was told last night.

Airport Mgr. Francis E. Torr said a recent Federal Aviation Authority survey for one week indicated that Gnoss Field now has 125,000 takeoffs or landings a year, with more than 29,000 operations by transient, visiting aircraft. "This is approaching the FAA's informal criteria for a tower," Torr told the commissioners.

He said the FAA would require at least two more one-week activity counts before making a recommendation of federal funding for a tower.

The Marin Aviation Commission also:

OFFICERS — Postponed election of 1972 officers to Jan. 4 because terms of Commissioners Al Hansen, Herbert M. Hanson Jr., William Schwarzer and Melville Dickson will expire Dec. 31. The seats must be filled by the county supervisors, probably on Dec. 28, Torr said.

JOINT USE — Heard from Chairman David B. Vail that a plan for proposed joint civilian-military use of Hamilton Air Force Base's runway would be ready for commission action at the Jan. 4 meeting, to be passed on to the supervisors and Air Force.

HELICOPTER — Heard from Torr that Spectrum Air Co. had begun helicopter pilot training with one machine.

INVENTORY — Heard Torr report that 123 aircraft now are based at Gnoss Field.

MASTER PLAN — Heard Vail report that Wiltsey Hamm consultants had been retained to prepare a long-range plan for development of the field.

New Computers For Airplanes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An American Airlines jumbo jet, flying between New York City and San Francisco, has become the first commercial user of an air-to-ground computer system to replace radio talk.

The 747 jetliner Tuesday employed a new data-link system built to reduce the workload of pilots and ground controllers by transmitting needed information to and from the cockpit in computer language.

The system uses existing radio frequencies for relaying high-speed digital informtion. From the ground it transmits traffic clearances, terminal information and en route weather advisories. The aircraft system automatically reports altitude, aircraft system performance, takeoff and landing and fuel consumption.

Parliament Meets

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Supreme Soviet Parliament of the Russian Federation met in the Kremlin Wednesday to discuss its five-year economic plan and its 1972 budget.

MUSIC REVIEW

College Orchestra Finds It Difficult

By ROBERT M. NESS

Last night's performance at Angelico Hall by the Dominican College Orchestra was not very good, largely because the newly formed group for starters bit off more than it could chew.

Considering the difficulty of the music and the newness of the group, one could say that this concert, given to an audience of about 200 people, was a noble attempt. But why attempt Mendelssohn's Hebrides Overture, Mozart's concert aria "Misera, dove son!", and Beethoven's Sixth Symphony on a debut concert! (Stephen Elliot's "Partita for Flute and Orchestra 1971" was the one pleasant exception.)

There are thousands of fine, less difficult works that would have been more enjoyable and at the same time would have provided the players with the necessary learning materials that are such an important aspect of a college-community orchestra.

The director of the orchestra, Richard Anastasio, is a good teacher and a fine musician. This was evident by some of the musical concepts that were attempted, but he failed to evoke the spontaneity that is essential to a good performance. His attention was directed into his score rather than out to the orchestra and his large heavy beat never varied in size.

Elliot's "Partita for Flute and Orchestra" is a beautiful work that verges towards the popular style of Burt Bacharach, especially in the Scherzo movement with its meandering melody and continually changing meters.

Both flute soloist Bertram Monroe, who is an exceptional musician, and the orchestra seemed in control throughout the work. There were intonation and balance problems, but also some vitality and sparkle not found in the rest of the program.

Soprano Robin Miler has the voice of an angel and a rare musical sense. Her singing of Mozart's "Misera, dove son!" was enchanting, but one had to block out the orchestra much the way one would freeway noise. The work requires orchestral playing with precise intonation and transparent texture. It had neither.

The Hebrides Overture likewise must have these qualities and must be performed with seeming ease. It was labored.

The Beethoven Symphony had some very beautiful moments, but each was immediately negated by unbalanced texture coupled with bad intonation. After the first movement it became especially labored and totally lacked the dramatic drive inherent in the work.

Burglars Hit Petaluma Store

Burglars carted off $3,000 worth of televisions and stereos yesterday from Grant's department store at the Petaluma Plaza, police reported.

Officers said entry was made by climbing a fence in the garden department and breaking a window. The burglars apparently wheeled the items to a rear shipping dock where they cut the door locks and loaded the goods into a waiting truck.

Police said burglars also entered the Labor Administration Center, 331 Keller Street, yesterday and took checks and a tape recorder valued at $192.

Passes Bar Test

In the list of persons who passed the state bar examinations printed yesterday in the Independent-Journal, Joseph M. Homer of 1659 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo and Eugene Blaise Ceccotti of 55 Cedar Avenue, Larkspur, were omitted.

New Aide For Tiburon Plan Dept.

Andrew E. Hahto, 28, has been appointed planning assistant in Tiburon, replacing Jeanne T. McLean for the second time in a Marin Community in six months.

Mrs. McLean, who worked as planning aide first in Mill Valley and then in Tiburon before joining the staff of the Marin County Planning Department, was succeeded by Hahto in Mill Valley as well.

Hahto was graduated from Long Beach State College in 1969 with a bachelor of arts degree in public administration and worked in the planning departments in Long Beach and Pacifica before coming to Mill Valley in May to replace Mrs. McLean.

He will be in charge of enforcing Tiburon's sign ordinance, handling counterwork and attending meetings of the city's design review board. His salary is $8,760.

Hahto, who came to America from Finland at age 6, is single. He lives at 588 South Elisio Drive, Apt. 23, Greenbrae.

Angela Group To Show Films

The Angela Davis Defense Committee will begin bimonthly films at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley next month to raise funds for her defense and for community groups in Marin City.

The Homestead Valley Community Association board last night approved the showing of two films per month for a three-month trial, according to secretary Virginia Spalding. The association owns the hall.

The board also set Dec. 19 for its annual Christmas caroling, she said. Homestead Valley residents will meet at 7 p.m. at Homestead School and walk through the streets of the community. A party at Brown's Hall will follow.

Participants are asked to bring a candle, Mrs. Spalding said. The caroling is sponsored by the association and the Homestead School Parent-Teacher Association.

$200 In Lumber Taken From Site

Lumber valued at $200 was stolen from a construction site at 19 Elda Drive, San Rafael, between last Friday and yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Officers said the lumber was owned by Marken Corp. of Oakland.

'AND MY HORSE RAN BACKWARDS. . .'

Accused Felons Need More Time

The scheduled appearance of two San Quentin convicts, accused of stabbing another inmate and murdering a correctional officer who was guarding the injured prisoner, was postponed for two weeks today in Marin Superior Court.

The inmates, Earl Billy Gibson, 28, and Lawrence Justice, 28, told Judge E. Warren McGuire they need more time to obtain attorneys.

The judge gave them until 9 a.m. Dec. 29. If they have no attorneys by then, McGuire said he would appoint attorneys for the two at public expense with the understanding that they could later substitute lawyers of their choice.

The judge also granted Justice's brother, Gary Justice of Los Angeles, permission to visit his brother at the prison today to discuss the hiring of a lawyer. Gary Justice told the judge he needed special permission because today is not a visiting day at San Quentin.

Gibson and Justice are charged with stabbing inmate Herman Johnson, 25, in the prison exercise yard on July 19, apparently in retaliation for his testimony in the trial of seven Soledad Prison inmates accused of killing a guard a year earlier.

On July 21, San Quentin officer Leo Gaston Davis, 38, who was guarding the wounded Johnson in the prison hospital, was fatally stabbed.

Gibson is serving a life term for first degree burglary in Los Angeles County in 1965, and Justice is in prison on an indeterminate sentence for two felony assaults and grand theft in Los Angeles County in 1968.

Spine Fractured From Accident

A Fairfax man was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a spinal fracture suffered when his car lost a wheel and rammed two parked autos on Cascade Drive in Fairfax.

Injured was Fred D. Holland, 35, of 450 Cascade Drive. The mishap occurred at 12:45 a.m. Monday in front of 149 Cascade Drive, police said.

Lawsuit Fears Over Larkspur Plan Ruling

The Larkspur Planning Commission, despite warnings by city staff of a possible lawsuit, last night rejected plans for a 224-unit apartment development atop Bon Air Hill.

Both City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst and City Atty. Peter B. Brekhus warned the commission that it was leaving the city open to a lawsuit by turning down the project, planned by the Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills.

The commission, in a 3-1 vote, Otto Hoefler dissenting, couldn't cite any specific zoning violations in rejecting the apartments as too dense. Said Chairman Robert H. Lee, who joined Charles Curley and Leonard S. Rubin in voting against the project, "I think we expressed the spirit of the law rather than the letter of the law by our action."

John Tapking, planner for the developers, had an appeal to the city council in the hands of Brekhus before the commission had finished voting.

Bathurst told the commission, "I have to run this city. What am I going to do when someone wants to come in here with something? I have no ordinances to rely on anymore. What you're doing is rezoning. You need a legislative amendment for that."

The plans were rejected on a third motion. Earlier, one placing conditions on the project died for lack of a second and Hoefler moved unsuccessfully to approve the development.

As presented, the development showed a three-tenths of an acre increase in open space over earlier plans, less asphalt in the center of the development and a one-to-four car-dwelling ratio.

The conditions placed on the project in the commission's first motion were a 10 per cent increase in open space and more stringent parking requirements.

Tapking asserted the development was well within limits of existing density ordinances and said city planning consultant Sydney Williams had suggested the one-to-four car-dwelling ratio.

Lee, however, read the consultant's memorandum, which suggested a moratorium on all subdivisions until a review of building ordinances is undertaken next month. The commission had indicated, however, it was too late to order a moratorium on the Larwin development.

The memorandum also said Bon Air Hill was already overdeveloped, and Williams urged the city to look into a park for the top of the hill.

Lee and the commission also discussed specific parking inadequacies of the subdivision. Lee said "the streets outside the project are virtually useless for parking because they are 60 feet below, down a steep hill that nobody but the young will attempt to climb.

He told Tapking "you must figure on 448 cars, two cars for every dwelling, with parking space within the development."

Tapking replied "what you're essentially doing is taking away the viability of the project."

"What I'm doing," Lee said, "is asking for less units."

Tapking said "we are allowing for a dwelling every 2,400 feet. The other projects on the hill have densities below 2,000 feet."

Charles Brouse, spokesman for the Larkspur Town meeting group, said "the logic of more building escapes me. We should do all planning with the city in mind. My advice is to take your time and think hard about what you allow to be built."

Water Board Has New Chief

Andrea De Marco, one of three newly elected board members, has been chosen new president of the Stinson Beach County Water District board. Another new director, Proctor Jones, was named vice president.

At its organizational meeting Monday, the board also named four persons to a citizens advisory committee which will enter into board discussions and assist the board in its deliberations, according to director John L. Jones.

Appointed to the committee were Charles E. Hancock, Otto Reutinger, Harriet Crandall and Robert Tartaul.

Weiss Won't Be Tried In Prison Flap

A San Rafael attorney — accused by the state attorney general of being one of a band of lawyers breaking prison rules and fomenting revolution behind prison walls — will not be tried for any violation of the law, the Marin County district attorney said yesterday.

Any action against attorney Lawrence G. Weiss is up to the state bar association, according to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, who has turned the matter over to the association.

Whether the bar association will review the case or act in any other manner in the matter may never be known. A bar association spokesman said it is against the rules of the association to confirm to deny whether an investigation is under way and, unless the association decides to take the matter to the Supreme Court, it never will be made public.

According to Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, Weiss may have advised a woman named "Estella" to write to San Quentin inmate Louis N. Talamantez, telling the convict, "the only way you would come out is through a kidnap-ransom situation." Talamantez is now accused of murder while participating in the Aug. 21, 1971, break for freedom by George Jackson in which two other inmates, Jackson and three San Quentin guards were killed.

Bales said the letter had been brought to his attention by the attorney general's office before the August 1971 violence when Weiss was still acting as attorney for Talamantez in a case in which the convict is charged with assaulting another inmate.

Because of the pending case, Bales said, he decided not to prosecute Weiss on a misdemeanor charge of sending illegal mail into a prison.

Weiss was still unavailable today for comment.

He along with Faye Stender of Berkeley and Patrick Hallinan of San Francisco were accused of fomenting unrest in prisons.

They were named in a brief filed by the attorney general in a case which is challenging prison regulations prohibiting sealed letters between inmates and their attorneys.

Voluntary Teaching Plan Is Presented

The staff from Wolfe Grade School last night presented plans for more voluntary classes and apparently won support from the Kentfield School District board, according to Supt. Anthony G. Bacich.

Bacich said the group proposed to rearrange the class schedule so that courses like art, drama, physical education and music could be offered in the early afternoon three days a week.

The plan envisions volunteers, both teachers and non-teachers, giving classes that would cater to the interests of the school children, Bacich said. Each child would choose his own class, but would probably be counselled first, Bacich said.

The board seemed to approve of the concept at the workshop meeting, he said. A formal vote is set for Jan. 10.

The plan is one offshoot of a two-year study on more effectively using the staff at Wolfe Grade.

Montecito Signs Must Be Removed

Sign standards were set last night by the San Rafael Planning Commission for Mentecito shopping center.

Peter Stock, planning technician, said the commission ordered free-standing signs removed, with the exception of one shopping center identification sign.

The move would affect three signs, Stock said, but the fate of one — at the Kettle restaurant — remained uncertain as the commission decided later at its meeting to consider the Kettle sign separately at a future meeting.

The commission set limits on the sizes and types of signs which will be allowed at the shopping center in an effort "to tie it together so it looks like one unit and not like everybody fighting each other," Stock said.

The commission also endorsed sign procedures at the Northgate shopping center and expressed no objection to the way they were proceeding.

Other shopping center signs will be reviewed by the commission at future meetings, Stock said.

De Surville Bound Over

Donald H. L. De Surville, 35, of Kentfield, was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court to face a charge of receiving stolen property.

Following a preliminary hearing yesterday in Marin Municipal Court, Judge David Menary set Dec. 20 as the date for De Surville to be arraigned in superior court.

De Surville, owner of Town and Country Billards, was arrested Nov. 12 and accused of receiving a valuable coin collection stolen from a Larkspur home on Oct. 26.

Hub Library Mapping Plans For Delivery Service To Shut-Ins

Plans for a delivery service for shut-ins are being formulated by the San Anslemo Library board.

Jacqueline Perazzo, chairman of the board, said the service will provide home delivery of books, records, films and other library materials.

She said the service will be started following a survey to determine areas of need and enlistment of volunteers to perform the deliveries.

At its meeting Monday, the board also discussed plans for a board reception for Friends of the San Anselmo Library, a volunteer service group. The reception will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 28 in the children's room of the library, Mrs. Perazzo said.

Youth Stamp Club Set In Sausalito

Organization of a youth stamp club in Sausalito was announced today.

First meeting will be Dec. 15 at 7 p.m. at the Sausalito Youth Center in Central School. Organizers are John Biestman, Sam Silver and Mark Lester.

Guilty Plea To Malicious Mischief Charge

Mark Anthony Carrillo, 18, of Santa Rosa, originally charged with passing a bad check, pleaded guilty yesterday to malicious mischief.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court sentenced him to 12 days in jail, which he already has served.

Carrillo and Jennifer Lynn Wren, 23, of Rohnert Park were arrested May 23 by Sausalito police, who said they cashed two bad checks at Sausalito stores.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter Evans said that since Miss Wren admitted the bad check charges, Carrillo was allowed to plead to the lesser offense of malicious mischief.

Miss Wren pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor bad check charge on Nov. 17 and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court on Dec. 10 for sentencing.

Mill Valley Chamber Of Commerce Picks Officers

Samuel W. Schneider, co-owner of Varney's Hardware, has been elected 1972 president of the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce. Schneider will replace Richard C Conrad whose term will expire Dec. 31.

Election ballots mailed in by chamber members were counted at Monday's meeting of the chamber board of directors, according to Granville L. Beedle, chamber secretary-manager.

Other new officers are first vice president, Christian R. Steindl, co-owner of Strawbridge's Camera and Stationery Store; second vice president, Normand B. Black, owner of El Marin Florist, and treasurer, John P. McNamara, manager of the Mill Valley branch of Wells Fargo Bank.

The board also agreed to reappoint Beedle to a 12th term as secretary-manager. His assistant, Carol B. Healy, was also reappointed.

In addition, directors accepted, with regret, the resignation of director Edward M. Mills, co-publisher of the Mill Valley Record. Mills, who resigned because of the press of other business, had been a member of the chamber board since 1965 and served two consecutive terms as president in 1967 and 1948.

Four Holiday Trips Slated

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department has announced it is offering four trips during the holiday season:

For senior high school students, a ski trip to Boreal Ridge, leaving 6:30 a.m. Dec. 20 and returning 8 p.m. Dec. 21. The trip includes transportation and lodging.

For children 5 to 12 years old, to Santa's Village in Scotts Valley, leaving at 9 a.m. and returning at 6 p.m., Dec. 21.

For children and adults, to San Francisco Ballet's production of "The Nutcracker" from 6:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Dec. 27.

For children 9 to 12 years old, to Bumble Bee Toboggan Hill from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Dec. 29.

Further information on the trips and fees may be obtained from the parks and recreation department.

SPACE AGE FIREFIGHTING?

1985: Hamilton 'Airport' Seen

Novato residents had a momentary vision last night of Hamilton Air Force Base serving a million civilian air passengers a year in 1985.

If it were developed in this manner, it would "look like the San Jose airport today," according to Walter E. Gillfillan, director of the Regional Airport Systems Study for the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base is one of the possibilities being considered in the study, Gillfillan told the Novato City Council and an audience of about 25 persons last night.

The present 20 million air passengers annually in the Bay Area will increase to 83 million by 1985, he said. With the joint capacity of the San Jose, San Francisco and Oakland airports at 54 million, accommodations would be short by about 30 million, Gillfillan said.

The question is whether to expand existing airports to create new ones. "Where do they go? Do we have a series of small airports like Hamilton Air Force Base, one million passengers, or a major new regional site . . . a remote site in the region?"

The Association of Bay Area Governments hasn't any power to implement plans, but does review applications for federal grants, he reminded the council.

If an application is made for a project that is contrary to the regional plan, the association would report so in reviewing the application, he said.

The study committee is considering the impact of noise and the effect on the environment of airports, but hasn't established any noise criteria yet, Gillfillan said. "Our job is to look at all issues, get public opinion and recommend airport alternatives to meet future requirements in the Bay Area."

Then, the association will adopt an aviation element in its regional plan, Gillfillan explained.

When considering fields such as Hamilton Air Force Base, one of the major factors is considering what level of use there should be, he said.

His appearance before the council last night was in the nature of an informational report, not a public hearing, and the council recommended that the study committee hold a public hearing in Marin.

Councilman Wayne Sartain asked that if there were joint civilian-military use of Hamilton Air Force Base, could the city impose limitations on the type of aircraft used.

Gillfillan said Long Beach regulates the number of flights and Orange County regulates the time of flights, and the city probably could regulate the type of planes.

60 Strep Cases During Last Week

With 60 cases reported, streptococcus infection was the most prevalent communicable disease reported to the Marin County Health Department last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer.

There were 18 cases of gonorrhea, five of salmonella and one each of tuberculosis, rubella and shigella.

Shopping Center Hopes Hold Fast

The Novato City Council is holding fast to its hope that a regional or at least subregional shopping center will be developed at Pinheiro Ranch, north of the downtown area.

There hasn't been any action toward development of a major center, but City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said last night the poential still exists.

Comment came as the council upheld planning commission denial of use permits for two new businesses in the area of the proposed center.

Shot down by a 4-1 vote because they didn't fit into the downtown plan were a Taco Bell restaurant on the west side of Highway 101, between Olive and Vallejo avenues, and a car wash, planned by Emil Renati, at the northeast corner of the highway and Vallejo Avenue.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack, the lone dissenter, wanted to know how long the council was "going to control property" waiting for some action on a major center before it would consider "other uses" for the land.

Councilman Wayne Sartain said it wouldn't be reasonable to set a "specific date" now when other uses might be permitted. "We're trying to provide a shopping center if we can. It would help the property owners and should be given a chance to fly."

Councilmen agreed that the city's downtown implementation committee should submit a quarterly progress report on its efforts to get a major center developed.

The Novato City Council also:

INDIAN VALLEY COLLEGES — Reaffired its stand that the Marin Community College District should construct Indian Valley Colleges near Novato for opening in 1974 with financing on a "reasonable" pay-as-you-go basis. Mayor Joseph D. Gargiulo, a former member of the college board, will take the message to the district board Thursday night.

LIONS PARK — Sent the North Marin County Water District 120-day notice that the city will terminate its lease on district land at Lion's Park, near Stafford Lake, a park plagued by vandalism and now closed. The Novato Lions Club said it wasn't interested in further use at the site.

EMERGENCY PLAN — Adopted 4-1 an ordinance to set up a city disaster council to develop plans for emergencies, Councilman George C. Quesada dissenting because he felt the city would be improperly delegating authority. An accompanying resolution which would give Marin County power to coordinate activities in countywide disasters was continued until Dec. 21, and a state mutual aid agreement was passed unanimously.

MOSQUITO BOARD — Reappointed Frank V. Baccaglio to a two-year term on the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District board.

PROMOTION FUNDS — Denied a request by the Redwood Empire Association for $250 toward its promotional activities.

OAKS UNIT — Approved precise plans, submitted by Condiotti Enterprises, for Oaks Unit Two, consisting of 80 single family dwellings on 37.5 acres in the Marin Highlands area.

DIABLO TRIANGLE — Adopted an ordinance approving the master plan for development of 161 apartment units on 5.8 acres of the south portion of the Diablo Triangle, along Center Road and Diablo Avenue, which included a ponding area on Warner Creek and a bicycle and pedestrian path along the creek.

PACHECO VILLAGE — Approved precise plans for Pacheco Village, 180 multiple-family units on the east side of Marin Valley Drive, south of Bolling Drive, by a 4-1 vote with Councilman David Price Jones dissenting. The council specified that the siding of the buildings be wood rather than stucco.

CREDIT CARD — Continued until Dec. 21 a request from the Association of Credit Card Investors that it be exempt from payment of a business license fee since it is a nonprofit corporation.

SPEED CONTESTS — Introduced an ordinance to prohibit auto speed contests on private property open to the public such as shopping center parking lots and drive-ins.

APARTMENTS — Approved precise plans by Fred Mauroni for a seven-unit apartment building on the east side of Railroad Avenue, north of Logan Street.

PRIVATE PATROL — Granted Paul Davis of San Francisco a license to conduct a private security patrol at the Woodland Heights development near Terry Circle.

PARKING LIMIT — Established a two-hour parking limit on the east side of Scott Avenue from Grant Avenue to 50 feet south of Grant Avenue.

CROSSING — Approved an agreement with Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. for an easement to cross the tracks at Reichert Avenue as part of the Highway 101 bypass project. Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps estimated the track and signal work would cost $16,000 and the city could apply for 50 per cent reimbursement from the state Public Utilities Commission.

PETITION — Received a petition from the Garden Club of the Marin Golf and Country Club, carrying 300 signatures, that request the council to consider landscaping the median strip along Ignacio Boulevard.

MEETING — Adjourned at 1:25 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday at the North Marin County Water District Office for a joint meeting with the Novato Sanitary District Board. The next regular meeting will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 21 at the Novato Community House.

50 Bicycles Will Be Auctioned Off

Fifty bicycles will be among items available when the City of Novato holds its semiannual public auction at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the city hall parking lot.

The auction list includes 32 boys' bicycles, 18 girls' bicycles, 16 card tables, 20 folding tables, two police radios, a typewriter adding machine and miscellaneous clothing.

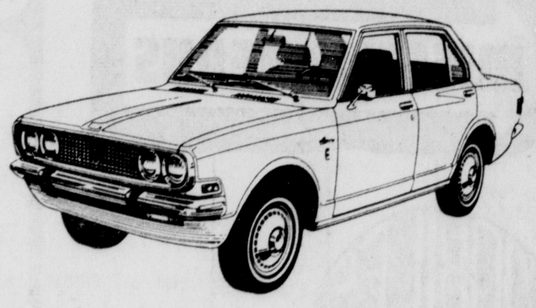
The Corona Mark II is dramatic proof that you can't legislate quality



1972 Corona Mark II 4-door sedan

Until very recently people thought size and high price meant luxury. The Corona Mark II puts an end to that. Even domestic automobile executives compliment Toyota's engineering. Owners love its electric clock, fully reclining bucket seats, wall to wall carpeting, vinyl upholstery, the Mark II's clean running 2000cc overhead cam engine, disc brakes, 2-speed windshield wipers and washers, locking glove compartment. The Mark II is one luxury sensible people can afford.

Coalition Formed By Lucas Valley Citizens

The successful battle of a citizen's committee against establishment of a Renaissance Center in Lucas Valley had led to creation of a group to be known as the Lucas Valley Coalition.

Calvin B. Colt of 353 Mount Shasta Drive, Lucas Valley, who had led a group known as the no Faire Committee, was elected chairman of the new coalition at a Dec. 1 meeting.

Jean Fitzgerald, public information chairman, said the purpose of the coalition was "advocacy planning, working with all parties to the planning and development process in creating changes that will enhance the unique living environment of Lucas Valley."

Residents of all the Lucas Valley communities — Marinwood, Mont Marin, Twelve Oak Hill, San Rafael Park and Lucas Valley — attended the organizational meeting of the coalition, she said.

At the meeting, the coalition agreed to request the Marin County Board of Supervisors to establish a Lucas Valley Planning Council to hold public hearings on development in the valley and submit recommendations to the county planning commission.

The coalition voted to recommend to the board of supervisors that Marinwood attorney Walter K. Dods be appointed to a vacant at-large seat on the planning commission.

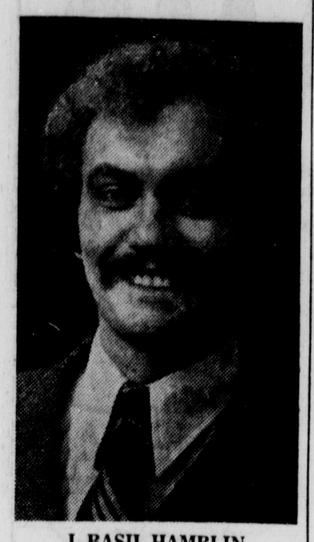
James Erickson of 2647 Heatherstone Drive, Marinwood, was named to head research activities of the coalition and Joan Fernandez of 41 Mount Rainier Drive, Lucas Valley, was selected to coordinate community action activities.

The coalition will meet again at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Lucas Valley Community Center for a presentation of the preliminary Marin County master plan, particularly as it affects Lucas Valley, by County Planning Director Werner von Gundell. All Lucas Valley residents are invited, according to Mrs. Fitzgerald.

Conservatory Group Will Give Concert

Students from the San Francisco Conservatory of Music will perform at a noon concert tomorrow in Ives Hall of Music at Sonoma State College.

Music will include works by Richard Strauss, Alban Berg, Gabriel Faure, Francis Poulenc and Beethoven.



J. BASIL HAMBLIN

Boys' School Executives Announced

Two members of the Katharine Branson faculty have been named to administrative positions for the new boys' school, Mount Tamalpais School, which will open on the Branson campus in Ross in September, 1972.

Named as principal of the new school was Rollin Miles Warner Jr. James Basil Hamblin will be the director of admissions.

Warner, 41, has been among those making plans for Mount Tamalpais School for the past two years. He currently teaches history and sociology at the Branson school.

A graduate of Yale University, Warner holds a master's degree in business administration from Stanford University. He also has studied at Harvard Law School and the University of San Francisco.

As a high school student at Hotchkiss School in Connecticut, he attained national recognition as an All-American prep swimmer.

He has directed the program at Camp Royaneh, the Bay Area's Boy Scout camp, and taught history for seven years at the Town School in San Francisco, where he also served as senior master.

He worked as the assistant to the vice president for finance of Stanford University for three years and prior to entering the education field, he worked for Matson Navigation Co.

He served in the Far East as a Navy lieutenant.

Hamblin, 31, teaches English, photography and journalism at the Branson school. He attended Amherst College, graduated from Miami (Ohio) University and holds a master's degree from Ohio State University.

Prior to coming to Branson's, Hamblin taught English for seven years in New York state and Oregon and also taught English as a foreign language in Paris.

Leonard Richardson, headmaster of Katherine Branson School, who will also serve as headmaster for Mount Tamalpais School, said that more than 125 applications for the new boys' school have been received.

Concert To Feature Student Composition

An original fugue for string quartet by Mark Rasmussen of Petaluma will be featured at the first concert of the Sonoma State College Chamber Music Workshop Dec. 16 at noon in Ives Hall of Music.

Rasmussen, a senior music major, plays piano, organ and viola, in addition to composing. The program will also include music by Handel, Mozart, Faure and Hindemuth.

Prices are discounted and single item priced except on fair-traded and government controlled items.

Here's A Message Of Love

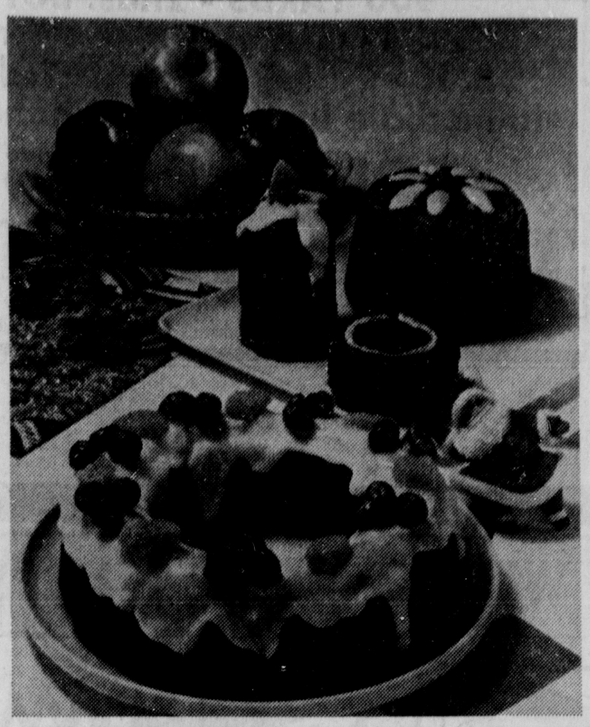
A gift made by hand conveys a message of thoughtfulness and love that even a person who "has everything" is sure to appreciate.

This fruit cake recipe is different. It contains finely chopped apples which add their wine flavor and moistness to the usual mixture. Call upon your imagination in selecting pans in which to bake the cake.

For example, a can that has held coconut makes a pretty candle, with white frosting for dripping "wax" and a piece of candied cherry for a flame. An eight-inch ring mold makes a handsome wreath, with candied cherries and halved green gum drop leaves for holly. Small gelatin molds can be called into service, or the flat round cans in which tuna and other foods are packed. You can go on from there.

CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

- 1 cup vegetable oil
- 1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
- 4 eggs
- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour, divided
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons allspice
- 1 teaspoon cloves
- 1 cup pineapple juice
- 1 cup chopped candied pineapple*
- 1½ cups whole candied cherries
- 1 cup diced candied citron
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 1½ cups finely chopped apples
- 2½ cups coarsely chopped walnuts



GIFTS MADE by the giver are doubly welcome at Christmas. Here's fruitcake that can take many forms for a personalized expression from the giver.

*Or use mixed diced candied fruits

Combine oil, sugar and eggs; beat vigorously two minutes, mix and sift two cups flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Stir into sugar mixture alternately with pineapple juice. Mix remaining cup of flour with fruits and nuts. Pour batter over this mixture, blending well. Turn into well-greased and floured pans. Place on baking sheet. Bake at 300 degrees for two to three hours, depending on size and shape of pan. Let stand 15 minutes. Remove from pans to racks to finish cooling. Wrap in aluminum foil; store to ripen. When ready to serve or wrap as gifts, decorate as desired. An hour or two before slicing chill cakes in refrigerator.

A Soup Can Free The Hostess

A bright, light hot soup set up with handled cups in the living room for guests to serve themselves does more than welcome warmly. It frees the hostess-cook for getting everything for the festive main course on the dining table at one time.

Such a soup should be light-bodied, and the more delicate and enticing the taste, the better. This one is light red in color, with bits of green. Its "guess-what" flavor comes from caramelizing four teaspoons of white granulated sugar in a heavy saucepan on low heat.

Stir until sugar melts and turns lightly amber. Remove from heat to blend in two tablespoons butter or margarine. Slowly stir in three cups hot water with four chicken bouillon cubes (or equal amount of canned or strained homemade broth), and ½ cup tomato juice. Bring to boil; add ¼ cup each chopped pimiento and green pepper. Correct seasoning, if necessary, with salt or sugar, and simmer about five minutes. Makes eight half-cup portions or four cups of soup.

This recipe makes a soup to cheer on other occasions also — particularly the day after a meal of roast turkey, capon, or chicken. Then the broth base can be made from the bones left from carving, simmered with pieces of onion, celery, carrot, a little sugar to bring out their flavors, and water; cooked down and strained.

BEEF RIB ROAST IDEA

An Elegant Holiday Season Dinner

For an elegant dinner during the holiday sesson, serve a rolled or standing beef rib roast. It is perfect for formal dinners.

A beef rib roast cooks perfectly with little attention and comes in all sizes. You can select a roast that is just right for a small family or one large enough to serve a crowd. Purchase a roast large enough to have planned-over meat for sandwiches and mini-meals.

Serve a rolled or standing beef rib roast for holiday entertaining with a chilled cranberry juice cocktail, baked acorn squash with peas, spiced pears, tossed salad with Roquefort dressing, individual herb yorkshire puddings or popovers, beverage and fruit cake.

Place beef roast, fat side up, on rack in shallow uncovered roasting pan. If desired, season with salt and pepper. If a meat thermometer is used insert it into center of heaviest part of roast with tip away from fat or bone. Roast uncovered in slow oven (325°) to degree of doneness desired. Let stand 20 to 25 minutes before carving. Slice first servings of meat and arrange roast and slices on heated serving platter. Garnish as desired or with spiced pears as shown in picture. Serve with individual herb yorkshire puddings or popovers. Yield: Count on two to four servings per pound.

A HOLIDAY change from turkey is welcome in this beef rib roast with spiced pears and spicy popovers or Yorkshire pudding.

SPICED PEARS

- 3 cups water
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 2 tablespoons lemon or orange juice
- 1 teaspoon shredded lemon or orange rind
- 6 whole cloves
- 2 cinnamon sticks
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 6 or 8 slightly underripe winter pears (Bosc or Anjou)

Combine all ingredients except pears in a large sauce pan or Dutch oven. Place over moderate heat and bring syrup to a boil. While syrup is heating peel pears leaving stem on. Drop pears in cold water to which a small amount of additional lemon juice is added to keep pears from darkening. Add pears to syrup; cover and keep syrup at a boil so pears will keep turning or rolling in syrup. Remove pears from syrup when fork tender, about 20 to 25 minutes. Let pears stand upright while cooling, basting often with a small amount of syrup.

INDIVIDUAL HERB YORKSHIRE PUDDINGS OR POPOVERS

- 1 cup sifted flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon fresh or dried chopped chives
- ¼ teaspoon marjoram
- ¼ teaspoon leaf thyme
- 1 cup milk
- 3 eggs
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Sift together flour and salt; stir in herbs.

Sift together flour and salt; stir in herbs. Combine milk, eggs and butter or margarine in bowl; beat until thoroughly mixed. Add dry ingredients to liquids; beat well. Fill eight well-greased five-ounce souffle or custard cups about ⅓ full. Bake in hot oven (400°) until brown and crisp, 40 to 45 minutes. If desired, popover batter may be prepared several hours before serving time, poured into souffle or custard cups, covered and stored in refrigerator until baking time. Yield: 8 large popovers.

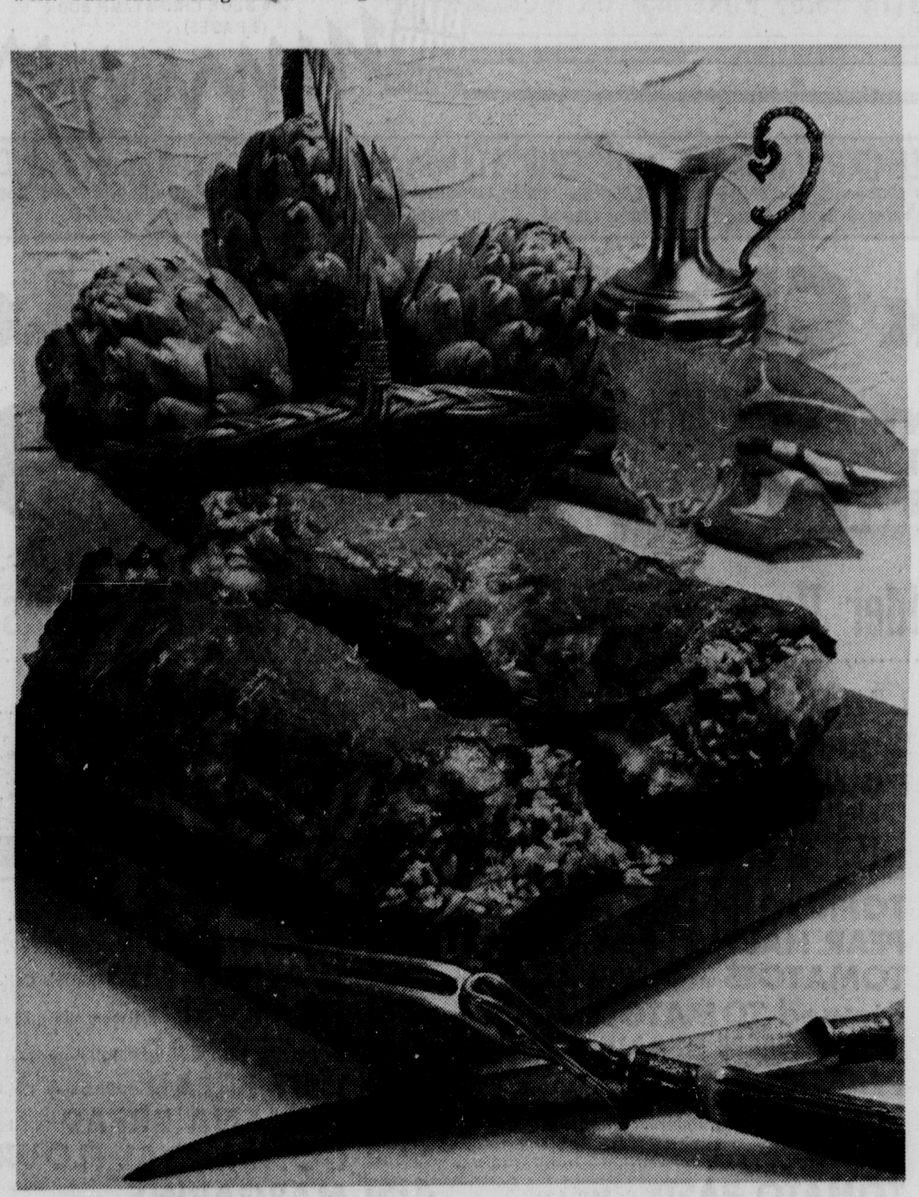
Apicius Would Be Proud

As far back as the first century, a Roman gourmet named Apicius wrote what is supposed to be the first cookbook. In it, he recorded his favorite recipe for cooking lamb with a collection of pungent herbs. And although cooking methods have come a long way since then, this venerable combination of lamb and herbs is still going strong.

Here is a new recipe for stuffed breast of lamb that Apicius would have been proud to serve his friends after a long day at the chariot races.

In classic style, the lamb is marinated for several hours; but the modern marinade is a most ingenious one a bottled Italian dressing. Although intended primarily for salads, this dressing, with its oil, vinegar and traditional seasonings, adds a unique savor to the lamb.

The unusual rice stuffing features a mixed bouquet of allspice, cinnamon, pepper and parsley. And for a final touch, the top of the lamb is spread with tomato sauce before baking.



STUFFED BREAST — of lamb stars at a big dinner party. In classic style, the lamb is marinated for several hours in Italian dressing. The rice stuffing features a mixed bouquet of seasonings and for a final touch, the lamb is spread with tomato sauce before baking. Artichokes are an accompainment.

STUFFED BREAST OF LAMB

- 3 to 4-pound breast of lamb with pocket
- 1 bottle (8 oz.) Italian dressing
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 cup uncooked regular or processed white rice
- 1 cup hot water
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon allspice
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup tomato sauce.

In large bowl, combine meat and Italian dressing. Marinate two to three hours at room temperature.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In medium skillet, melt butter, add onion and green pepper; cook until tender. Add rice and cook two minutes. Add water, parsley, salt, allspice, cinnamon, and pepper; mix well. Simmer covered, seven minutes or until water is absorbed.

On rack in roasting pan, place meat with pocket side up; fill with mixture and secure edges. With point of knife, pierce top of meat in several places; spread tomato sauce over top. Bake covered, 45 minutes. Remove cover and bake an additional 45 minutes or until done. Makes about six servings.

A Gift From The Kitchen

Orange-flavored vineagar is a unique, easy-to-make and inexpensive "Christmas gift from the kitchen." Pare orange zest from 1 orange. Scrape away any white membrane that clings, twist strips into spirals and drop them into 1 pint of white OR white wine vinegar. Recap bottle and let set two to three weeks. If desired, decant vinegar through a cheesecloth-lined funnel into a decorative bottle with either ground glass stopper, cork or screw lid.

Quick Pear Pie

Travels Well, Stays Fresh

Cranberry fruit balls make a gift that travels well and remains fresh for several weeks. In a meat grinder, grind 1 pound of fresh cranberries with 2 large, seeded but unpeeled oranges, 2 (3½-ounce) cans of flaked cocoanut and 3 cups of raisins OR currants. Stir in 2 cups of sugar and 2 (13¾-ounce) packages of graham cracker crumbs. If necessary, add more crumbs to make a mixture that can be molded into 1-inch balls. Roll each in finely chopped nuts, using total of 3 cups. Wrap individually in clear plastic and tie with ribbon loops if you wish to use them as tree ornaments. Pack in airtight container for storage or shipping. Makes about 100.

The Size Really Doesn't Count

It used to be that you could pick up the largest package or container from the shelf and know it was less expensive than the smaller sizes of the same brand product.

Not so anymore, according to the Credit Union National Association. It seems that grocers and manufacturers caught on to this consumer practice, because now the largest sizes are often the most expensive.

When you shop, be sure to compare prices before you reach for the big box, warns the CUNA.

High In Protein

One food that is always on the shelf is peanut butter. It is high in protein and helps build muscle and blood.

Make Christmas Eve Wait A Little Bit Easier

This Christmas Eve, while children wait for Santa and wonder what the morning will bring, make the wait easier and start Christmas fun sooner by serving child-pleasing beverages like these festive egg nog punches.

Festive egg nog punches all begin with dairy egg nog. The first one chills a combination of egg nog and a favorite flavor ice cream. Serve in a punch bowl and float more scoops of ice cream on top. Deep Dutch chocolate would be good, but so would cable car crunch, strawberry blonde and milk chocolate chip ice cream.

A few more variations on your festive egg nog punch theme will cap this evening off admirably. Pineapple egg nog punch will please all ages. In addition to these, and egg nog, it calls for a can of pineapple juice concentrate to complement the nog. Cranberry juice cocktail makes another combination with egg nog; and a little red food coloring gives a pink color to this tart yet sweet beverage.

Put out some other holiday sweets and serve the nog in your most festive glasses or mugs.

FESTIVE EGGNOG PUNCH

1 quart ice cream
2 quarts egg nog
Nutmeg

Reserve three or four scoops of your favorite flavor ice cream for garnish. Soften remainder and beat into egg nog. Chill thoroughly. Turn into punch bowl and float reserved ice cream on top. Sprinkle each serving with nutmeg, if desired. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Note: For a thin egg nog punch, add one quart chilled milk. This will make 16 servings.

PINEAPPLE EGG NOG PUNCH

1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 cup milk
1 quart egg nog
1 (6 oz.) can frozen pineapple juice concentrate, defrosted
¼ teaspoon salt

Soften ice cream, then blend smooth with milk. Combine all ingredients and serve well chilled. Makes about eight servings.

CRANBERRY EGG NOG PUNCH

1 quart egg nog
2 cups chilled cranberry juice cocktail
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Red food coloring

Combine egg nog, cranberry juice cocktail, salt and lemon juice until well blended. Add a few drops red food coloring to give delicate pink color. Serve well chilled. Makes six to eight servings.

A Danish Delight

Staying Power

Protein puts staying power into your breakfast so you don't get hungry before the noon meal. Some breakfast protein foods are eggs, sausage, milk, and cheese.

CONSTANCE KARLA, holding her pastel portrait of Walter, reminisces over how a Christmas card showing him playing a cello started her hobby of making an entire orchestra of cats with instruments out of scraps. On the easel are portraits of two other pets, Fritz and Mike, who lived to be 16 years old.

'MY SCRAP BASKET CATS'

A Little Feline Symphony Comes True

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Constance Karla has always liked cats, music, art and photography. Now, at 79, she is immersed in a hobby, bringing her interests together.

"My scrap basket cats," she calls the orchestra of three-dimensional jewel-eyed felines she has made from odds and ends of paper, cardboard and anything handy.

Miss Karla, who worked for the Mill Valley Library for 18 years, now lives in Greenbrae. Before retiring in 1963 she built the library's music record section to its present status.

AT HER Greenbrae apartment Miss Karla discussed how her interests came together when she began making the orchestra of little cats with tiny instruments.

"I have been fascinated with cats ever since I can remember, and I had always wanted to be an artist, but I was shoved into being a musician by my mother," she said. "I had absolutely no talent for music, but my father was a good artist, and I guess mother thought one artist in the family was enough."

Apparently her study of music under protest left no serious scars, however, for Miss Karla became a professional violinist, and for many years presented public recitals and programs with a harpist.

"I even did a stint in vaudeville," she said, her bright blue eyes twinkling with mischief, "and I was actually the first instrumentalist to play over the radio in the New York area about 1920."

When she and her father came to Mill Valley in 1928, they started a little shop in the basement of their home, where they made gift items out of redwood. That training in handicraft led to a job at Marinship in Sausalito during World War II making wood models of ships and ship parts.

IT WAS this training that came in handy in making her cats and their little instruments, she believes.

She started working at the Mill Valley library in 1945, where she was kept very busy doing many kinds of work until the music library required most of her time. After her retirement, she was free for the first

MAESTRO VON HISS N'SPITS may have called a 2 a.m. rehearsal for Constance Karla's feline orchestra, but the music they make, she says, is strictly symphonic, not of the backyard-fence-at-midnight variety. The musician-artist-photographer-cat fancier hopes to make a book of the pictures she has taken of the cats, each with a funny jingle caption.

Today's Divorce Laws Are Viewed

By JOAN LISETOR

New divorce laws are good for women who are now growing up, but women who are already married are not prepared for its effects, San Rafael attorney Ann Diamond told an audience at Redwood High School yesterday.

Her talk, "The Legal Status of Women," was sponsored by the Women on the Move group at Redwood as the first of a two-day program, "Women and the Law."

"Community property is anything acquired during the marriage," Mrs. Diamond explained, "with the exception of gifts and inheritances."

In case of a divorce the law divides these things equally, she said, but since the husband has been the manager, determined what was done with possessions, what the family standard should be and how money is to be invested it is not fair to the woman.

SO MANY laws discriminate against women, she said, because they are written by legislators and interpreted by judges, most of whom are men.

"The new divorce law provides a realtistic attitude by abolotioning the fault concept and recognizing that the breakdown is caused by both the husband and wife," Mrs. Diamond said. "In the old days, the '40s and '50s, women were told if they were good girls, good housewives and mothers, they would be provided for for life. All they had to do was help their husbands along in careers."

Using an hypothetical 35-year-old doctor, "because in Marin doctors divorce in large numbers," she gave the example of a 12-year-marriage with three children splitting up.

"Early in the marriage the doctor finished medical school and did a stint in the service. His practice has just started to show a profit and for the first time the family is in a comfortable situation," shesaid.

"The wife is a graduate of Berkeley and worked as a secretary when he was in medical school. She quit when the babies started coming and has been at home for 10 years. Then he decides to split.

"The court gives her half of the community property, but there is little property, since it is his education, and the court doesn't recognize that. She is given support for the children and for herself for three to five years, but she is in her thirties and her skills and self confidence have eroded while she was in the protected position."

THE DIVORCE law is a liberation of women who are not ready for it, she said.

"The romantic and sentimental ideas that you marry for life are not borne out by statistics, and giving up a life outside the home is a short-sided position," Mrs. Diamond said.

The attorney intorduced the youngest member of her law firm, Diamond and Savitt, Verna Mellini, who traced the legal rights of women since 1800, when married women in the United States and England had "the same status in the eyes of the law as the insane and criminals."

ANN DIAMOND
Legal status talk

During the 19th Century American women were granted a few rights, which included owning property and entering into contracts. Next came the right to vote in 1920, and things stayed about the same until the Equal Pay Act was passed by Congress in 1963. That statute does not cover all jobs and has some loopholes, she said, as does the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which under Title VII porhibits discrimination in employment.

"It is interesting that the word 'sex' was added as a joke by a Southern senator who wanted to see the act defeated," she said.

ANOTHER MILESTONE was reached two weeks ago when the Supreme Court delcared unconstitutional an Idaho law, which denied the equal protection guaranteed by the 14th Amendment, she said.

An Unusual Method For Divining Future

By BARBARA HOSMER

Patricia Garlan used an unusual method for divining the future at the final lecture last night in the College of Marin series, "Women: Past, Present. Future."

With the help of a panel, she asked each person in the audience to reach within and ask herself what she might be in the process or have hopes of becoming. She asked each to list 10 traits.

FORMER FESTIVAL Theater assistant director, Marjorie Casebier then asked the audience to close their eyes and take a "fantasy" trip back into their childhood, then youth, then middle years and then to think about the changes each had gone through as a person and what she hoped to be.

A fantasy film of children playing and becoming what they pretend to be helped to set the audience on its own "fantasy trip." Marin poet and College of Marin teacher Rosalie Moore Brown had read her poem "When I was 13."

After the fantasy experience, former Festival Theater director Elizabeth Berryhill read the now famous "Aren't I a woman?" statement by Sojourner Truth, delivered at a women's rights meeting in 1852.

AND THE AUDIENCE began to discuss themselves and the college's 13 week series on women.

Mrs. Garlan pointed out that the human condition had changed radically in recent decades with the discovery of DNA, rocketry, and atomic power with its ability to destroy the planet and human species.

"We have the ability to break out of a closed system into space, and patterns of growth, maturity and aging will be subject to our own wishes," said Mrs. Garlan, researcher for studies in non-verbal behavior at Langley Porter Clinic in San Francisco.

SERIES COORDINATOR Diane Wickstrom said that her intention for the series was to suggest choices that women could make in their lives, encourage growth through change, and illustrate some alternative life styles open to women.

Mrs. Robert King Is Elected To Direct Novato Hostess Club

She was born in El Paso, Tex., and has been a resident of Marin County for 25 years. She was graduated from Tamalpais High School and attended College of Marin. She and her husband, a Volkswagen parts department manager in San Rafael, have four children. Julie Ann, 16, Robert Jr., 15, Jenie, 8, and Ronald, 6.

Knitting, bowling, golf, arts and crafts and working with children are activities the new president says she enjoys as well as dancing and family get-togethers. She is also active in Camp Fire Girls, serving as a Blue Bird leader.

MRS. ROBERT P. KING
Hostess club president

Mrs. King has served as welfare, sewing and publicity chairman during her four years as a member of the club. She says the purpose of the organization is to promote and encourage good citizenship by taking an active interest in the civic, social and moral welfare of the community. Money from fund raising activities benefit civic projects. Club members recently donated $700 toward the Demonstration Creek Park near the Novato library.

Any resident of Novato is eligible to join the club.

Officers to be installed with Mrs. King on Jan. 20 are Mmes. David Thomson, vice president; Howard Miller, recording secretary; Al Verza, corresponding secretary, and Raymond Szostak, treasurer.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

The Younger Generation's Code Probably One Of The Straightest

DEAR HELEN:

The "Homely Girl" who commented about the previous generation (us oldies) being hung up on the beauty queen syndrome — proms, dates and sex — had better stop and take a good look at our world today.

Now I'll admit we probably had more interest in proms and formal dating back in those days. But sex?

It seems to me that with all the emphasis on free and easy living, near-nudity, the "your place or mine?" philosophy, this new generation is more sex-minded than ever before in history.

How many girls worry about standards and morals any more? (The boys never did, as I remember.) The way they wear their clothes, talk, hitchhike, openly sashay up to boys, they make their invitations very clear. — M.S.

DEAR M.:

"Homely Girl" said the younger generation is "no longer hung up on sex" and she's right. A "hang up" implies worry, indecision, obsession, secrecy. Today's youth doesn't consider sex that important. Sure, they indulge (what generation hasn't?), but for the "now crowd" it's a matter of personal choice. They don't feel compelled either way, and they don't condemn their peers, whichever way they choose. Nor do they try to hide their relationships.

You might be surprised to learn that some of the girls who appear most available, judging from an elder's view of clothes, "sashaying," talk, — even communal weekending — etc. are the straightest — and the boys know it and don't push.

If you don't believe me, ask a teen-ager — or observe which group largely keeps the "adult" book stores and X-rated movies in business: The hung-up middle-agers! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I applied at a local store for work. Because I was desperate, I filled out the boss's sex questionnaire the way I knew he wanted it. You see, it's all over town that he asks girls very personal questions in a supposedly psychological test and, if they indicate they're willing and eager, they're hired. Girls who don't go for extra or premarital sex get passed over. That's why there are usually job openings there.

Well, he hired me. I work in women's lingerie. So far (in two months) the boss has only stopped by once, and he hasn't asked me to his office yet. But I'm scared. What if he makes a pass? I absolutely have to have this job because my husband was laid off and his unemployment money is about used up. We have two small children.

How do I hold him back and stay employed? — WAITING BUT NOT WILLING

DEAR WBNW:

The lech (if he is one) probably won't bother you during Christmas rush — he needs willing workers now more than willing bodies.

After the holidays? Why not wait and see. Perhaps the guy is only curious, or maybe his psychological test isn't as sexy as you and others assume.

But keep your eye out for another job, just in case it is! — H.

SYMPHONY

time to do what she had always wanted to — study art — and she began taking lessons from Mill Valley artist Marcella Winer.

Though she painted other subjects, cats and art came together when she did the portrait in pastels of Walter, Mike and Fritz, her pets for many years.

"That made such a hit," she recalled, "that I got the idea of making the whole orchestra of cats. I loved constructing them and especially their little instruments.

"I had been taking colored slides and studying photography on my own ever since 1938. I had taken pictures mostly of my paintings and other people's, and I thought, why not photograph the cats individually and in groups and make a book of them with a funny little jingle under each one."

The book has not yet materialized, but the musician-artist-photographer-cat fancier has about 75 of these slides.

"MAKING THE cats and the pictures is my game, not showing them," she said, "but I have shown the slides in programs for my friends and for people in retirement homes."

Seen through a little viewer, the cats looked three dimensional through lighting tricks and a technique she developed of taking two different pictures of the same group from a slightly different angle and combining them into one image.

Adding to their fascination is the sense of humor, typical of their creator, seen in the jingle under each.

The Indigo Prints

Indigo prints are replacing the popularity of madras for spring and summer, reports Women's Wear Daily. The basic colors are yellow, white and navy blue printed on English cotton work cloth, and are often sent to Africa for use in dashikis and turbans. Now the prints are being seen in Western wear.

SMART SHOPPER

Indictment Could Aid Magazine Sales

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Last week's indictment of the Hearst Corp. and allied firms on 25 counts of mail fraud may be the final nail in the coffin of a once-thriving practice of selling magazines on monthly payment plans known as PDS (for Paid During Service).

Hearst is the last of the large nationwide companies to remain in the PDS business despite complaints filed a year ago by the Federal Trade Commission and other agencies of the federal government.

Hearst is also the first of such firms to be indicted for such operations. Cowles Communications, which formerly published Look magazine, got out of the PDS business after being fined $50,000 and enjoined from continuing certain practices last year in another mail fraud case.

Technically, Cowles was not indicted, but it was subjected to a "criminal information" which is similar to an indictment. The Justice Department settled the case before the grand jury had completed its probe.

TWO OTHER PDS operators, Time, Inc., and Perfect Film and Chemical Corp., one-time publisher of the Saturday Evening Post, have signed consent orders with the FTC in which they agree to stop using deceptive and unfair means to sell magazine subscriptions without admitting any guilt.

Almost all of the PDS business, estimated to total over $100 million a year, was done by these four companies and their subsidiaries with such names as Keystone Readers' Service, Ben Franklin Reading Club and Firestone Readers' Service, all of Perfect Film.

All of the sales operations were similar. A telephone caller would say she was conducting a survey and that in return for answering a few questions, the listener would be eligible to receive a free gift, either a reference book or magazine subscription.

Customers would be told they could get up to five magazines for five years free except for the cost of "postage." In fact, the cost equaled the full subscription price, which was spread over a two or three-year period of monthly payments.

When customers complained and stopped payment, they were often subjected to long-distance calls threatening legal action. In some cases, employers were also called.

IN THE Hearst case, the indictment charges that subscribers were enticed through bogus sweepstakes and "surveys" to sign up for "free" magazines, then billed and sent a book of coupons to be sent in with payments.

According to the indictment, each book of coupons contained at least one extra coupon, sometimes as many as six extra ones, beyond the number called for by the contract.

When customers noticed the extra coupon, says the indictment, they were told to forget it, but the company took no action to refund the money of other subscribers who did not notice the extra coupon.

INDICTED ALONG with the Hearst Corp. by the grand jury in Baltimore were International Magazine Service of Mid-Atlantic, Inc., and three officers of the firm, plus Periodical Publishers Service, Inc. Periodical is a subsidiary of Hearst; International is a franchise of Periodical.

The legal action climaxes a two-year crusade by Rep. Fred Rooney, D-Pa., against PDS selling schemes. His original complaint to the Federal Trade Commission two years ago was against Hearst.

Even Doubleknit Furs Making The Scene

NEW YORK (UPI) —This is the year of the doubleknit for men. There are doubleknit pants, doubleknit coats, doubleknit suits. And now for people who oppose the killing of wild animals for their pelts there are doubleknit furs.

As it works out, there are still a lot of real furs around, too, and Albert Gompertz says people who intend to wear fur and are ready to spend that kind of money will not hesitate. Besides, he said, "we are not handling any endangered species."

Gompertz, 50, a textile engineer turned fur expert, works with his brother John, 47, who is the "Mr. John" of Fur and Sports. John Gompertz, in the fur business all his life, now is consultant to a big textile firm which wants its fake furs to look real.

"There is what seems to be a growing opposition in the management of some publications and the management of some department stores to real furs, and we thought it might hurt the industry," Albert Gompertz said. "Instead we just added the fake furs —I like to call them 'fib furs' onto the old line, and doubled our business."

GOMPETZ CALLS the new fake fur line "The Other Dimension" and said "instead of letting someone else knock us off (copy the designs) we decided to knock ourselves off so many of Mr. Fred's designs turn up in our fake, or fib fur line."

"We still make a lot of furs too," he said. "A muskrat is a rodent and when you make a muskrat coat it is sort of like pest control for flies, mosquitoes and rodents. But then there is also a general economic factor, especially in the men's line. Men are liberating themselves and spending more money on fur coats.

"RATHER THAN make actual fake furs to imitate the real fur we also decided to give them some status. So we decided men could wear pile fabrics whether it looks like real fur or not.

"I think the fake furs should be sold right alongside the real furs and maybe this will avoid controversy. Then if somebody has a hangup about blood on my hands from an animal you can ask: 'How about polluting the rivers with polyesters'?

JACKIE ONASSIS APPEARS

Stitchery Exhibit At The Tamalpais

An exhibit of stitchery by Gertrude Sanford and Mrs. Ronald Alexander MacMillan of San Rafael is on display in the gallery of the Tamalpais Retirement Residence in Greenbrae.

Miss Sanford is a Tamalpais resident, as is Mrs. Mac Millan's mother, Dorothy McCone.

Tree-Trimming Party Slated

Residents of the Tamalpais Retirement Residence are having a Christmas-tree trimming party Dec. 14 at 2:30 p.m.

A tea to welcome new residents will follow the tree decorating.

Begin Day Right

One is less likely to overeat at lunch if they've eaten an adequate breakfast, says Dairy Council of California nutrition consultants. Studies have indicated that weight reduction is easier to manage when the day is started with a morning meal.

$100,000 Allocated For Scholarships

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — California State Parent-Teacher Association has announced that $100,000 has been allocated for the complete P-TA scholarship program for the academic year, June 1, 1972, through May 31, 1973.

Allocations are for 89 elementary teacher education scholarships at $500 for a total of $44,500; 65 secondary teacher education at $500 for $32,500; 15 special education at $500 for $7,500; nine school librarian at $500 for $4,500; 25 counseling and guidance at $200 for $5,000; 38 nursing at $100 for $3,800; four youth corrections at $500 for $2,000; and one rural Indian health pilot project at $200.

Student loans have first call on the fund, with $227,000 having been allocated for loans for this school year.

CURRENT ALLOCATIONS represent an increase over last year for student loans, secondary teacher education, youth corrections and special education scholarships and a decrease for elementary teacher education and counseling and guidance scholarships. Support for the fund is derived from presentation of Honorary Service and Continuing Service Awards, augmented by student loan repayments, interest on student loan funds invested in bonds and gifts.

Application forms for student loans are available from the P-TA State Office in Los Angeles and are considered by the student loan committee at its bi-monthly meetings. Purpose of the loans, which are interest free and require no co-signer, is to assist worthy high school graduates to continue their education.

Colleges and universities select and screen the scholarship recipients and disburse the funds.

THE CALIFORNIA P-TA allocates funds only to schools accredited by the State Board of Education and the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. Each scholarship recipient assumes an obligation following graduation to teach for one year in the public schools of California or to serve for one year in California in his specialized field.

Forms for youth corrections scholarships may be obtained from the P-TA State Office or the general manager of the California Probation, Parole and Correctional Association, 1220 H Street, Sacramento 95814, with March 31 the deadline for return of applications. Scholarships are granted for upper-division or graduate work, and applicants must be employed in the youth corrections system in California.

New Uniform Is Available

The first pantsuit for adult leaders of the Girl Scouts is available.

To keep pace with the activities of today's leaders, the organization had an easy-care, easy-wear pantsuit uniform created to facilitate action and upkeep. The pants and tunic top are of polyester double knit.

The Girl Scout organization recognized the need for suitable attire for this new young leader, and, answering the pleas from adult members for more comfortable and covered-up uniforms, have arrived in the nick of time with their new pantsuit. It's the new look for the active Girl Scout woman of the 70s.

New Way To Monitor Ill Infants

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —Telemetry, used to radio data from space ships to Earth, has been instituted at University of Minnesota hospitals to monitor seriously ill infants.

Dr. Arnold Leonard, chief of pediatric surgery, told Gov. Wendell Anderson Monday that the hospital is the first in the nation to use telemetry and a computer together.

In the space program, telemetry is used to radio all kinds of data from a space ship to Earth, including medical data.

At university hospitals the new method, in use for about a week, means that the infants and their incubators no longer need be hooked up to wires. Instead, a cigarette pack-size radio transmitter lies beside each infant inside the incubator. It transmits such data as heart waves, respiration and blood pressure to monitoring units of the computer.

The Consumer Being Cheated

Approximately 87 per cent of items tested by the New York City Consumer Affairs Commission have been found short-weighted, short-counted or short-measured, according to commissioner Bess Myerson.

Examples are a bag of potatoes marked "10 pounds" actually weighing 8 lbs., 7 oz.; a capon turkey that was 5 ozs. short; a box of toothpicks that had 411 toothpicks but listed its contents as 750.

Miss Myerson stresses that these are not isolated incidents. A weights and measures expert says United States consumers lose between $6 million and $12 million a year due to short weighting.

Making A Return

Raggedy Ann returns this season as a favorite of children of all ages. She and Andy have become teachers of sorts. A 19-inch Ann or Andy doll has buttons to button, zippers to zip, and snaps, laces and buckles galore. The aim: Teach the child playing with the doll how to dress.

SPORT NOTES

Cable Car Time For Boro, Piro

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Two very fine basketball players who got their prep schooling of the game from Redwood High School coach Dick Hart will be cavorting on the San Francisco Civic Auditorium court this weekend in the fifth annual Cable Car Classic.

John Boro is a guard on the University of San Francisco team and Jerry Piro is a guard on the University of Santa Clara team. Both are sophomores, both are good, and they played together for championship teams at Redwood.

They are not matched against each other in the opening round Friday, but depending on the outcome of the openers, it is possible they'll clash Saturday night. According to their coaches, they should see some action in the tournament.

Said USF coach Bob Gaillard about Boro: "He is alternating between third and fourth guard. He has an excellent outside shot and a great attitude. I know he's a tremendous asset to the team."

Said Santa Clara coach Cal Williams about Piro: "He's going to play. He's improving all the time and is a tough competitor. He's a real credit to Redwood High School and a tribute to their basketball program. His biggest problem is learning to adjust to varsity play and to quicker players. Right now he's the third or fourth guard, and he could possibly be a starter by midseason."

USF and University of California start the tournament Friday at 7 p.m., followed by the Santa Clara-South Carolina game at 9 o'clock. Friday's winners meet at 9 p.m. Saturday for the championship and the losers vie in a 7 o'clock consolation game.

If you are in need of tickets, Allan B. Murray still has some available at GTS Travel, 1435 Fourth Street, San Rafael, at a cost of $6 one night, $10 for both.

REG CAROLAN of Novato was one of the happy fans Monday night at Candlestick Park when Kansas City whipped the 49ers, 26-17. Reg, a tight end for the Chiefs before retiring a year ago, said hello to a lot of his old friends at the Chiefs' S.F. headquarters at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, and then went to the game. Carolan is now a salesman for Xerox Corp. His official title is nifty — "Facsimile Products Specialist." Reg, wife Judy and two children live in San Marin.

THAT TALL fellow with a basketball under his arm seen around Mill Valley every so often is Wilt Chamberlain. The Los Angeles Lakers' superstar usually stays at the home of a friend, James Bryan of Mill Valley, when he's in the Bay Area. Wilt is also an avid water skier and just might help promote the California International Cup next September. The water ski event is tentatively scheduled for Bahia development, near Novato.

SAID 49ER PRESIDENT Lou Spadia about Monday night's wild time on the field by teenagers at the end of the game: "This was the first such incident at Candlestick. I wouldn't like to see it happen again and I don't expect it to. We must have better crowd control."

I hope they don't have to put up a wire fence around the field as they were forced to do at Kezar Stadium because of this same problem.

49ers 4-Point Choices

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Norm Van Brocklin comes to San Francisco with a 10-3-1 record over the 49ers.

His team, the Atlanta Falcons, are 6-5-1 in the NFL West including a 20-17 win over the 49ers in the season opener. Van Brocklin hopes season-closing victories over San Francisco and New Orleans will land the Falcons in the playoffs.

The 49ers have been picked as four-point choices, according to odds posted out of New York.

Van Brocklin piled up that 10-31 mark against the 49ers while coaching at Minnesota and Atlanta. He keeps telling his team that if they outmuscle and outhustle the 49ers, victory will always be theirs.

Despite their problems with police at a private party Monday night, both quarterback Bob Berry and defensive end Randy Marshall are expected to play this weekend. Berry tops NFC quarterbacks in percentage of completions (61.9) and yards per attempt (9.41).

Coach Dick Nolan of the 49ers will still have a depleted secondary against the Falcons. However, safety Mel Phillips saw spot action against the Chiefs with his sore ankle which may get better by Sunday.

No More Tomorrows For Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) —The lame and the cripple will trot onto the field for the Oakland Raiders in Sunday's AFC West showdown at Kansas City.

Defensive tackle Carleton Oats and linebacker Gus Otto will probably be activated for the game. Oats has missed two games with a knee injury while Otto has played little in the past month.

Madden said he didn't learn much from watching the Chiefs race to a 16-10 halftime lead over San Francisco at a local television studio. So he left to study game movies of the Chiefs.

"From what I saw, the Chiefs were effective putting both wide receivers on one side and the tight end on the other, then passing to one side and running behind the tight end," said Madden.

"But it still all boils down to Sunday."

Warriors' Tailspin Continues

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —Maybe, the Golden State Warriors are thinking, it's not a good idea to beat the Milwaukee Bucks.

After the Warriors defeated the Bucks on Nov. 20, they lost three in a row. Golden State also upset Milwaukee on its home floor Nov. 30 and since then have dropped four in a row, the Warriors longest tailspin of the season.

Latest humiliation was a 116-113 loss to the lowly Atlanta Hawks on regional television out of San Diego Tuesday night.

Lou Hudson scored 30 points and Pete Maravich added a season-high of 26 as the Hawks came from behind to beat the Warriors for the second time this season.

Hudson's 11 points in the third quarter helped erase a 60-55 Warriors lead at intermission. Maravich couldn't miss in the fourth period to keep Atlanta rolling to its third straight victory.

Cazzie Russell tallied 33 points to pace the Warriors.

THANKSGIVING DAY RECORD TV AUDIENCE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Thanksgiving Day game between Nebraska and Oklahoma drew the largest television audience ever for a regular season college football contest, it was reported Wednesday.

The game, televised by ABC, averaged 13.6 million homes per minute, according to the Nielsen TV index ratings. This bettered the 13.3 million average reached by Notre Dame-Southern California in 1970.

The Los Angeles-Dallas pro football game, which was on opposite the Nebraska-Oklahoma game, had an 11.5 rating and was seen in 7.1 million homes but the Detroit-Kansas City game, seen on NBC starting at noon Thanksgiving, received a 22.5 national Nielsen rating and was watched in 13.9 million homes.

Berry Back To Practice In Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI)—Quarterback Bob Berry and defensive end Randy Marshall returned to the practice field Monday but the Atlanta Falcons refused to say whether they had been disciplined for involvement in an off-field party which led to their arrest.

Club owner Rankin M. Smith called the incident "unfortunate" but said police informed him neither Berry nor Marshall were involved "in the use or possession of drugs."

Smith also said it was a club policy that "we do not make public announcements regarding internal disciplinary action."

Both men were arrested Monday night following a raid on Marshall's suburban apartment after an informant reported a "pot party." A court hearing has been set for Dec. 23.

Angela Carol Nichols, 20, was also arrested at the party and charged with possession of marijuana, pills and a device suspected of being used to smoke marijuana.

Police charged Marshall, a reserve lineman, with running a disorderly house, and Berry, the Falcons' starting quarterback, with slugging a policeman.

A spokesman for the National Football League said in New York Commissioner Pete Rozelle's office had received news accounts of the incident but "we haven't ascertained all the facts. In these matters, each case is decided on its individual circumstances."

Marin Cagers Hike Win Streak To Six

Tars Whip Cosumnes J.C., 72-62

The College of Marin basketball Tars, weary and cold in the first half, played up to their reputation after intermission and defeated Cosumnes River Junior College last night in Sacramento, 72-62.

The Tars trailed at the half, 34-28, but went on a 16-4 streak immediately after the second-half tipoff and resisted a full-court press by the hosts late in the game. The victory gave them a 6-0 record.

"We were still very tired, with this bus trip to Sacramento to after a long bus ride to Reno," said Tars coach John Panagakis. "We rotated 10 men in and out, but their press still got to us near the end."

Marin shot a dismal 33 per cent in the first half, hitting nine of 27, but got good shots in the second half and made 15 of 24. "We were able to get the ball inside," said Panagakis. Roosevelt Green, the center, scored 12 points after intermission and finished with 17.

Joe DeMaestri, former Novato High star, added 18 points, 12 in the second half, Ed Herrnberger chipped in with 13. All told, the Tars shot 48 per cent on 24 for 51.

"We went out and played defense in the second half," said Panagakis. "We had been alternating zone and man-on-man defenses in the first half, but we went to a straight man-on-man after the half."

College of Marin — Casteel 3-1-7, Herrnberger 4-5-13, Green 7-5-19, Smith 3-3-9, DeMaestri 6-6-18, Groshong 1-2-4, Small 0-2-2. Totals: 24-24-72.

Cosumnes River — McDonald 0-2-2, Williams 5-2-12, Blake 7-1-15, Boxley 5-7-17, Roper 1-0-2, Slater 0-1, Myers 0-1-1, Houston 1-2-4, Pflugrath 3-2-8. Totals: 22-18-62.

Tomales Trounces El Molino, 65-57

Tomales High School, getting 56 of its 65 points from three men, defeated El Molino yesterday in Forestville, 65-57.

Showdown Sunday In K.C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — There seems to always be an Oakland-Kansas City showdown. And there will be again in 1971.

This was assured Sunday when Oakland fell to Atlanta, allowing its record to plummet to 7-3-2. Kansas City moved a half-game ahead of the Raiders at 8-3-1 Monday night with a victory over San Francisco.

But the Chiefs' lead will mean nothing Sunday. The only way they can make it work to their advantage is by tying the Raiders.

Since 1965, when San Diego won the last of three straight Western Division titles, Oakland has won four straight since the Chiefs were victorious in 1966.

The Raiders' divisional title in 1969 was tarnished, though, because the second-place Chiefs qualified for the playoffs, beat Oakland, 17-7, and won the Super Bowl over Minnesota.

Oakland rallied to tie Kansas City, 20-20, Oct. 31, but Coach John Madden will have reason to question his strategy in that one if the two teams tie again Sunday.

The Raiders drove to the Chiefs' six-inch line in the waning moments and Madden settled for a George Blanda field goal on fourth down. Had he tried for the touchdown and failed, there still was enough time left to regain possession in field-goal range.

But Madden took the field goal and many of the Chiefs felt he did them a favor by going for the tie.

A Chiefs' victory, because of the half-game lead, will clinch the divisional crown. An Oakland victory simply will mean the Raiders also must whip Denver Dec. 19 in Oakland. The Chiefs close against Buffalo in Kansas City.

"We've talked all season long about doing it ourselves," Kansas City Coach Hank Stram says. "And it really is within our grasp now. So that's our concern—what we do with the opportunity we have. We'll concentrate our energy on what we have to do, what must be done."

Since 1966, Kansas City has won only three of 13 games with Oakland. Two have ended in ties.

$1 Million Settlement For Warriors

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Three owners of the old Oakland Oaks basketball team, including singer Pat Boone, agreed Tuesday to a $1 million settlement with the owner of the Golden State Warriors, ending a court battle over basketball star Rick Barry.

The court fight began after the 1966-67 season when Barry, now of the New York Nets, left the former San Francisco Warriors of the National Basketball Association for the Oaks of the ABA.

Boone, and associates, S. Kenneth Davidson and William Hale agreed to pay Lemat Corp., owner of the Warriors, the $1 million as settlement of a $4.5 million suit. It accused the Oaks ownership of inducing Barry to leave the Warriors in violation of his $30,000-a-year contract.

Boone's attorney, Louis Meisinger, said that while the judgment was fixed at $1 million, a document not filed with the court provides for actual payments over a period of 10 years of "substantially less" than $356,000, the amount claimed as lost receipts for Barry's services by the Warriors.

Since the suit was filed, the Oaks moved to Washington and later to Virginia, where they are now called the Squires.

STARTS TOMORROW

Mariners Host Cage Tourney

College of Marin will be trying to win its own tournament for the third time in a row starting tomorrow in Kentfield.

The Marin Tars, winners of all six of their games thus far in the season, won the Marin Invitational Tournament the past two years and must be considered one of the favorites to win the sixth annual tourney.

Tomorrow's opening round schedule: Santa Rosa vs. Sierra of Rocklin at 3 p.m.; Solano of Suisun vs. Napa at 5 p.m.; Marin vs. Yuba at 7 o'clock, and Reedley vs. Ohlone of Newark, 9 o'clock.

Marin has two Camino Norte Conference mates in the tourney in Solano (2-3 record) and Santa Rosa (0-4). There are three Golden Valley Conference teams, Sierra (0-3), Napa (3-1), and Yuba (3-1). Reedley (3-3) comes from the Central Conference and Ohlone (0-4) from the Coast Conference.

Losers of the opening round games play Friday at 3 and 5 p.m., and the winners at 7 and 9 p.m. Consolation games and third place games are Saturday, 5 and 7 p.m., with the championship game scheduled for 9 o'clock.

American River Junior College of Sacramento won the first tournament in 1966 and repeated in 1968. In between, Sierra won.

Cost for the tournament is $1.50 for each night, 50 cents for children.

Bobby Winkles Added To Angels' Staff

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Bobby Winkles, Arizona State University baseball coach, was hired today by the California Angels to act as assistant to new manager Del Rice.

Winkles, 41, has been head coach at the Tempe School for 13 years and produced NCAA championship teams in 1965, 1967 and 1969.

He said his 10-year friendship with Rice prompted him to take the job as a coach with the Angels.

Hiring of Rice and Winkles is part of a reorganization job undertaken by Harry Dalton, the new general manager of the Angels. Rice won the Pacific Coast League Pennant with Salt Lake City, an Angel farm club in 1971.

The announcement came Tuesday that Rice had accepted a one-year contract with the Angels as their general field manager.

"This is the greatest Christmas present I've ever had," Rice said. "It's great to be back in the major league. It's always been my ambition to manage in the major leagues— it's what I've been working for all my life."

The 49-year-old Rice has been in baseball for 27 years and spent 17 years with five clubs as a major league catcher.

Dalton, who was brought here from Baltimore in October to give the Angels a transfusion, said "Del fits our needs completely."

"He is a firm knowledgeable leader," said Dalton. "His record as a manager is excellent. In four years in that capacity, he's sent nine players to the majors with a possibility of four or five more next spring."

Rice spent 10 of his 17 years as a catcher with the St. Louis Cardinals, then played for the Milwaukee Braves, the Chicago Cubs and Baltimore Orioles before coming to the Angels as a player and coach.

NBA ROUNDUP

Impressive Win For The Celtics

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Former Celtics Bill Russell and Tom Heinshohn are suitably impressed by the present brand of Boston talent.

They cite three reasons why the current Celts should win the Atlantic Division title in the National Basketball Association this season:

—The 105-97 victory over New York Tuesday night that snapped the Knicks' eight-game winning streak against Boston.

—The maturing of 1970-71 co-rookie of the year Dave Cowens into an all-round center.

—The 10-2 start by Boston this season and the ability to win a vital decision Tuesday that meant a two-game lead over New York.

"Cowens is a strong center, a good team player and tough on defense," said Russell, who won considerable renown as an NBA All-Star center with Boston.

Cowens controlled the boards in the first half as Boston overcame poor shooting to trail New York 52-51, at intermission.

The Knicks, hitting only on one of their first 15 shots, exhibited one of their frequent cold spells this season as they failed to score for 4:14 of the third period while Boston ran off 10 straight points. Boston led 69-55 midway through the quarter by running off an 18-3 spurt as Jo Jo White and John Havlicek zeroed in on target. White finished with 26 points and White netted 25.

"All teams are sky-high when they play us," said Heinsohn, the Boston coach. "The old Celtics were twice as tough, but we're achieving recognition. Everybody worked their butt off tonight to beat the Knicks."

Havlicek said the team "had good communication" as the Celtics grabbed the rebounds, brought the ball up fast and put pressure on the New York defense.

In other NBA action, Milwaukee routed Seattle 116-83, Chicago ripped Cleveland 115-99, Portland surprised Detroit 131-130 in overtime, Buffalo riddled Cincinnati 115-91 and Atlanta defeated Golden State 116-113.

Milwaukee let Seattle close to 39-37 with 3:46 left in the first half and then ran off a 12-1 spurt to put the game out of reach. Kareem Jabbar paced the Bucks with 29 points and Bob Dandridge had 28. Don Smith led the Sonics with 21. John Block of Milwaukee and Dick Snyder of Seattle were ejected in the fourth quarter for fighting.

Chicago remained 4 1-2 games back of Milwaukee in the Central Division with a fourth quarter rally that beat Cleveland. The Bulls held the Cavs to 13 points in the final period while scoring 30. Bob Love hit for 16 field goals enroute to a 40-point night for Chicago. The Cavs, playing without injured Austin Carr, were led by John Johnson's 25 points.

Stan McKenzie scored six of Portland's 15 points in overtime as the Trail Blazers won their first road game in 12 attempts. Jimmy Walker rallied Detroit in the fourth quarter by scoring 19 of the club's last 21 points in regulation time. He finished with 40. Geoff Petrie, the other co-rookie of 1971, scored 36 for Portland.

Rookie Fred Hilton accounted for 26 points as Buffalo clobbered Cincinnati. The Braves scored 12 straight points in a surge that started with four minutes remaining in the third period and carried them a 69-64 deficit to a 76-64 lead. Nate Archibald netted 21 for the Royals, who dropped their fourth consecutive game.

Lou Hudson scored 30 points and Pete Maravich added 26 as the Hawks beat Golden State. Maravich, who accounted for his season high point-production, kept the Hawks alive in the final period after Hudson's shooting had put Atlanta into the lead in the third qyarter. Cazzie Russell led the Warriors with 33 points but it wasn't enough to prevent their fourth consecutive defeat.

Seals Battling For Title Of 'Best Of Rest'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —California's Golden Seals are in the thick of the battle in the Runner-up League of the NHL West.

Minnesota and Chicago appear to be the class of the western division and they are waging a spirited fight for first place.

Some 17 or 18 points behind are California, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia with no more than one point separating them. Only two of them can make the playoffs.

The Seals will try to improve their position by engaging the Pittsburgh Penguins tonight at the Civic Arena. California has played the Penguins three times this season and won two of them.

Bill Hicke, a former scoring leader for the seals, plays for Pittsburgh and could find himself on the ice against his younger brother, Ernie, who skates for California.

Trojan J.V.s Win

Terra Linda's unbeaten (5-0) basketball junior varsity rallied from a 17-1 deficit to defeat Redwood yesterday at Terra Linda, 48-45. Rich Mullin scored 14 and Bob Buckley 11 for the winners.

Scott Hot, But Squires Still Lose

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Charley Scott can't win it all alone.

Scott scored 17 points in the fourth quarter Tuesday night, but his flurry fell far short as Dallas defeated the Virginia Squires, 113-103. Still, Scott scared the Chaps with his scoring spurt that carried Virginia to within four points with four minutes to go.

The loss dropped the Squires 2 1-2 games back of Kentucky in the American Basketball Association's East Division. Dallas, led by Donnie Freeman's 26 points, moved within a half-game of third place Memphis in the West Division.

Roger Brown's trio of three-point baskets, enroute to a 22-point night, paced Indiana to a 119-114 victory over the New York Nets. Rick Barry scored 44 points for New York, including 25 in the first half, as the Nets fell to fifth place in the East.

Pittsburgh took over fourth place by beating the Carolina Cougars, 122-102. John Brisker tallied a game-high 29 points and grabbed 19 rebounds for the Condors, who snapped a three-game losing streak.

Warren Jaball's two free throws with four seconds left lifted the Floridians to a 107-105 victory over the Denver Rockets. Jaball scored the Floridians' last nine points and was high for the team with 19 points.

San Rafael Takes Lead In Water Polo

San Rafael High School struggled past Tamalpais in a foul-studded water polo game yesterday, 7-5, to take over first place in the Marin County Athletic League from idle Terra Linda.

Redwood broke a two-game losing streak and clobbered Novato, 18-7, while San Marin drubbed Drake, 13-4.

"Tam's top two players and our Scott Dicker fouled out," said San Rafael coach Bill Ranney, "and Gary Walraven sat out the second half because of fouls." Before they left, however, Dicker and Walraven scored two goals each, and after they left, Mike Kamler kept scoring to finish with three.

Redwood, smarting from earlier losses to San Rafael and Terra Linda, kept alive in the race by thrashing Novato. Dave Drake scored nine goals and John Goepp and Tom Chindler four each. "Ken MacDonald, a forward, did a great job on defense for us," said coach Dan Abballo.

San Marin, beginning to develop title aspirations after its recent upset of Terra Linda, used a tight defense to stop Drake. The losing Pirates had only 10 shots on goal from the field, and made just one.

Jay Woods scored six goals and Brad Leathers three for San Marin.

In junior varsity action, Redwood ran its record to 4-0 by defeating Novato, 8-3; San Rafael beat Tamalpais, 8-1; and San Marin topped Drake, 3-0.

Friday's schedule finds Tam at Redwood, Drake at Terra Linda and San Marin at Novato. San Rafael draws the bye.

The standings:

San Rafael 4-1, Terra Linda 3-1, San Marin 3-2, Novato 2-2, Redwood 2-2, Tamalpais 1-3, Drake 0-4.

Terra Linda Grapplers Fall; Munson Stars

Terra Linda High School's wrestling team was defeated by Jefferson High of Daly City, 33-24, yesterday at Terra Linda.

Stu Munson provided a bright spot for the Trojans. The 165-pounder pinned his opponent in a mere 27 seconds.

Ron Losk (191) and Tom Bennett (145) both pinned their foes in the second period. Keith Rautio (138) and Brian Jordan (175) both won lopsided decisions, Rautio by 9-4 and Jordan by 9-2.

Coliseum Just Like Home With Beer, Instant Replays

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LOS ANGELES — Sports fans attending the Coliseum will be able to buy beer for the first time Monday night. And in less than a year instant replay pictures will be flashed on a new $1.6 million scoreboard.

The Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Commission yesterday awarded the scoreboard contract to the Federal Sign and Signal Corp., and American Airlines.

The two co-sponsoring firms will construct the scoreboard — capable of instant replay transmission on the first exhibition game in August, 1972. American Airlines will also have advertising privileges for the sign.

In a separate action, the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board granted a beer-selling license to stadium concessions, ending 48 years of prohibition at the Coliseum.

Under terms of the license, groups using stadium facilities have the option of selling beer. The Rams will allow the sale Monday night at their game with the Redskins, but UCLA and the University of Southern California have not yet made a decision about beer sales.

Russ-U.S. Indoor Track

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The first dual indoor track and field meet between the United States and the Soviet Union will be held March 17 in the Richmond Coliseum, the Amateur Athletic Unioin (AAU) announced today.

Ollan Cassell, assistant executive director of the AAU and a former Olympic gold medal winner, and Gov. Linwood Holton made the announcement jointly at a news conference at the state capitol.

"We are most pleased that the state of Virginia has been chosen the site of the world's first indoor track meet between athletes of Russia and the United States," Holton said.

Cassell, who won a gold medal in the 1600 meter relays in the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo, said there is a long history of competition between the U.S. and the Soviet Union in outdoor track, but that this marks the first time they will meet indoors.

He called the coliseum, which opened last August and which will seat 9,176 for the one-day event, an "excellent facility" for indoor track.

The decision to hold the meet in Richmond was due in part to the fact "the AAU feels amateur track and field should be provided in other areas than New York City, Los Angeles and San Francisco," said Cassell.

He said the 54,000 persons who turned out for the Pan Africa-USA international track meet at Durham, N.C., last summer—the largest attendance for an amateur track meet in the U.S. in 17 years— was proof of public interest in track in the South.

McGinnis' 12 Help Specialized Quash Quality

Specialized Services, a firm which apparently specializes in putting points on the scoreboard, defeated Quality Motorcycle Repair in the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league yesterday, 50-28.

Stan McGinnis scored 12 points, Terry Thomas 11 and Clem Glynn 10 for Specialized. Hal Clemets was high scorer for Quality with nine.

The All-Catholic All-Stars trounced the Roadrunners, 52-33, behind a 16-point effort by Jim Tupper. Gary Wintennerr added 12 and Bill Shine 10 for the Stars, while Mike French had 12 and Jerry Lonford 10 for the Roadrunners.

Las Gallinas Golf edged Brookline Electric in a defensive struggle, 29-25. The winners had no scorers in double figures, Tito Velasco topping them with nine, while Brookline's Keith Fraser took game honors with 10.

RECREATION, TOO

A Swim Program For Everybody

By PAUL CANE

"If you can swim at all, no matter what age you are, we have a place for you in our program," explains Don Swartz, head coach of the Marin Aquatic Club.

The Marin A.C., along with the four other Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) clubs in Marin County, is "taking into account now, more than ever, the recreational needs of the community," according to Swartz.

Rock Morgan, coach of the Novato Aquanaut team agrees. "We try to stress the idea of the recreational aspects of swimming along with the competition." It's a year-round proposition.

The three other local AAU teams, the Hamilton Air Force Base Voodoos, the Tamalpais Swim Club and the Dolphins of Marin do not have as many members as either the Marin A.C. or Novato, but each also offers similar recreational opportunities.

Hamilton coach Beth Musser relates, "We are interested in anybody (who meets the armed service-relation eligibility requirement) even if they are total non-swimmers. Ninety-nine per cent of all swim teams won't take you unless you can swim. But we encourage these people to join and to swim for the love of the sport."

Dave Seaton, in his first year as coach at Tamalpais, explains, "We like to give each individual the opportunity to reach whatever levels he can; we structure our program so that everyone can achieve what he wants," and put in as much effort as he wants.

Art Octavio, instructor of the Dolphins of Marin club says he stresses competition in and out of the water. "We give swimmers a chance to improve as far as their ability goes; our program gears people toward competition in the pool in races and out, like in school."

Morgan says he coaches about 30 youngsters under eight years of age, some of which, ("we virtually taught to swim."

He related that he gets "a bigger kick" out of coaching the inexperienced youngsters than his more advanced seniors.

Swartz said he felt the Marin A.C., with a four-phase program, meets the needs of everyone. His novice program ("The only ability needed to join is the ability to swim one struggling lap of a 40-foot pool"), is followed by the oft-publicized age-group and senior programs, where "the creme de la creme" compete in a highly competition-oriented environment, and then finally by the "Masters Program," a set-up where "adults that are overweight, or maybe just want to get in shape, can have a little enjoyment by exercising with others, meanwhile developing the cardio-vascular system."

Mrs. Musser retells the story of one of her recent swimmers, who, after failing a Red Cross swim exam, came to her for help. "Within six months, she could not only swim, she broke five Class A times and took five first places at a Pacific Association swim meet."

All local coaches agree on one thing. Mrs. Musser summed it up when she said, "I get a tremendous amount of self-satisfaction from working and helping these youngsters swim. Young children are an exciting group to work with."

Following is a list of Marin swim clubs:

Sonoma Cagers Try To End The Famine

Two College of Marin products will have roles in Sonoma State's bid for basketball respectability this fall.

After a disasterous record of 25 losses without a win last year, the Cossacks are battling back with several transfers, including Marin's Bob Ward and Darrell Ravani.

Ward, a 6-foot-7, 215-pound junior, is battling an equally tall Mark Bucklew for starting center. At present, Ward is first string under coach Dr. C. Douglas Earl.

Earl pointed out that "Bob gives a good effort all the time." Ward is also lauded for size and strength.

Thus, Ward and Ravani are two reasons why Earl stated: "we should be more competitive this year."

"Ravani was one of our starters two years ago, " Marin Tar coach John Panagakis recalled regarding this good shooting guard-forward.

"He was a real hustler who gives 120 per cent," the Tar mentor said.

He added, "Ward was one of our reserves last year. He played junior varsity for us the year before that. He was one of our real hard workers. He is one of these individuals who grew into maturity. He's a really dedicated kid."

"Dedication" seems to be the Sonoma State basketball hallmark this year, Earl noted. This is ably demonstrated by talented freshman guard Jim DeLaughter from Santa Rosa High School and his rumming mate Paul Holmes, an Orange Coast Junior College transfer. Both Holmes and DeLaughter are hard-driving speedsters.

In the frontcourt, Garfield George, a 6-4 Salinas Junior College star, will open with veteran Henry Crawford, 6-3. Both forwards are considered good leapers and rebounders.

While the quintet of George, Crawford, DeLaughter, Holmes and Ward are slated for starting assignments, Earl warned that his bench should not be overlooked.

Larry Austin and Bucklew are prepared to relive Ward underneath. Austin and Martinson will also help on the wings. Austin, a 6-5 jumping jack, was the Far Western Conference's second leading rebounder last season.

Football Hall Adds 10 Men

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Football Foundation, ducking the selection of a national college champion for 1971, Tuesday inducted 10 new members, including former coaches Eddie Anderson and Jess Neely of Rice, into its Hall of Fame.

The Foundation, which for the first time in its history postponed naming a national champion until after the post season bowl games, held its annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria before a crowd of 1,500 including Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Also named to the Hall of Fame were Nello Falaschi of Santa Clara, Clarke Hinkle of Bucknell, Glenn Killinger of Penn State, Bill Willis of Ohio State, Ray Matthews of Texas Christian, Dan McMillan of Southern California, Clyde (Smackover) Scott of Navy and Bob Steuber of Missouri.

Prior to the ceremonies, the Foundation announced that it would not name its national champion until the conclusion of the Nebraska-Alabama Orange Bowl game on New Year's night in Miami, Fla.

In introducing the new members of the Hall of Fame, Fred Russell, chairman of the Foundation Honors Board, said, "it is a great honor and privilege to induct these distinguished American football players into the Foundation's Hall of Fame."

Santa Rosa In 'Super Bowl' At Bakersfield

Camino Norte Conference football champion Santa Rosa Junior College faces El Camino of Torrance Saturday, 7:30 p.m., in Bakersfield for the state championship.

This "Junior College Super Bowl" pits Santa Rosa's balanced attack versus the Warriors running. Backs Doug Jena, Dave Darden and Rudy Metoyer bulwark the Torrance team's rushing assault.

BERKELEY (UPI) —More than 150 skaters open three days of competition Thursday in the Pacific Coast Figure Skating championships at Iceland.

Friday night's competition includes the bronze and gold dance, junior men's freestyle and senior ladies freestyle. On Saturday night will be the gold dance final, junior ladies freestyle, senior pairs final and senior men's freestyle.

Yacht Club Elects Ryan

Robert C. Ryan of San Rafael has been elected 1972 commodore of Loch Lomond Yacht Club, to succeed Dr. C. J. Peetz of Corte Madera. Ryan served as vice commodore during 1971.

Also elected to officer posts for the new year were James E. Howard of San Rafael, vice commodore, Henry Serra of San Rafael, rear commodore, Richard J. Naylor, Greenbrae, treasurer; Robert W. Blakeslee, Corte Madera, secretary; Eric Nelson, Novato, port captain; Robert Sitzman, San Rafael, sail fleet captain; Edward Windfeldt, South San Francisco, power fleet captain. Directors will be Dr. Peetz, William Waller of San Rafael and James Dunn of San Francisco.

Nikki Periman Records A 224 At Greenbrae

Nikki Periman rolled a 244 enroute to a 658 series at the Greenbrae Lanes Marin County Women's 600 Club and Junior Association Doubles Tournament Sunday.

Len Lewis and Tony Trowbridge each recorded a 224 in the Junior Division. Pat Douglas had a high series of 662, also in junior play.

Last Second Victory For Marquette

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Marquette isn't quite ready for Coach Al McGuire's humble pie yet.

McGuire wasn't too optimistic about his team's chances this season after coming off a 28-1 record last year, insisting that, "we're going to eat a lot of humble pie this season." But somebody forgot to tell the third-ranked Warriors.

They used a 30-foot desperation jump shot at the final horn by George Frazier and a pair of mistakes by soph Ron Foxworth to defeat Memphis State 74-73 Tuesday night and run their record to 3-0.

The Tigers led 73-70 with just 48 seconds left and Holcomb on the line when Foxworth was called for entering the foul lane too soon. Marcus Washington's jump shot narrowed the gap to 73-72 with 29 seconds left and Foxworth, who probably would just as soon forget the whole night, then missed the first shot in a one-and-one situation to give Marquette its opportunity to win.

Jim Chones led the Marquette attack with 18 points.

In other games involving the top 10 teams, No. 9 Michigan squeaked by Eastern Michigan 89-88, Florida State upset No. 11 Jacksonville 90-83, 13th-ranked St. John's (N.Y.) trounced Georgetown (D.C.) 107-67 and No. 15 Pennsylvania nipped Duke 50-49 in overtime.

COAST BASKETBALL

Another Bad Streak Ends

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

A second losing streak has ended in as many nights of West Coast cage action.

One day after San Jose State snapped a 22-game losing skein, Nevada Reno broke a 12-game loss streak with a 65-63 win over Sacramento State Tuesday. Terry Quinn's three free throws in the last 90 seconds and a 22-point burst by center John Davis decided it.

But San Jose State was back on the losing side as it called on Denver and collapsed 79-66.

Two tough teams took victories Tuesday as Nevada Las Vegas grabbed its first win with a 90-83 win over Northwestern Louisiana. Booker Washington had 28 for the Rebels, who lost their opener at Long Beach State.

Seattle, a new member of the West Coast Athletic Conference, opened its season with a 76-62 win over Seattle Pacific, which had won its first two. Greg Williams led a well-balanced Chief attack with 19.

St. Mary's, another WCAC dark horse, won its third straight with a 74-72 win over San Francisco State, which had won its first two. Earl Brown hit 13 of his 21 points in the second half as the Gaels fought back from a 10-point deficit.

Recent Trade Pays Dividend To Canucks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A recent trade with the New York Rangers paid off big for the Vancouver Canucks.

In the lone National Hockey League game Tuesday night, veteran wing Dave Balon, one of three players Vancouver acquired in the deal, scored the winning goal early in the second period as the Canucks edged the St. Louis Blues 2-1.

It was Balon's eighth goal of the season and third since joining the Canucks last month. He tallied 36 for New York IST SEASON.

The win moved Vancouver to within one point of the fifth-place Detroit Red Wings in the NHL East but the Canucks are still six points back of the fourth and final playoff spot now held by Tornto.

St. Louis missed a chance to break a third-place tie with Pittsburgh in the NHL West.

Center Fred Speck, with his first NHL goal, scored Vancouver's other goal. The only St. Louis goal was scored by Frank St. Marseille and gave the Boues a brief 1-0 lead in the opening period.

The Canucks, who lost defenseman Barry Wilkins late in the game with a shoulder separation, dominated play in the first period and outshot St. Louis 40-27. Wilkins will be out of action for up to seven weeks.

Riordan Tourney Opens Tonight

The Riordan High School basketball tournament opens tonight at the San Francisco school, with Marin County entries Redwood and Tamalpais idle.

Wilson of San Francisco meets South San Francisco at 7 p.m. and host Riordan faces Capuchino of San Bruno at 8:30. Should either Redwood or Tam advance as far as Saturday's finals, one of these four will be its foe.

Tam and Redwood play their respective openers tomorrow.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Don't Get Married — That Is This Month For A Tax Savings

Don't get married.

If you are planning on marriage in December give a thought to the tax consequences.

It could be that postponement until after Jan. 1 would result in big enough tax savings to pay for the honeymoon.

If you are single, you may not even have to file a tax return. You are required to file only if your income is in excess of the below listed table:

Single individual, $1,700.
Single individual 65 or over, 2,300.
Married couple, filing jointly, 2,300.
Married couple, one spouse 65 or over, 2,900.
Married couple, both 65 or over, 3,500.
Married person filing separately, 600.

Let's say that each one of you earned $1,724.99 during the year. If you get married in December and file a joint return, you will have to pay a tax of $144.00. On the other hand, if you don't get married until after Jan. 1, 1972, both of you can file as single taxpayers for 1971, and not pay tax. You will save $144.00 for your honeymoon.

NOT STATUTORY

Social security and welfare are not statutory income and are not taken into account in determining whether you are required to file.

Of course, if you were employed and had income tax withheld by your employer you would want to file a return to get a refund.

If you were self-employed and had self-employment income of $400. or more then you must file a return and pay the tax on your self-employment income, even though you are not required to file or pay for income tax purposes.

Also, if you remain single your parents might be able to claim the dependency deduction for each of you.

HALF OF COST

They must have furnished over half the cost of your support for 1971, but you do not have to have lived with them at any time during the year. Your gross income must not have been more than $675 in 1971, unless you were a student for five months or more, or were under nineteen years old on Dec. 31, 1971, in which case the income test does not apply.

If you meet all the tests for dependency, then they should claim you on their tax returns. This will in no way prevent you from also filing your own return (or not filing as above).

Profits Weigh On Blue Chips

NEW YORK (UPI)—Profit taking weighed on the blue chips today, but on balance the market was mixed in fairly active trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which measures movement of 30 selected blue chips, showed a loss of 4.08 at 853.32 near noon. Other major indicators pointdd in both directions, and advances held a slim lead over declines.

General Motors, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak and Jersey Standard surrendered fractions. Many of the steels, including U.S. Steel and Bethlehem, were on the plus side.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were STP Corp. down 1-4 on 42,400 shares, and Presley Development down 1 1-8 on 32,700 shares.

On the Big Board, Superior Oil rose 7 points, Wrigley 3 3-4, and Walt Disney 1 3-8.

IBM dropped 2 3-4. Stocks down a point or so included Mercantile Stores, Natomas, Standard Oil of California and McDonnell Douglas.

Chemicals were narrowly mixed. So were rails and airlines.

Dividend Declared

NEW YORK (BW) — The board of directors of Loews Corp. today declared a quarterly dividend of 26 cents a share on the common stock, payable Feb. 1 to shareholders of record Jan. 14.

Postponement

HOLLYWOOD (BW) — The board of directors of Capitol Industries Inc. announced today that consideration of the usual semi-annual dividend has been postponed until the Feb. 9 board meeting.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

General Electric Office Moves To Northgate From Milwaukee

A new addition to the growing roster of firms at Northgate Industrial Park is the General Electric Co. western regional headquarters for the company's medical systems services division.

Located at 4300 Redwood Highway in the Margarita Plaza complex, it covers 10 districts which extend over a wide territorial area. It was moved here from Milwaukee, Wis.

The western regional manager, James Magner, who came to Marin from Milwaukee, is now a resident of Paradise Cay. The office is not a large one and is smaller than its district offices which sell and service all medical equipment manufactured by General Electric.

The lease was handled by Dohemann and Co.

THERE IS a new dealer-owner for Marin Dodge, Inc., in San Rafael.

Len Houston, who has taken over this operation, has been a resident of San Jose for the past 10 years, and general manager of All American Pontiac in that city for five years.

Corporate name will remain the same, but the firm is now being called New Marin Dodge.

HOLIDAY SEASON conversation piece on downtown Fourth Street, San Rafael, is the clever artwork of Sharon Simpkins of San Anselmo which adorns not only Chapman's Shoes where she works, but every store front on both sides of Fourth between B and C streets and around the north corner at C Street. If you examine her work carefully you'll find that each art subject is different and has a particular meaning. The area is labeled as the Old Fashioned Gift Block by the merchants there.

THE DEWITT READING CLINIC, INC., which has been in San Rafael since 1950, has purchased property at 62 Middle Rincon Road in Santa Rosa and has moved its clinic opened in that city last year from 2777 Cleveland Avenue. De Witt also has had a clinic in Napa since 1966.

JOHN A. DILLON of Greenbrae, executive vice-president of National BankAmericard, Inc., has been named to the executive committee of the American Bankers Association bank card division.

Dillon

Gregory

NEW MANAGER at the Larkspur Safeway Store is Ralph Gregory of Richmond. He replaces Robert Perry, who has been appointed manager of the new Safeway store scheduled to open in El Cerrito this month. Gregory started his Safeway career in Oakland as a food clerk in 1955. He advanced to store manager in 1960 and since then has managed several stores in Oakland and Richmond.

WALTER J. TAIT of San Rafael, retired manager of training and development for Standard Oil Co. of California, has returned from a six-month assignment with the International Executive Service Corps in Taiwan where he was advisor on the inauguration of a leadership and management training center. He was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Tait.

REAL ESTATE: Dennis R. Molloy of San Rafael and John W. Gamby of Marinwood have joined the residential sales staff of Grubb and Ellis Co. Molloy, at the San Rafael office, formerly was with Acherman and Carrier in Mill Valley. Gamby, previously with William Timmer, Realtor, is at the Terra Linda office.

Bank of Marin

Directors of the Bank of Marin have declared a 25-cent per share dividend to shareholders of record as of the close of business on Dec. 17, 1971, payable Wednesday, Jan. 19, 1972.

Peasant Aid — The Easy Way

NEW YORK (UPI)—"The United States doesn't have to go broke helping the rest of the world if it would only take pains to get its aid down to the peasants," says John L. Peters of Oklahoma City, president of World Neighbors.

World Neighbors is a businessmen's organization that has operated its own foreign aid program since 1958. It spends $1.5 million a year in contrast with the huge sums expended in economic aid abroad by the U.S. government.

Currently, World Neighbors has 121 projects going on in 15,739 villages in 21 countries. It has a staff of 21 in the United States and 1,546 abroad plus some 23,700 local volunteers.

Peters is a former Army chaplain who organized World Neighbors with the aid of a group of businessmen in the Southwest.

Peters is a strong believer in the old maxim —"Give a man a fish and you feed him for one day; teach him to fish and he feeds his family for a-lifetime."

How does World Neighbors go about it?

In Paramaiba in Brazil's desolate northeast, Dona Simplicia Oliveira, who just lost her husband and had a son to raise, had only one asset, a reputation for baking good bread. World Neighbors lent her $85. She built a mud oven and went into business.

John Modede, a Nigerian farmer, lost his arm in his country's civil war and had five children to feed. With a loan of only $4.50 plus some seeds from World Neighbors to buy a net, Modede became a fisherman as well as a farmer.

Lawrence Rwandema, a laborer, got a land grant in the new African state of Ruanda but had no money for seed and knew nothing about how to raise a crop and sell it. World Neighbors loaned him two teaspoons full of onion seed and gave him the necessary advice on how to grow and sell the onions.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Trading Symbol — What It's About

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. There are 1,400 stocks listed on the Big Board with more added all the time. I should think that duplication of symbols might soon become a problem — after all there are only 26 letters in the alphabet. Would you agree that there are more companies being lsited than in the past? — C.R.

A. Although there are only 26 letters in the alphabet, trading symbols may be made up of either one, two or three letters combined in any pattern. This means that there are 16,276 possible combinations. These, however, must be shared by the exchanges since symbols are not duplicated. Some combinations are avoided because of their connotations. Thus while CAT stands for Caterpillar Tractor and BAT for Bates Mfg., DOG and RAT are conspicuously absent from the ticker tape, although ANT, BUG and FLY are all to be found.

Surprisingly enough the single-letter symbols are not as popular as one might expect, there are still six which have yet to be used: E,H,L,O,Q and V. MR and MRS, Mallory Randall and Morse Shoe respectively, are joined by the Women's Lib-approved female form of address MS, the symbol for McCrory Corp. This same activitist group might have a comment on HER — Helena Rubinstein.

Given names are perennial favorites: PAT, LOU, PEG and SAM to name a few. Recent listings have been more circumspect with initial letters or syllables being favored. However a few humorous acronymns have slipped in including PST for Petrie Stores and MY for Marley Corp.

There has been no noticeable increase recently in new companies accepted by the Big Board. In the most recent 12-month period some 94 new companies qualified to have their common stock listed. In the late 1960s in a comparable 12-month period common shares of 109 companies were considered worthy of the Big Board.

Record Sales Told

ALBANY, Ore. (BW) — REM Metals Corp. has reported record sales and a return to profitable operations for the quarter ended Sept. 30. Sales were $676,579 with a net profit of $16,940, or 3 cents per share.

New Sausalito Shopping Look Is Backed

A long-time dream of a commercial area tailored for residents got a boost last night when the Sausalito City Council tentatively approved a proposal for a new zoning district in the city.

The resident-commercial zone, envisioned for the Caledonia Street area, would include shops and other businesses aimed primarily at serving residents rather than visitors and tourists.

The council directed City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to prepare for consideration at its Dec. 21 meeting an ordinance creating the new zone and to establishing uses in the zone.

Councilmen also agreed to send to the city planning commission a suggestion by Councilman Stephen A. Fraser that the resident-commercial zone be expanded to include the east side of Bridgeway to Humboldt Street in the area from Johnson to Mono streets.

As now envisioned the proposed R-C zone would be bounded by San Carlos Avenue on the south and by Napa Street on the north. It would extend 100 feet west of Caledonia and include the western portion of Bridgeway between San Carlos and Napa.

Fraser said he sought the expansion to "limit the visitor-oriented area of Sausalito" to the downtown commercial district. He said addition of the area east of Bridgeway would also preserve for resident use the city's newly-acquired property in the Humboldt Street area which it purchased with $560 approved by voters last November.

"We pay too much in taxes not to be able to enjoy our waterfront," Fraser said.

Principal uses permitted in the resident-commercial zone would include: banks, bookstores, libraries, business services, cigar stores, furniture stores, garden supply houses, household appliance sales and repair shops, locksmiths, florists and paint and wallpaper stores.

Other principal uses allowed: photography shops and studios, stamp and coin stores, upholstery shops, clock repair operations, beauty and barber shops, pharmacies, tailor and alteration shops, grocery stores, business and professional offices and dwellings located on floors above the ground floor.

On Fraser's recommendation, the council voted to require candy, hobby, shoe and sporting goods stores to obtain condition use permits from the council. Fraser said he sought the limitation because such businesses might become tourist-oriented.

Other conditional uses allowed in the new zone would include schools, churches, meeting halls, mortuaries, pet shops, nurseries, medical and dental laboratories and blueprint and photostat operations.

Certain kinds of restaurants will also be permitted under conditional uses, but those which offer take-out food, serve customers in autos, serve alcoholic beverages or offer entertainment will be excluded from the resident area.

In accordance with suggestions from the city planning commission, Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt told the council off-street parking requirements for businesses in the area would be determined by parcel size. He said no off-street parking would be required for parcels containing 2,500 square feet of area or less. Those with area up to 7,500 square feet would be required to provide one off-street space for each 750 square feet of commercial floor area.

City Engineer Norman Wohlschlaeger noted that employees and customers from existing Caledonia Street businesses are already parking on nearby residential streets and creating serious parking problems for the people who live there. He suggested the council also require businesses in the zone to provide off-street parking for employees.

The council asked the city staff to prepare a comprehensive study of projected parking needs in the area for presentation and consideration at a future council meeting.

The Sausalito City Council also:

RAILROAD WAY — Asked the city attorney to file an action in Marin Superior Court to acquire a 60-foot wide railroad right-of-way extending from Johnson Street to the north city limits. Railroad service on the right-of-way was abandoned Nov. 24 by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

PARKING VARIANCE — Set for Dec. 21 a public hearing on a variance application from Joseph Scoma seeking relief from city off-street parking requirements in order to increase the floor area of Scoma's restaurant by 53 feet and to increase seating capacity by 16.

JAIL — Agreed to demolish the old Marin County Jail on Bee Street and to clear the land — formerly a city corporation yard — for other use.

EXTENSION — Set for its Dec. 21 meeting a public hearing on an appeal of planning commission refusal of a 12-month extension of a conditional use permit to build a 431-unit apartment on the old distillery property by Duffel Financial and Construction Company.

SIDEWALKS — Voted to hire architect Donald K. Olsen to prepare plans for Phase I of the Bridgeway sidewalk widening project which the council approved several months ago as part of its plan to enhance the downtown area.

Sale Relocated

The location for the Terra Linda Junior class bake sale, originally announced for Northgate Two shopping center near the Emporium in San Rafael, has been changed to the Mall of Northgate One, according to Donald Clow, class president. The sale will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Guess who was born today, Dec. 8, and became famous as:

1. A popular new NBC television comedian? In the U.S. Air Force this man's commander laughed at his clever quips, gave him his nickname (meaning quick wit) and had him tour Pacific bases lecturing on "the love life of coconut crabs": (A) Red Buttons; (B) Red Skelton; (C) Flip Wilson.

2. A celebrated Mexican artist? Considered the 20th century's outstanding muralist, this modern artist showed how it was done at the 1939 World's Fair and his work can be seen in San Francisco (Stock Exchange and Fine Arts Building): (A) Benny Bufano; (B) Diego Rivera; (C) Rufino Tamayo.

3. A great Finnish composer? A violin teacher, he received a state annuity in 1897 to concentrate solely on composition and proved his talent by creating seven symphonies and the tone poem "Finlandia": (A) Jean Sibelius; (B) Nils-Eric Ringbom; (C) Erkki Melartin.

4. One of the most honored poets of Rome? Born in 65 B.C., this lover of nature was commissioned by Emperor Augustus to use his talents, whereupon he gave the world everlasting masterpieces in satires, epodes, odes, and epistles: (A) Horace; (B) Vergil; (C) Cicero.

ANSWERS

1 (C) Flip Wilson); 2 (B) (Diego Rivera); 3 (A) (Jean Sibelius); 4 (A) (Horace).

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Even In Bridge, The Cart Can't Go Any Place Without The Horse

If you have to get the car out of the garage, drive to the supermarket and do the family shopping, you have no trouble remembering the correct order of your chores. It's very clear that you can't do the shopping until you've reached the supermarket and that you can't drive to the market until you've taken the car out. There is an equally correct order in your chores at the bridge table, but it may not be as obvious.

RIGHT ATTACK

When today's hand was played, South won the first trick with the king of spades and wondered which of the three other suits to attack first. Since there was no clear indication, he started by leading a low diamond to dummy's king.

South had started well by doing his first chore first, but now he fell on his nose by leading a low club from dummy toward the honors in his own hand. It seemed to South that leading toward the clubs was just as correct as leading toward the diamonds, but East demonstrated the error of this idea by stepping up with the ace of clubs in order to return the queen of spades.

HOLDS UP

South held up the ace of spades but had to part with that card on the next round of the suit. Now South couldn't hope to develop nine tricks without leading another diamond, whereupon West took the ace of diamonds and defeated the contract with the rest of the spades.

It is clear to us, of course, that declarer should lead a heart from dummy after winning his first diamond trick. When the finesse with the queen of hearts succeeds, South leads a diamond to dummy's queen. (West must play low again because it cannot help him to give up his only side entry so early.)

GOES AFTER CLUBS

Now declarer goes after the clubs, leading low from dummy to win with the king in his hand.

He continues with the queen of clubs, dropping the ten. He can then easily develop three club tricks to add to his two tricks in each of the other suits.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - Q 7 4
♥ - K 10 9
♦ - 8 5 2
♣ - A 8 7 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one no-trump. Since this promises balanced distribution and about eight to 10 points in high cards, it is a better description of your hand than a raise to two clubs.

Batik Show

Batik art will be displayed at the San Rafael City Library through December by Gretchen Osborn of San Rafael and Jane Santucci of San Anselmo.

Woman Sentenced In Bad-Check Case

Carol Ann Daenzer, 28, of Corte Madera, has been given 120 days in jail and five years' supervised probation for passing bad checks in Corte Madera in July and August this year.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court sentenced her on two counts of passing bad checks. The judge, however, gave her credit for 107 days already spent in jail.

Bureaucratic Impasse: Specialist — Generalist

Publications that pour out of the U.S. Government Printing Office tend to be long on bureaucratese and short on readability. Not so, however, one upon which we chanced recently.

This 71-page pamphlet is entitled "Specialists and Generalists: A Selection of Readings." It starts with Aesop's fable of the mice in council ("who will bell the cat?") and ends with "Some Maladies of Leadership" from John W. Gardiner's 1965 annual report of the Carnegie Corp. Between are selections from writers ranging from Thucydides and Aristotle through Plutarch and Machiavelli to Alfred North Whitehead and Winston Churchill.

ALL HAMMER HOME, in different ways, a point that should be born in mind by elected and appointed officials in Marin and elsewhere: The specialist, the technician, has his place. But it is the generalist — the man of good sense and wide experience, however lacking in specialized knowledge — who must make the great decisions. The specialist is simply too limited.

As Viscount Haldane wrote (in one of the quoted excerpts): "There is a large class of skilled work, some of it requiring long training and even initiative, which is done better by competent permanent officials than by statesmen even of a high order. But when we come to the highest order of work it is different. There is a common cry that this, too, should be left to the expert. There is no more complete misrepresentation of a situation."

THE DIFFICULTY is cited by Max Weber in another selection:

"Under normal conditions, the power position of a fully developed bureaucracy is always overtowering. The 'political master' finds himself in the position of the 'dillettante' who stands opposite the 'expert,' facing the trained official who stands within the management of administration."

The result is that the county supervisor, or the school board member, or whatever he maybe, yields to the deep (but narrow) knowledge of a specialist who sees all things between a pair of blinders fashioned by his calling.

The last selection in the pamphlet — that from John W. Gardiner — suggests what he should do instead:

"After the facts are in, the leader must in some measure emulate the little girl who told the teacher she was going to draw a picture of God. The teacher said, 'But, Mary, no one knows what God looks like'; and Mary said, 'They will when I get through.' "

THIS UNUSUAL government pamphlet is not new. It was published in November, 1968. It resulted from a Senate subcommittee study of the planning, programming, budgeting process in the national security area—the much-talked-about PPBS. And the man who caused it to be issued was the subcommittee chairman, a gentleman most people probably would categorize as himself an expert (in defense matters) rather than a generalist: Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a current aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The cover page of the pamphlet says: "Printed for use of the Committee on Government Operations." But its lessons should be much more widely applied.

"What are you trying to do, destroy the two-party system?"

Smell Of Partisanship Pervades Debate Over Campaign Financing

WASHINGTON — When every Republican senator opposes and every Democratic senator favors a single piece of legislation, you can be sure there is politics all over the place.

It's all of that — and more — in the heated, partisan-dominated fight over whether presidential elections should be financed out of public money.

In the end the smell of politics from both sides became so bad that the Democrats, while passing their tax checkoff to get campaign funds, delayed applying it until 1976.

A PRINCIPAL MOTIVE of the Democrats has been to get their party out of hock as soon as possible by tapping the federal treasury.

A principal motive of President Nixon has been to preserve the political advantage of being so well-financed at the very moment when the Democrats are so deeply in debt.

In this bickering atmosphere, it was plainly impossible for Congress to shape the kind of carefully considered measure which would deal wisely with the staggering increase in the cost of national campaigns.

Whether the present bill is vetoed or becomes law but inoperative for four years, there is now time to re-examine its provisions in a calmer climate.

THERE IS CERTAINLY need for new legislation.

But the Democratic plan to tax the public to defray the cost of presidential campaigning raises some questions which hardly figured at all in the debate.

One provision promises a post-campaign reimbursement to any fourth-party candidate who gets more than 5 per cent of the popular vote. Is it really in the interest of good government to offer a financial incentive to a New Left dissident (like Sen. Eugene McCarthy who can hardly wait for such a chance) to get in the race?

Again, at the very moment when Gov. George Wallace is losing strength in the South, do the Democrats want to assure him in advance that he will have a kitty of at least $6 million to encourage him to run, whatever his chances?

Is it sound policy to use public funds to encourage third- and fourth-party movements and thus contribute to the erosion of the two-party system? And why isn't Congress repealing the "equal-time" provision which would save the parties millions of dollars in TV costs?

THOUGHTFUL PEOPLE may well differ as to what answers should be given to these questions.

But the Democratic Party's urge to get out of debt isn't a persuasive reason for saying yes.

And President Nixon's urge to retain his party's exquisite financial advantage isn't a persuasive reason for saying no.

My instinct is to prefer the proposal of President Kennedy's Commission on Campaign Costs, with a broad bipartisan membership, which recommended that contributors be allowed deductions from taxable income up to $1,000 a year for political contributions.

At a time when the number of small contributions to political parties has been growing, it seems to me it would be well to try this incentive before charging it all to Uncle Sam.

If this doesn't work, then there would be a strong case for full federal financing of federal elections. This concept has very respectable Republican ancestry. Its first advocate was Mr. Nixon's favorite President — Theodore Roosevelt.

Picture Emphasizes Extent Of Cruelty

If the Humane Society saw fit to print pictures and descriptions of all the unfortunate strays they rescue, or find abandoned, I'll bet they would be besieged by calls (tearful, maybe, like mine) from families wanting to adopt them.

Your picture-caption Saturday Dec. 4 made me realize with shuddering impact the extent of cruelty of this demented day and age.

'Junk Mail' Term Disliked By User

Last week you referred to third class mail, for the second time this year, as "junk mail." We happen to earn substantial part of our living through the use of third class mail, and we resent your insult. It is not possible to interpret our use of third class mail as "junk."

We do not know who feeds you the hateful copy, but the tone reeks of some kind of vendetta against third class users.

Cool it.

Question And Plea For Animal Owners

This letter is a question and a plea. First the question. How can a person, who probably is supposed to be an adult, make an animal more helpless than it already is and then throw it in a culvert to die? (I-J, Dec. 4, page 5)? I hope whoever did it realizes how cruel they were and suffers for it in their mind.

The plea? Please take any surplus animals to the Humane Society where if they have to die, they can die painlessly.

Better yet, have your animal spayed or neutered. It's worth it.

Power Of Press Proved At Gate 5

I finally have proof that the press will survive forever. Our social system is saved!

Unfortunately its perpetuation may not rely upon the poetry, or the whit, or the reporting of its editors and staff.

Today I was reading in the Gate 5 Restaurant, savoring a few minutes of relaxation after my lunch, though finding it difficult due to an apparent dog fight that was happening outside. Beside me lay my half-read copy of the Independent-Journal.

Suddenly I became conscious of an enormous man standing over me — a man who by his size alone seemed capable of convincing any mortal on earth of his opinion merely by a flick of his finger or a flexing of his muscles. He most deferentially asked if he may borrow my copy of the I-J for just a few minutes.

He then carefully rolled it, and proceeded outside, where he treated his hound dog to the verbal chastisement of his life for making such a noise — all the time accented by a slapping of your paper against his hand. Silence followed immediately!

On returning, he confided in me that "the only thing that dog is afraid of is a rolled newspaper!"

Now every time I read my I-J, I will think of that time in Gate 5 when. . . .etc., etc.

Maritime Academy Upgrading Advocated

The California Maritime Academy Alumni Association believes that California has lost a chance of becoming the center of marine transportation science when Governor Reagan vetoed AB 705.

This bill would have transferred the California Maritime Academy into the state college system and provided it with academic quality equivalent to other state colleges.

We had hoped that CMA would go through the same metamorphosis that the New York Maritime Academy did when it was transformed into the state University of New York Maritime College in 1948. . .

There has been broad support for upgrading the academy from California maritime industry, the California Legislature, the California State College Board of Trustees, the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, the San Francisco Bar Pilots, the California Inland Pilots, and the alumni association.

In view of the foregoing, we are now urging these organizations to again make their feelings known to the governor by urging him to sign AB 232 which would provide for a study of CMA by the Coordinating Council for Higher Education.

County Should Sponsor Clinics For Animals

What a shame to think of some 17,000 defenseless dogs and cats put to sleep in Marin County last year. Surely there must be a solution which would curb the amount of unwanted offsprings. Why not some sort of county-sponsored animal birth control clinic, whereby the county would add to its revenue, while giving the interested pet owners much reduced spaying and altering costs?

I can remember, as a child, in San Francisco we were able to take our pets directly to the Humane Society for this type of service, for reasonable fees. With the tremendous charges by the veterinarians here in the county, plus our much increased property taxes, how many of us feel we can afford $30 to $50 additional on our pets? We recently took our male cat to a new clinic here in San Rafael and spent exactly half of what the veterinary would charge. The place was so overcrowded, that I suppose additional help was hired, and I noticed their fees have already risen. I feel something county sponsored is the answer and perhaps people who do have their dogs altered might receive an extra bonus of lower fees on their yearly license. Our male dog was altered before he was given to us and even so I have to pay the same fee as if he were not, while the spayed female is charged half the regular fee. This never has seemed right to me.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Nixon By Chance Takes Right Stand On Public TV

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — When Mr. Nixon first moved into the White House and set up Herb Klein across the alley as media co-ordinator for the whole administration, some among us were tempted to label Klein the new "propaganda minister," despite his personal dissimilarity to the late Herr Goebbels. I am delighted now to have withstood the temptation, since Klein has been as softspoken in his propagandizing as anybody in political memory.

But while we have had an eye on him, and at the same time been bemused by Spiro Agnew's dignified journalism lectures, a younger, grayer eminence has emerged, with the freshly created and slightly ominous title of head of the White House Office of Communications Policy.

No propaganda merchant, Clay T. Whitehead is a 33-year-old engineering and management alumnus of MIT and the Rand Corp., who deals instead with nuts and bolts — with legislation and regulatory agency actions concerning the media. Because of the clearly protected status of the press itself under the First Amendment and because of the Federal Communications Commission's specific role in broadcast licensing, "communications" in Whitehead's case means mostly television. And because of the Nixon White House's obsession with TV in all its potential, it is no surprise that this administration was the first ever to perceive the public need for an Office of Communications Policy, and quietly bring it into being 15 months ago.

WHITE HOUSE communications policy in its broad sense, whether within Whitehead's purview or not, has been self-serving to the President and his party as a matter of course. Witness the resistance to limits on campaign television spending, and to lifting the equal-time provisions to make possible broadcast presidential campaign debates. That also is true, in a subtler way, of the position Whitehead takes in a current face-off with congressional supporters of the Public Broadcasting Corp.

Unusually, however, and quite by accident, in this instance administration policy is in the long-range interest of broadcasting, which has struggled so hard to be included in the First Amendment's guarantee against government interference with the press.

Whitehead, speaking for the President, opposes a bill to extend congressional appropriations for public television, nearly quintupling the present $35 million annual subsidy by the 1976 fiscal year. He insists that a substantial share of any further appropriations should be earmarked for use by local educational TV stations, rather than having the entire subsidy awarded to the "centralized" corporation, which decides on its own how much will be used for productions at the national level and how much passed out to the local stations.

AT THE HEART of the administration position is good old Republican ideology. The bulk of national public television's productions always have simply been too liberal for Mr. Nixon. There is no question that the public broadcasting diet has been badly out of balance over the years, and only lately has there been a noticeable effort to correct that with some rightward bias — by the signing of William F. Buckley Jr. to do his weekly interview-debates on the public air.

But what further galls the White House is the hiring of Sander Vanocur to be top gun in public television's 1972 campaign coverage. Vanocur's most noticeable political affinity in his years with NBC was with the Kennedys. That fact inspired new enthusiasm in the White House effort to knife national public TV. And now, the disclosure that Vanocur is being paid $85,000 a year in his new assignment arouses resentment at the capitol — since that sum happens to be exactly double with a congressman makes.

The climate thus is for a very tough congressional attitude toward greater funding commitments. But what is heard only faintly so far is the constitutionally sound idea that Congress should not appropriate any money for public TV at all. Robert E. Lee, a veteran FCC member, stated it in part when he said congressional appropriations open up the danger of "shaping noncommerical broadcasting to an image that is politically dependable, and therefore dull."

He suggested financing by national lottery instead. (Public TV's main non-government backing now is from the foundations.)

Whitehead's overriding interest in the bill proves the commissioner's fear is valid. No matter who is in the White House, the government inevitably is going to try to exert control over any broadcasting subsidized by government money. And with more than 200 noncommercial stations now on the air, even a season of intelligent programs free of commercial breaks is not worth that built-in risk. No one should know that better than the broadcasters otherwise so eager to establish their independence from government control.

By RUS WALTON:

California Running Risk Of Encephalitis Epidemic

SACRAMENTO — Come next summer and some 90,000 acres of California pastureland could turn into breeding grounds for death.

Pools and puddles on these quiet fields will produce millions of mosquitoes — not just the ordinary itch-and-scratch variety, but the type that are capable of carrying encephalitis virus.

Encephalitis is an inflammation of the brain tissues which can cause temporary or permanent damage to the central nervous system. It is especially severe on infants and young children. In some cases it results in death.. In others, it can leave a child mentally handicapped for life. Doctors believe many cases of mental retardation may have been caused by some form of encephalitis.

MOST OF THE MOSQUITOES, encephalitis transporters, are becoming increasingly immune to pesticides. And, on approximately one-tenth of those 90,000 acres of that pastureland, species of mosquitoes propagate almost totally resistant to one or both of the common insecticides.

State public health officials say that, given the right circumstances, encephalitis could break out in epidemic proportions one of these summers. So far, they warn, California has been extremely lucky.

That luck has been based on several factors. First, until recently, the use of insecticides and various vector control measures have been fairly effective.

Second, for some unknown reason, the virus reservoir among the carriers such as birds and small field animals has been very low in recent years.

BUT THIS LATTER factor also causes public health people concern. They point out that when a mosquito carrying a low virulence or sub-threshold amount of the virus bites a person it can serve as immunization. There may be a low fever and slight headache but the person is then protected against later bites and stronger virus strains.

The encephalitis virus has almost disappeared in recent years in the Central Valley. This means that many individuals, especially children, do not have the immunization which could protect them.

Should the virus return to its normal level in the birds and animals, and should this combine with a heavy runoff of waters and summer temperatures, a prolific mosquito crop could transport encephalitis in epidemic proportions.

THERE IS NO INNOCULATION and no known standard treatment for encephalitis.

The only known safeguard is vector control. Vector meaning "an insect or other organism which transmits a pathogenic virus."

Richard Peters, vector control chief for the State Public Health Department, and his staff are doing what they can with what they have. But no one is willing to sit back and relax.

Peters needs more environmental control engineers. And, he needs more biologists and scientists to seek new facts and devleop more effective controls. Such an increased effort would require a relatively small amount of state funds. It is the only insurance policy the public has against the time bomb of encephalitis which keeps ticking away.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Los Angeles School Proves Inner City Syndrome False

By BRYCE. W. ANDERSON

A Los Angeles public school is one of four in the United States identified by George Weber, associate director of the Council for Basic Education, as doing an outstanding job of teaching reading to primary grade children from very low-income homes.

Weber is sure there are other such schools. But he identified the Ann Street School at 126 East Bloom Street, Los Angeles, and three others — two in Manhattan and one in Kansas City — in a year-long project which included classroom visits and third grade testing at 17 schools selected from 95 nominated as among the best.

He undertook the project to test the often-heard theory of educators that children of the very poor lack the ability to learn to read up to standard. His conclusion: the theory is false.

THEY LEARN TO READ at Ann Street, at P.S. 11 and P.S. 129 in Manhattan, and at Woodland School in Kansas City. They can learn at other schools, too, Weber holds in a just-published Council for Basic Education "Occasional Paper." If they don't it is the fault of the schools, not of the children.

Ann Street School has 406 pupils, of whom 62 per cent are Mexican-American and 38 per cent black, all residents of a housing project that surrounds the school, all eligible for free breakfast and lunch under federal poverty guidelines.

It is a graded school — as are all four of the outstanding inner-city schools identified by Weber. But at Ann Street, five of the 10 primary grade classes are mixtures of two grade levels. The classes are relatively big, but each has either two teachers or a teacher plus a teacher's aide.

It uses the Sullivan Programmed Reading Series, which has a built-in continuing testing program, plus other phonics-oriented material. A student commissioner of reading improvement makes reports on reading progress to the student council each week. Three times a year, charts showing test scores of all pupils are posted in the classrooms.

ALL THIS MIGHT be described as "pressure." But Weber found the children involved and interested, reading above the norms for average-income children, and with fewer non-readers.

The system was introduced by Mrs. Joyce D. Zikas, principal of Ann Street for four years, and Weber gives her much of the credit.

The Sullivan Programmed Reading Series is used also at Woodland School in Kansas City, which has 650 pupils, all black, 90 per cent entitled to free lunch. It also has large classes but makes much use of teacher aides.

Woodland is one of 11 Kansas City schools in "Project Uplift," headed by Robert W. Wheeler, who formerly was with California's Oakland Unified School District. The reading accomplishments of "Project Uplift" children are described by Lester Velie in an article in the December Reader's Digest.

P.S. 11 in Manhattan has small classes and a variety of reading materials which Weber found highly phonics-oriented. P.S. 129 has a highly structured reading program, strictly phonetic, for its average-sized classes.

IN SUMMARIZING his findings, Weber wrote of the four schools:

"Their success shows that the failure in beginning reading typical of inner-city schools is the fault not of the children or their background — but of the schools.

"... The factors that seemed to account for the success of the four schools are strong leadership, high expectations, good atmosphere, strong emphasis on reading, additional reading personnel, use of phonics, individualization, and careful evaluation of pupil progress.

"On the other hand, some characteristics often thought of as important to school improvement were not essential to the success of the four schools: small class size, achievement grouping, high quality of teaching, school personnel of the same ethnic background as the pupils', preschool education, and outstanding physical facilities."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By C. P. McCarthy

As Angela Was Being Moved, The Power Went Out—Almost

Marin County sheriff's officials narrowly missed a big scare last Thursday when they were delivering Angela Davis from their charge.

Just as Miss Davis was being escorted from her third floor jail cell in the Hall of Justice, power was being knocked out in a wide area surrounding the building.

Electricity was out to about 2,000 homes and businesses in the northern part of San Rafael after wind blew a tree limb into a 12,000-volt Pacific Gas and Electric Co. power line in the vicinity of Prospect, Chula Vista and Coleman Drives, San Rafael.

The outage occurred at 5:46 a.m. as sheriff's officials prepared for the high security departure of Miss Davis, which officials said was accomplished shortly before 6 a.m.

A PG&E SPOKESMAN at first told the Independent-Journal that the Marin Civic Center, including the Hall of Justice, was affected by the power outage — which lasted more than three and a half hours in part of the area.

PG&E later corrected that report, however, on learning that the Civic Center had been switched to an alternate power line prior to the outage and was not affected.

The building has its own emergency power supply which would almost immediately have supplied the Hall of Justice with electricity, but any power shortage — even a momentary dimming of lights — at the moment the jail's star boarder was being moved would certainly have provided a few more gray hairs around the sheriff's office.

AND SINCE THE SPORTS pages continue their mysterious boycott on news of the biggest sports sensation in the country, you'll have to get it here.

The Marquette Warriors Boosters Association of Marin held its annual preseason cocktail party at the association's headquarters in Kentfield last week.

B-ball shirts were distributed and discussion naturally centered on Sports Illustrated picking the Warriors as the number one college basketball team in the nation. After some association members questioned whether the fabled Sports Illustrated jinx still meant anything, the general membership voted 26-2 that it did not.

Plans were announced at the meeting for the association's January ski and surfing trip to Reno, Nev., which will be highlighted by a Jan. 11 rout of the University of Nevada by Marquette as the Warriors sweep onto their manifest destiny as 1972 national champions.

Housing Issue To Be Studied

A recommendation that second dwellings be allowed on some single-family residential lots will be discussed at a 7:45 p.m. meeting Thursday of the San Anselmo Homes Association.

The report, prepared by the Citizens Committee on Zoning and Housing, recommends that second units be allowed under some circumstances in order to provide low-cost housing in San Anselmo.

The association meeting will be at Robson House, 237 Crescent Road.

Registration Will End Tomorrow

Preregistration for the spring semester at Dominican College in San Rafael will end tomorrow, with regular registration to be held on Jan. 17.

Final examinations will began at the school Friday and the fall semester will close on Dec. 17. The spring semester will start on Jan. 18 and end on May 13.

Days Are Recalled Preceding Dec. 7

A retired Air Force brigadier general recalled yesterday that his unit providing air protection to Pearl Harbor was taken off alert duty two days before the attack.

Brig. Gen. Jack Gibbs, who was a fighter pilot in Hawaii 30 years ago, told Novato Kiwanis Club members at a luncheon that his unit flew morning and night patrol over Pearl Harbor during the month before the Japanese aerial attack.

The patrol grew in intensity and then, on Dec. 5, "the alert, was called off," he said. The question, Gibbs said, is "why?"

The pilots, some of whom had been sleeping in hangers, were tired from the long period of alert duty, and when it was called off they went home to wives or into Honolulu, he said.

Gibbs, then a lieutenant, said he had been duck hunting and was scheduled to take over as officer of the day at Wheeler Field the morning of Dec. 7.

"I got there a little early," he commented. "It was struck at approximately 8 a.m. by Japanese dive bombers. We were not expecting them. We were not prepared," he recalled.

Gibbs also still wonders why "all our best planes were lined up in formation," a formation that provided "pay dirt for the Japanese."

Gibbs recalled ironically that he had flown over Pearl Harbor and as he viewed all the U.S. ships below, he commented to a friend... "Wouldn't that be a bomber's dream."

In reply to a question, he told how the approaching Japanese planes were detected by a radar man, who reported to "control central, but it was ignored.... I don't know why." There was some confusion, he said. "The Army thought it was the Navy and the Navy thought it was the Army." A flight of B-17s from Hamilton Air Force Base also were expected that day, he said.

Chief Master Sgt. R.T. Barnes, assistant commandant of the Noncommissioned Officers Academy at Hamilton Air Force Base, stressed the need for preparedness in the opening talk of the Kiwanis Club's Pearl Harbor Day program.

Barnes said the Japanese are not the major economic power in the Pacific and U.S. prestige is low in Southeast Asia. The Japanese are more "militant than reported in the press," and although they spend only one per cent of their gross national product on military forces, they "could revert to wartime footing with no sweat," Barnes said.

Hub Schools Radio Topic

Plans for citizen study of San Anselmo Elementary School District operations will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

The study would include such areas as staffing and pay plans, special educational requirements, school housing and sites and budget and finance.

Speakers will be Kenneth W. Lowry, district superintendent; Franklin C. Latcham, president of the district board; City Councilman James F. Reed, who has two children in elementary school, and Louella Lamb, fourth-grade teacher at Brookside School.

Questions may be telephoned in during tomorrow's broadcast. The program will be repeated by tape at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

SEAGOING HEARSE — This 44-foot cabin cruiser being given a trial run on the San Rafael Canal will soon be carrying the dead beyond Golden Gate for burial at sea. The spacious cabin will provide shelter for the bereaved and the presiding minister, according to James B. Magee and Chester M. Shumate, partners in the new service.

LOCAL TRIO'S NEW BUSINESS

Sea Burials: A West Coast First

By MARY LEYDECKER

"Everlasting beauty and perpetual care" are being offered patrons of The Seaway, according to the partners in a new San Rafael business which they say provides the first burial-at-sea charter boat on the West Coast.

James B. Magee, a retired Navy officer who conceived The Seaway, likes to show a picture of a sunset off the Golden Gate, saying "what more beautiful monument could you have."

As for the perpetual care, Magee said this will be "provided by the Good Lord" for persons buried at sea.

Magee, has just started the business along with Chester M. Shumate, owner of Seaway Marina in San Rafael, and another retired Navy man, Alexander T. Coutts of Corte Madera, who is president of the new firm.

The three men yesterday proudly showed off the 44-foot motor yacht, "Seaway," which will be used for the burials at sea. The afterdeck soon will be equipped with a platform on which a special Navy-type coffin (heavily weighted and with vents) can rest. Also to be installed is a catapult, which will make easier the chore of committing bodies to the deep.

Inside the spacious cabin "just like your living room" in the words of Shumate, who owns the boat) families and friends, "a minister of their choice and their funeral director" can ride to sea in comfort.

Families will have a choice of several options, according to the three partners. Under a law enacted last January, ashes of cremated remains can be scattered beyond the three-mile limit offshore. If the family wants "intact remains," the boat will take them out beyond the 12-mile limit, as required by law.

Families will be encouraged to take along their own ministers, according to Magee, but if they wish Magee will provide a "dignified service."

He plans at such burials to read Tennyson's poem, "Crossing the Bar," which ends with the lines, "May there be no moaning at the bar when I put out to sea."

"It's simple and appropriate," he said, adding he has read the poem several times for members of his own family and friends.

The idea for The Seaway came to Magee because "most of my family is buried at sea," he said. His father, a longtime bar pilot, was buried from a pilot boat, Magee said, and he has scattered ashes of other relatives and friends.

Formerly, however, there was no boat available for most families to use who wanted sea burials.

The partners, who are planning full cooperation with undertakers ("we only provide transportation," they said), plan to lean heavily on the Navy. Not only will Navy-type coffins be used but also special Navy canvas shrouds.

The new project is being well-received by Navy officials, the partners said, and they have been told they can use the wharf at Treasure Island to pick up cargoes directly from a chapel there. (The Navy only provides sea burial for persons on active duty, not dependents or retired persons — but many families want it, the men said.)

Coutts estimated a complete funeral (including cremation or casket) could be purchased for between $500 and $600 compared to what he called the $1,500-minimum now possible in the Bay Area.

Motto of the new firm, whose boat will make pickups at any Bay Area dock, is "Internment at sea with dignity." The partners insisted that the word "interment" is for earth burials and that the additional "n" is necessary for those in the ocean.

Possible Remap Solution

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke says a special commission he heads is prepared to reapportion the Legislature and congressional seats if lawmakers fail to do it.

Lawmakers have recessed until Dec. 17 to give reapportionment experts time to design plans and allow a period for inter-party negotiations.

Reinecke said he believes the commission would withstand a court challenge by Democrats, who contend it is unconstitutional.

"I personally feel it is a valid constitutional concept," Reinecke told newsmen Tuesday. "At the appropriate time, it will be put into effect."

However, he was unsure when the "appropriate time" would arise. Reinecke said he is reviewing the situation but will move only if lawmakers fail to agree on redistricting their plans are vetoed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

"If the Legislature can do it, I'm sure the plan would be upheld in court," the lieutenant governor said.

The constitution outlines a special commission composed of the lieutenant governor, state controller, treasurer, attorney general, secretary of state and state superintendent of public instruction to redistrict California if lawmakers cannot. Reinecke would be the chairman and Republicans would control it 3-2.

Meanwhile, legislative reapportionment experts began drafting new plans for both houses and the state's enlarged —from 38 to 43—congressional delegation.

Democrats kept pressing Reagan to assure them he would sign any proposal agreed to by Republicans. The governor refused.

"I cannot give away in advance, sight unseen, my veto power," he told newsmen when adding reapportionment to the special session agenda.

Senate Democrats and Republicans had worked out a bipartisan plan but the governor insisted on reviewing it.

The Assembly passed a partisan plan increasing the Democrats' majority from 42-38 to 44-36. Neither proposal could get the approval of the other House. Neither reached Reagan's desk.

Senate reapportionment chairman Mervyn Dymally began drafting a new plan he said will be based on the bipartisan measure.

"The first thing I'm going to do is protect our 21 guys," he said, referring to the 21 Senate Democrats. "But it won't hurt the Republicans.

Dymally also said he "hopefully" will design a Chicano district in East Los Angeles, but declined to elaborate anymore, except to say that Republican Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino of Ojai would continue to represent the area of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

7-YEAR BATTLE ENDS: WITHHOLDING LAW

Reagan Signs Bill At Airport — California Last To Adopt Method

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan today signed a bill establishing state income tax withholding in California— the nation's last holdout for the federal-type payroll deduction system.

Reagan, once a staunch apponent of withholding who two years ago "just could not hold out any longer," signed the historic act at the Los Angeles International Airport after flying from a football awards dinner in New York.

Withholding will affect 8 million California wage earners and 400,000 private employers and take effect Jan. 1.

For a man on a $12,000 annual salary with a wife and two children it will mean $11.10 less in the monthly paycheck.

The legislature, accomplishing in a two-day special session what it couldn't do during an 11-month record regular session, Tuesday dramatically passed the measure after only a brief debate in both Houses.

The Assembly passed it 57-12 and the Senate followed 27-4.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, voted for the bill. Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, was absent and did not vote.

Withholding was the key feature of a bill raising taxes this fiscal year by $501 million to plug a $310 million revenue gap in the $6.8 billion state budget, finance $150 million in building construction, pump $21 million into business inventory tax relief and provide the state with a $20 million fiscal cushion.

Withholding will bring in $420 million this fiscal year and business-oriented taxes will net the state another $81 million.

California is the last of the 38 states levying an income tax to impose some form of withholding.

"We followed the progressive state of Mississippi," observed the bill's jubilant author, Bagley, one of the first Republicans in the legislature to advocate withholding.

The State Department of Human Resources Development began mailing detailed withholding instructions to 400,000 employers. The state estimated 90 per cent of California's businesses will be able to inaugurate the payroll deduction system on Jan. 1, but conceded some of the largest corporations will not be able to tool up in time. They will not be penalized.

The bill's passage saved the state from having to issue registered warrant I.O.U.s, a device not used since the great depression. Controller Houston I. Flournoy had been prepared to issue the script about Christmas to pay the state's creditors.

The bill extended the state's authority to sale tax anticipation notes, a step up from warrants. Neither will be necessary after Jan. 1 because withholding will even out the state's cash flow.

Californians will pay 80 per cent more state income tax during the first year of with-

Orr Was Incompetent, Another Policeman Says

By LARRY MOWELL

The city's eighth witness against Fairfax Police Chief James R. Orr took the stand last night to add to the record more assertions of incompetence on the part of the chief and favoritism toward police matron and clerk Marsha Kittelman.

Officer Michael Morarity — testifying before the Fairfax Board of Review hearing Orr's appeal of his firing in September — made these points:

That Mrs. Kittelman was permitted to call the chief "dumdum" to his face, give orders in his name, study during working hours and, on occasion, flout his orders.

That the chief was strongly influenced by Mrs. Kittelman in departmental administration, that he was on occasion drunk and quarrelsome, failed to provide adequate training of personnel, and did not maintain a chain of command.

Morarity's testimony, all elicited on direct examination by City Atty. Wallace S. Myers, was largely repetitive and in support of previous testimony by other officers.

Cross examination by Orr's attorney, Leonard Shaw, is scheduled for tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Fairfax Women's Club. About 40 persons attended last night's session.

Morarity — whose tendency to wander from the point of questions was curbed five times by review board member Freeman Blake — said he had discussed the chief and his clerk-matron with all the officers on the force and "we all agreed that Mrs. Kittelman had very, very unusual influence on the chief and his decisions."

He said her nickname in the department had been 5-A-2, code name for the chief's immediate subordinate in the chain of command.

He said she was often missing during working hours but only once to his knowledge did Orr rebuke her. He said she once reported back to work almost six hours after being released as a court witness. Orr confronted her with the fact, but dropped the matter when she said she "had things to do," he said.

Morarity also said the chief had ignored his request to attend two police courses Mrs. Kittelman had gone to.

Among 20 charges against Orr are allegations that he improperly made Mrs. Kittelman a policewoman, showed favoritism to her and engaged in improper social relations with her.

Morarity terrified that evidence was lost or disposed of by Orr on at least two occasions and that there was no procedure for handling evidence.

He said some rules did exist, but "to the best of my knowledge, none of these rules and procedures have ever been enforced since the beginning on my employment."

The officer said that when he

Rehnquist Gains A 'Liberal'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today he would vote in favor of confirmation of William H. Rehnquist to the Supreme court.

Proxmire, who usually votes with Senate liberals, said in a Senate speech that he had had more pressure brought on him by his friends to vote against Rehnquist than any other Supreme Court nominee since he has been in the Senate.

"My friends almost unanimously oppose him," Proxmire said. "But I have become convinced that the case has not been made that Rehnquist does not understand or support the Bill of Rights."

Debate on the Rehnquist nominatio began Monday and almost all of it has been waged by opposing liberals —so much so that they have been accused of filibustering.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said he had a petition to bring the debate to a halt —a cloture motion —ready to file, although he told reporters later that he would not file it today.

Plan For Strawberry Apartments Approved

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, which last month criticized an architect's drawings of an apartment development overlooking Strawberry, took a fresh look at it yesterday and approved it. (Other supervisor's stories, page 3.)

Approval came on a 3-to-2 vote with Supervisors Arnold Baptiste and Peter R. Arrigoni opposing the high density of the project proposed for the ridge south of the Town and Country Village Shopping Center.

However, other superivosrs liked what they saw in the new renderings of the Sea Port Hills development which propose 334 apartment units to be constructed on the hill in two phases.

The first phase of 200 units will concentrate development on the ridgetop giving the appearance of one large building along the skyline. The second phase will be built on the slopes below.

Architect Karl Treffinger said his project will leave most of the 24-acre site undeveloped and deeded to the county as a open space easement.

"We felt it had a better visual impact on the community by keeping the buildings together rather than scattering them around," said Treffinger, drawing a comparison to the Shelter Ridge development above the Tiburon turnoff on Highway 101.

Supervisor John F. McInnis, who switched his position to support the project, said the new renderings which related building size to surrounding open space did not give as objectionable an impression as those presented the board last month.

Those drawing, which showed just the buildings, were then labled "freightening" by the board.

Yosemite Winds Down 200 Trees

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) —High winds knocked down an estimated 200 trees in the park Tuesday night blocking roads. There were no reported injuries.

Lew Albert, park spokesman, said there was only one known case of minor structural damage when a falling tree clipped the corner of Yosemite Lodge.

Albert said 16 trees, with diameters ranging up to 30 inches, fell in a two-mile stretch of the Badger Pass road.

Development Firm Loses Permit Bid

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — A superior court judge yesterday rejected a plea by a development firm that he order Richardson Bay Sanitary District to grant it virtually all available sewer permits.

Judge Ira A. Brown Jr., also angrily denounced the sanitary district for its "contemptuous" failure to file written documents by the Nov. 29 deadline he had ordered, found the district guilty of contempt of court and fined it $500 — payable before the close of business today.

Attorneys for the district admitted to the judge that they were to blame for the failure to file the documents in the suit, but declined to tell the Independent-Journal whether they or the district taxpayers would pay the fine.

One of the two, Michael R. Nave of San Mateo, told the judge that the court order "be-

U.S. Steel Given Nod To Hike Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Price Commission has granted an increase averaging 3.6 per cent to U.S. Steel Corp.

The action, announced late yesterday in a two paragraph statement, gave U.S. Steel permission to boost prices for its entire line of products between now and Aug. 1.

A Surprise In Portland: Snow

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)— Northwest Oregonians woke up to a surprise snowfall today.

Morning rush hour traffic in Portland snarled and a few schools closed as up to two inches fell. By 8 a.m. though it was raining in downtown Portland and forecasters called for a warming trend.

Travelers warnings were up in the Columbia Gorge, the Cascades and eastern Oregon— where 2 to 4 inches of snow was expected.

Angela Trial To Be In San Jose

I-J Special Report

SAN JOSE — The trial of Angela Y. Davis will be held in San Jose, Santa Clara County Superior Court Presiding Judge John T. Raconelli ruled today.

He set no date for the beginning of Miss Davis's trial on murder, kidnap and conspiracy charges arising from the Aug. 7, 1970 shoot-out at the Marin County Civic Center.

Nonstrikers Ask For Ouster Of AFT As Bargaining Agent

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Nonstriking lay teachers at seven Bay Area Roman Catholic high schools today called upon strikers to disavow the American Federation of Teachers and called for the ouster of the union as sole bargaining agent.

The nonstrikers, saying a majority of teachers back them, deplored strike tactics such as last Friday's sit-in, and laid the strife at the door of the AFT.

About 110 teachers — members of the Secondary Teachers Association — walked off the job Nov. 15 in a bid for better pay and improved working conditions, later affiliating with the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO. Among the schools struck was Marin Catholic in Kentfield.

In a news conference today, the nonstrikers challenged the AFT as representing a majority of the high school teachers, and attacked its position at the bargaining table. The group said it had a petition signed by 95 of the Archdiocese's 165 teachers that supported its stand. The document will be forwarded to federal mediator Gene Barry, who had been presiding over bargaining, now stalled, the group said.

"We reaffirm our conviction that the Secondary Teachers Association should be the sole collective bargaining agent for the diocesan lay teachers," a group statement said.

"We deplore the tactics which have been inspired by the AFT — tactics which we consider totally incongrous with a professional teacher in a Catholic school," the statement went on. It cited alleged inciting and manipulation of students to achieve AFT ends and alleged harassment of substitute teachers, as well as last week's sit-in at the archdiocesan offices, which led to 19 arrests.

"In spite of the AFT activities, 11 striking teachers have returned to work," the statement said.

A spokesman, Joel Kiff, a Marin Catholic teacher, hinted at possible court action challenging the AFT's presence if no action is taken on its demands.

Berlin Visit Hopes Dashed

BERLIN (UPI)—East Germany rejected Wednesday a compromise plan to open the wall, allowing West Berliners to visit the East, West German officials announced. Mayor Klaus Schuetz said the deadlock dashed hopes the East Germans would open the wall over Christmas for family reunions.

The wall talks which were broken off early Saturday resumed Tuesday night and made such progress the West German government spokesman told newsmen they probably would be completed Wednesday.

But Schuetz said the East Germans backed down at the last minute.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Prison View

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger told a National Conference on Corrections yesterday that a criminal sentence should permit an inmate to "learn his way out of prison."

Burger said figures on literacy alone are enough "to make one wish that every sentence imposed could include a provision that would grant release when the prisoner has learned to read and write, to do simple arithmetic, and then to develop some basic skill that is saleable in the marketplace . . . to which he must some day return."

Cancer Fund

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $1.5 billion program to find a cure for cancer was approved yesterday by a House-Senate conference committee.

The compromise bill takes a House approach to strengthen and expand the existing National Cancer Institute. The Senate wanted to establish a new independent conquest of cancer agency.

The compromise bill calls for spending $400 million in this fiscal year, $500 million in fiscal 1973, and $600 million in fiscal 1974.

New Postmaster General

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Elmer T. (Ted) Klassen started his career in private business in 1925 when he joined American Can Co. as a 17-year-old office boy.

Klassen

Yesterday, Klassen was named U.S. Postmaster General and placed in charge of the 750,000-employe U.S. Postal Service.

Klassen, 63, of Conway, Mass., who rose to president of American Can, succeeded Winton M. Blount, who left the postmaster general's post to ponder a try at winning election to the U.S. Senate from Alabama.

Klassen was elected postmaster general by the Postal Service's nine-man board of governors. He was a member of the board.

Frederick R. Kappel, former chairman of the board of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., was named chairman of the postal board.

Belfast Shooting

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Three masked gunmen burst into the home of a part-time soldier late Tuesday and shot him to death in his bed, police said.

Pvt. Dennis Wilson, 31, was half-awake and trying to scramble out of bed when the gunmen marched into his room and opened fire. He was killed instantly.

Wilson was a member of the Ulster Defense Regiment (UDR), a paramilitary force comparable to a civilian militia or national guard.

Disabled Robot

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet scientific robot sat disabled on hurricane-swept Mars today, having sent man's first television signals from the surface of the planet.

Tass news agency reports said the robot explorer had parachuted into a black hurricane of dust driving across Mars at speeds of up to 300 miles per hour when it descended from the Mars 3 mother ship Dec. 2. Its mission was to probe for life forms.

Torrico Passes Bar

Edward Torrico of 520 C Street, San Rafael, also was among the Marin County residents who successfully passed the 1971 fall bar examinations. His name was omitted from the list published yesterday.

Fire Alert

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The fire department declared a "major emergency" today as gale force winds spread a score of brush fires through the populous northeastern rim of the Los Angeles basin, but firefighters held off the flames and only a few homes were damaged.

The emergency was in effect for about two hours, and all the fires were reported contained before dawn.

Houston Mayor

HOUSTON (UPI) — Louie Welch, a conservative law-and-order advocate who Tuesday became the first five-term mayor in Houston's history, called his victory over young Fred Hofheinz "the sweetest ever."

"I am very proud," Welch said. This was an endorsement of my four terms in office."

Apollo 16 Ship

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— The Apollo 16 moonship was mounted on its Saturn 5 rocket in the towering assembly building today in a major step toward launch March 17.

The whole 363-foot assembly is scheduled to be moved to the oceanside launch pad next Monday.

Muskie Sets Date For Announcement

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine said today he would formally declare his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination on Jan. 4.

Muskie made the announcement at a news conference at which Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., and California assembly speaker Bob Moretti endorsed the Maine Democrat's candidacy.

Muskie's statement confirmed earlier reports from his staff and from CBS-TV, which said Muskie had reserved 10 minutes of air time for a nationwide broadcast that night.

Tunney, a close friend of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said that he took Kennedy "at his word that he is not a candidate."

Tunney said he planned to head a California delegation commited to Muskie and said he hoped that Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., would join him as co-chairman.

Muskie said he was even more interested in the help that they would give him in the campaign. "I will lean on them heavily, both in the California campaign and elsewhere," he said.

Muskie said he was revealing the date of his formal declaration because of constant questioning by reporters.

"On Jan. 4 I will announce my intentions for the coming year," he said, adding that the strategy had been to put himself into the best possible position by the beginning of 1972.

"The preparatory period will end on Jan. 4," he said.

No Case, Says Kent Prosecutor

RAVENNA, Ohio (UPI)—The Ohio attorney general, conceding "we just didn't have enough to go on," asked that charges be dropped against the remaining 20 defendants in the Kent State violence.

Attorney General William J. Brown made his unexpected announcement Tuesday. A Portage County Court jury had just acquitted the fourth of 25 persons indicted on charges stemming from the May1970 disorders at Kent in which National Guardsmen shot and killed four students.

The dismissal order was delayed by legal technicalities, expected to be cleared up today.

Weight-Measure System Hit

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Public Interest Law Center Tuesday questioned the effectiveness of California's weights and measures control system in protecting the consumer.

"It's suffering from what I call the Rip Van Winkle Syndrome-controlled slumber," Center Director Ray Bourhis said in releasing a 109-page report on the system.

But in Sacramento Walter Watson, chief of the state's Bureau of Weights and Measures, called the charge "utter nonsense."

Watson said, "I know we're doing a good job ... As a matter of fact, the chances are 20 to one in California that the consumer gets the stated amount of what he buys—or more."

Last month Bourhis said Californians were losing at least $30.6 million a year because of short-weighing in retail stores.

Bill Would Halter The President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The course has been set for a Senate vote next year, during the presidential campaign, on sweeping legislation to stop Presidents from committing American troops abroad on their own.

The unusual bill, which would require a President to obtain Congressional consent for committing troops to battle for longer than 30 days, cleared the Senate Foreign Relations Committee 13 to 0 Tuesday, despite opposition from the administration. It has strong bipartisan backing from both hawks and doves. Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, is one of its authors.

The debate, likely to begin in the spring, probably will become the primary focus of Vietnam war critics and its timing to coincide with the campaign is considered fortunate by its sponsors. In the past, ex-Senators who have become Presidents have been known to lose their sensitivity to the powers of Congress in the foreign policy field, and backers of the bill believe the debate will force candidates to pledge themselves to be more considerate of Congress if they get elected.

B52s Hit Cong HQ; 100 Killed

SAIGON (UPI)—High-flying U.S. B52 bombers, guided to targets pinpointed by elite South Vietnamese ground troops, early this week attacked a suspected Viet Cong headquarters in Cambodia and killed at least 100 Communists, military sources said today.

Far to the north, supersonic American jet fighters twice attacked anti-aircraft gun and missile sites inside North Vietnam in a pair of "protective reaction" raids, the U.S. command said.

The Communists also fired a pair of surface-to-air missiles (SAMS) at a third flight of U.S. jet fighters, but the pilots flew back to their aircraft carrier instead of attacking the missile sites, spokesmen said.

The Cambodian high command said nightlong fighting was reported at several points along the outskirts of Phnom Penh while U.S. helicopter gunships circled the city to aid Cambodian troops.

In Saigon, military spokesmen said seven Americans were injured Monday night when South Vietnamese officers "accidentally" threw a live cannon round into a U.S. officers' hut at Danang.

American ground troops Tuesday fought the first battle inside South Vietnam in four days. Two Communists were killed and six U.S. soldiers were wounded before American helicopters drove the Communists back into the jungles, 63 miles northeast of Saigon.

South Vietnamese officers said waves of B52s dumped hundreds of tons of high explosive bombs on the Chup rubber plantation, believed to house the headquarters of the Viet Cong 9th Division.

Members of the elite long range patrols scouted Chup for two days, avoiding contact with the Communists in order to pinpoint headquarters and supply areas in the plantation, centered 60 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

South Vietnamese troops have been sweeping around the former French plantation since they began their latest massive drive into Cambodia Nov. 23, officers said.

"There were at least 100 Communists killed. There were perhaps up to 1,000 or more killed," spokesmen said.

Lawsuit In Schoolbook Case Urged

Assemblyman Floyd L. Wakefield, R-Downey, has recommended that a taxpayers' suit be brought against San Rafael High School District for spending tax money to purchase copies of "The Movement Toward a New America."

Thirty-five copies of the book were bought for use in an American government class in San Rafael High School.

If a taxpayers' suit cannot be initiated locally, Wakefield wrote Monday to Paul L. Jones, chairman of the San Rafael Board of Education, "I personally intend to call this matter to the attorney general's attention, as well as the board of education and the curriculum committee."

The Downey assemblyman wrote that he had been visited in Sacramento by "some concerned citizens and students from San Rafael" who "are very disturbed with the use of the book." Wakefield did not identify the citizens or students who visited him, nor indicate why he was selected for their visit.

"After having reviewed the book," he wrote Jones, "I strongly advised these people to contact legal counsel in their city and the district attorney for the purpose of bringing about a taxpayers' suit . . .

"I also recommend that action should be taken against the teacher responsible for introducing this book to the students, with a view toward removing her from her position, as I feel she has acted in a most irresponsible manner."

The books were purchased for use by Mrs. Virginia Franklin in her American government class. After protests from some citizens, the board of education referred the matter to a faculty committee, which has not yet reported.

Carillon Duty Refund Is Voted

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The House has passed for a second time the bill to repay the University of California at Santa Barbara $8,160.35 paid in duties on an imported carillon.

Similar legislation was passed by the House in the previous Congress but the bill died when the House would not accept a Senate amendment to the measure.

In recommending that no duty be charged on the imported bells valued at $6,046, the House Ways and Means Committee said they were not being produced in the United States.

Five Women Picked As Customs Agents

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Customs Bureau has announced the appointment of five women as customs agents. They were the first women ever named to the corps of agents which detects narcotics smuggling and investigates other customs-related fraud.

The five were Janet Ingram, 29, Denver, one of the first women sky marshals named last year; Susan Rowley, 25, Miami; Geraldine Baker, 25, New York; Sarah Durantan 23, Boston; and Phyllis Barrett, 24, New Orleans.

She Just Can't Understand

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)— Blonde Riki Chaist just can't understand why she faces court action on indecent exposure charges for going topless on a beach.

"Here cities are being destroyed. minds are being destroyed and I'm arrested for going topless," she said in court Tuesday. She was supposed to go on trial then, but the district attorney asked for a postponement.

"They print pictures of people being killed bat won't print pictures of the human body in its natural form," said the statuesque 22-year-old defendant. "To me pictures of people being killed are obscene but a naked person isn't obscene."

New Auditorium Storm Brewing

The new Marin Veteran's Memorial Building — already the center of one controversy over musicians — may become the center of another, Marin County supervisors were warned yesterday. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

No sooner had supervisors agreed to delay discussion of one controversy by continuing a moratorium on rock concerts than they were told a musicians' union has demanded 16 musicians be employed for performances at the audiotrium whether needed or not.

The demand prompted chairman Louis H. Baar, an opponent of rock at the memorial building, to ask, "When can they start their first pickets?"

The "minimum number" of musicians was demanded in a letter from the Musicians Union No. 6 of San Francisco, which this week ended music on the Sausalito — San Francisco ferry with a similar demand. The union, said Asst. County Administrator Thomas F. Campanella, "believes it has unilateral power to set a minimum."

Asked whether a "house band" would be required during such nontheatrical events as dog shows, Campanella said the letter was vague on that point.

The supervisors referred the letter back to its staff for further clarification from the union.

The board continued its moratorium on rock music concerts until a policy guideline is established regulating the auditorium's use.

Supervisor John F. McInnis, working on the policy, said he didn't expect it to be completed until mid-January.

Cycle Taken Form Under A Staircase

A 1970 Kawasaki motorcycle, with license 8A2023, was stolen yesterday from under a staircase at the residence of its owner, San Rafael police reported today.

Police said the tan and gold vehicle was stolen between 5 and 6 p.m. from outside the residence of Kenneth Vernon of 260 Canal Street.

'Garbage Can Tax' Is Sought

Marin County residents may be in for another tax — a "garbage can tax" to finance recycling.

The proposal, made yesterday by Supervisor Michael Wornum, envisions the county taking the lead in recycling old cans and bottles since the demise last Wednesday of the Whole Systems, Inc. recycling depot.

Supervisors appeared receptive to Wornum's idea, directing the county administrators office to investigate how the county could initiate such a project.

The "garbage can tax" could provide the added revenue to support private recycling operations which apparently run on a marginal basis at best, Wornum said.

Whole Systems officials complained last month that their operation was folding due to declining participation by residents and the resulting loss in revenue.

"Possibly a 5 cent tax on garbage cans" could make such an operation feasible, Wornum said.

County Administrator John F. Barrows said he would work with Marin's 11 communities to see if a coordinated approach to recycling could be achieved.

Presumably, the five-cent tax could be added to garage garbage collection bills and then collected from the refuge companies.

Camper Is Looted

Robert Morgan, 1155 Bodega Avenue, Petaluma, told police that a tool box and rifle valued at $370 were stolen from his camper truck yesterday while parked in the municipal lot adjacent to the Petaluma River.

Concert Set At Mission

The Sonoma State College Chorus, Opera Workshop, Children's Chorus and Philharmonic will combine to perform Heinrich Schutz's "The Christmas Story" Tuesday at 8 p.m. at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael.

The concert is drawn from a 17th Century piece of music based on the birth of Christ.

Principal soloist will be tenor Donald Andrews, who plays the part of an evangelist. The Children's Chorus, formed last year, will feature Gerald Moynihan, 11, and Amy Daggett, 12, both of Petaluma.

For the first time the world's largest travel company offers charter flight tours to Europe.

Now, without membership in any organization, you can save up to $324* by flying the new European charter tours created by American Express.

Why American Express saves you money.

Because American Express Company is now chartering entire planes, your air transportation is computed at the charter rate which is lower than any non-charter rate charged by regular I.A.T.A. carriers.

This means substantial savings (savings of up to $324 on the total tour price) to you.

In effect, we have been able to lower the price of a ticket. With no strings attached. You don't have to join any clubs in advance. This offer is open to anyone.

Where the tours go.

We have 18 different charter flight/escorted tour itineraries. With 189 different departures. There are 16-day tours, 23-day tours and 30-day tours.

The land portion of the tours begin either in London, Athens or Malaga. We will fly you to one of these destinations, depending on the tour you have chosen.

Carefree 1

Day 1	Depart Los Angeles
Day 2	Arrive London—free time
Day 3	London—local sightseeing
Day 4	Motorcoach and hovercraft to Paris
Day 5	Paris—local sightseeing
Day 6	Motorcoach to Dijon and Montreux
Day 7	Motorcoach to Geneva
Day 8	Motorcoach to Rhone Valley and Stresa
Day 9	Motorcoach to Milan and Rome
Day 10	Rome—local sightseeing
Day 11	Motorcoach to Florence
Day 12	Motorcoach to Venice
Day 13	Motorcoach to Cortina and Innsbruck
Day 14	Motorcoach to Munich, Nuremberg and Rudesheim
Day 15	Motorcoach to Luxembourg and Brussels
Day 16	Direct flight Brussels to Los Angeles

16 Days—8 Countries—from $498

That's just one itinerary. There are 17 more charter tour itineraries in the "Charters to Europe" book ranging in price from $498 to $1149. American Express also has 85 regular, non-charter European tours to choose from in the 236-page "The Europe Book."

Decide where you want to go and how much time you have to spend. The chances are we have exactly what you want. At the price you want to pay.

Where they leave from and when.

All American Express charter tour flights leave from Los Angeles on Saturday and return on a Sunday. And all fly direct to Europe from Los Angeles. They begin in April, 1972 and carry through the end of September, 1972. With flights leaving every weekend, we certainly offer a tour that fits your schedule.

American Express, a trusted name for 122 years.

The American Express name is one of the best known in the tour business. 122 years of service testifies to the reliability and trustworthiness of the world's largest travel company.

And we stand behind our name.

All the planes on the charter flight tours are Douglas super DC-8's. The same jet aircraft used by many major scheduled airlines. They are operated by World Airways, the largest supplemental carrier in the world.

Your accommodations in Europe.

Over the years American Express has gained the reputation of giving excellent value to travelers. The reasons are easily understood.

Because we bring so many travelers to Europe, hotels, restaurants and sites of interest are anxious to please us. They give our customers the very best of attention.

The American Express Network.

American Express Company and its subsidiaries and representatives also have over 800 offices around the world. So, if for any reason you need assistance, the chances are that one of our people will be on hand. You can stop worrying about being alone if an emergency arrives. This is most important for the first-time European traveler. And it can't hurt the experienced traveler either.

Motorcoaches used in Europe are luxurious, air-conditioned and custom-made to American Express specifications. Most are new. We doubt that anyone else can offer you more comfortable vehicles.

American Express will never leave you stranded in Europe.

With American Express standing behind your charter flight, you need never worry about being stranded in Europe. You have complete peace of mind that no matter what happens to prevent you from returning with your tour group, American Express will get you home. The resources of the world's largest travel company guarantee this.

AMERICAN EXPRESS
Cancellation Protection
This certificate can save you hundreds of dollars in air fare charges. American Express guarantees 100 percent refund if cancellation occurs for a permitted reason up to 24 hours before departure.

American Express will also guarantee a 100% refund of your total tour cost if your plans change for a permitted reason and you must cancel...provided the cancellation takes place up to 24 hours before scheduled departure.

All details are explained in the free "Charters To Europe" book offered in the coupon below.

How to find out more about our European tours.

Fill in the coupon and send it to us. We will send you our new 60-page, illustrated "Charters To Europe" book as well as our regular 236-page "The Europe Book." Both spell out every tour's itinerary and provide much useful information for the traveler. Both are free, of course.

You may also pick up copies of both books at any American Express Travel Office or at your local travel agent.

U.N. Asks End To Fighting In India

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—The U.N. General Assembly voted overwhelmingly after nine hours of nonstop debate last night to call on India and Pakistan to observe a cease-fire and withdraw their troops from each other's territory. Diplomats said today India would ignore the resolution.

Stepping in after the Security Council deadlocked three times in efforts to act on the five-day-old Indo-Pakistani war, the 131-member assembly voted 104-11 with 10 abstentions to adopt the cease-fire resolution introduced by Argentina and endorsed by 31 other nations.

The Soviet Union vetoed two nearly identical resolutions in the Council Saturday and Sunday.

Indian Ambassador Samar Sen said his government would study the truce resolution carefully but said, "What is unrealistic about it is that if it is implemented, the West Pakistanis could go on killing the Bangla Desh (East Pakistani) people."

Several diplomats close to the Indian U.N. delegation said India would ignore the resolution. Israel for four years has disregarded a resolution by the Security Council—which, unlike the Assembly, has powers of enforcement—calling on it to withdraw from the Arab territory it seized during the 1967 war.

Pakistani Ambasador Agha Shaki said the assembly vote was "a great decision for the future. The assembly has taken action with overwhelming support, and the membership has shown that it is determined to assert itself."

Justice Abu Sayeed Chowdhury, chairman of the unofficial rebel East Pakistani U.N. delegation, expressed dissatisfaction with the resolution and said, "Nothing short of independence of Bangla Desh ... will be acceptable to the people of Bangla Desh."

Pakistan, the United States and China voted in favor of the measure. India, the Soviet Union and its East European satellites—with the exception of Romania and Yugoslavia— voted against the resolution.

Pleas Are Entered In Pot Charges

Three men arrested in a big narcotics raid in May of last year have pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and will be sentenced on Jan. 10 in Marin Superior Court.

Michael Gene Ludwig, 28, of Tamalpais Valley admitted having marijuana for sale on May 15, 1970. Norman Novitsky, 25, of no known address, and Ivan Kezsbom, 24, of Mill Valley admitted having marijuana in their possession.

The three and Douglas Edward Rambo, 30, of Wood Lane, Fairfax, were arrested in raids at Rambo's home and at 240 Mountain View Avenue in Tamalpais Valley.

Police and narcotics agents seized a half-ton of marijuana and $23,000 in cash in the roundup.

Rambo, also charged with trying to smuggle a barge load of marijuana into Long Beach, has been missing for three months. A warrant for his arrest was issued in September when he failed to show up in Marin Superior Court. In Long Beach, he faces federal charges of trying to smuggle marijuana into this country.

In addition, Rambo was arrested on Sept. 24, 1970, with two suspected marijuana cigarettes in his pocket. While being taken to Marin County Jail, agents said Rambo offered them $5,800 in cash he had hidden in his boot for turning him loose. The officers turned the cash over to the Internal Revenue Service and slapped a charge of attempted bribery against Rambo.

Theft, Molesting Sentence Given

Floyd Kermit Ware, 20, of San Francisco, was sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a state prison term of one year to life for burglary and child molesting.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner sentenced Ware for burglary of a home of Edgewood Avenue and for molesting a 12-year-old girl at her home on Cypress Avenue, both in Mill Valley, last Aug. 17.

A jury of four men and eight women found Ware guilty last Friday following more than eight hours of deliberation.

Ware had a prior burglary conviction in Marin in November 1970, for which he drew three years' probation and a suspended prison sentence.

He also faces trial on a rape charge in San Francisco.

Mobile Post Office For Holiday Rush

The unit will be open from 10:30 to 2:30 p.m. daily except Sundays through Dec. 18.

first reported to work in 1969, he was sent on patrol without any instruction and did not learn to use police shotguns until six months after he joined the force.

Morarity also mentioned two instances when he thought the chief had been drinking and quarrelled. In one case, the chief threw a beer bottle at a motorist and in the other Orr was in a fight at a bar, he said.

Shaw objected to testimony on these matters saying they were not in the charges, but was overruled.

In addition to the charges involving Mrs. Kittelman, Orr is charged with drunkenness, both on and off duty, failing to set up proper procedures and training, dismissing parking tickets without justification, failing to care for evidence and threatening his officers.

Morarity confirmed previous testimony by Police Sgt. Melvin Dollahite and Officer James Davis that Orr — apparently after drinking — had challenged Davis in 1970, but like them did not explain what caused the incident nor what the challenge meant.

Dollahite, who began testifying Saturday, said under cross-examination last night that regulations drawn up by Orr when he took office in 1962 were not bad, but in need of revision.

Dollahite also testified he felt more letters of commendation should have been given and said he was sometimes denied permission to go to juvenile meetings.

However, he said the chief's excuse that he was needed in town had merit.

Board member Alfred F. Daubenfeld, an attorney, asked the sergeant if he had formed any impressions about the social relations of Orr and Mrs. Kittelman, but never got an answer. Shaw objected to the question and Daubenfeld's colleagues upheld the objection.

Parking Plan Revision Asked For Apartments

The Petaluma Board of Zoning Adjustments yesterday asked that parking plans be redrawn for a proposed 78-unit apartment complex.

Asst. Planner Richard D.A. Anderson said the board delayed action on the plans by Irving Caster Association for the apartments at 205 Douglas Street.

Anderson said the board asked that covered carports planned for the perimeter of the site be relocated to the center to increase open space around the buildings.

In other actions, the board approved plans by Rollins Enterprises to build a duplex at 1062 and 1064 Antone Way, but denied the request of Harold Gager for a triplex behind an existing home at 22 Cherry Street, saying it would set a bad precedent for the area.

Innocent Plea To Burglary

Arthur Michael Farmer, 18, of Novato pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of burglarizing a San Rafael home on Dec. 3.

San Rafael police arrested Farmer on Latham Street carrying an armful of clothing believed taken from the home of Peter Martens of 25 Hayes Street.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set Dec. 21 as the time for preliminary hearing.

Prison Term

SEOUL (UPI) — Kim Chull, head of South Korea's splinter opposition United Socialist party, was found guilty Wednesday of violating the anti-Communist law and given a suspended sentence of one year in prison.

Vote Is Set On School Tax Rate

The Petaluma Board of Education last night set a March 21 election to seek voter approval to increase the elementary district tax rate by 88 cents and the high school district tax rate by 68 cents.

Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer said the board will seek approval to increase the elementary tax rate from $1.83 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.71. The high school district rate would go from $1.55 to $2.23 per $100 assessed valuation, if voters approve.

Meyer said the board agreed at last night's special session that additional tax revenue was necessary to avoid further reductions in teaching programs. In attempting to juggle the budget last spring, the board reduced the teaching staff, cut drastically into the purchase of materials and textbooks and considered cutting educational programs.

Voters last Feburary defeated a tax rate increase election by a margin of 2-1. The board had asked for a 95 cent increase for the high school district and 67 cents for the elementary district.

Meyer told the board he believed the increase would suffice for two years. At that time, he said, additional money is expected to be available from the state.

He said the board was optimistic that the second election try would be successful since needs of the districts are now more evident to the community.

TAXES

holding. This will be caused by a sudden speedup in tax collections as citizens begin paying taxes as they earn their income—not months later, as now.

To lessen the initial burden of having current taxes collected through withholding while also making a lump sum payment in April on 1971 wages, the legislature authorized a 20 per cent "credit" on 1971 taxes.

Not covered by withholding will be farm workers, ministers, private domestic employes, newsboys under 18 and military personnel.

Reagan was a staunch opponent of withholding when first elected governor in 1966, declaring: "I will not step back. My feet are in concrete on my opposition to withholding."

Early in 1970 the Republican governor dramatically reversed his position. "That sound you hear is the concrete cracking around my feet," he told newsmen in explaining that the demand for property tax relief (still undelivered by the legislature), the state's critical cash flow and inflation had changed things.

By Tuesday's vote, most Republican legislators had switched over with Reagan, but not all.

"I hope you live to have to pay the penalty to the people of California for this damnable thing," Veteran Assemblyman John L. E. (Bud) Collier, R-Los Angeles, shouted to his colleagues.

Sen. H. L. Richardson, R-Arcadia, observed that Tuesday was the 30th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and added, "the only thing being sunk today is the taxpayers of California. It's a tragic day."

Planning Commission Is Reformed

The Rohnert Park City Council last night appointed five men to its newly reestablished planning commission.

Appointees and their terms include Michael Mullins and Raymond Goff, four years; James Steinberg, president of the Rohnert Park Homeowners Association, and Eugene Grenache, two-year terms, and James Cronin, past president of the Homeowners Association, one-year term.

Other applicants interviewed by the council were Richard Blair, Thomas Coffman, Jean Bennett, Karl J. Clark, Philip Rush, Richard Day, Arthur Hollingsworth, Clarence Santy, John Giertz and Gordon Adam.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the council interviewed each candidate in closed session and then questioned them publicly before making the appointments.

The commissioners will be sworn in at the Dec. 20 city council meeting and officially take office in January. Meeting dates for the commission have not been set.

The planning commission had been disbanded three years ago, but the council voted in October to reinstate it on the urging of homeowner groups. Residents convinced the council that the city growth and increasing rate of development warranted reinstatement of the commission.

Probation Meted Out In Hash Sale

Jeffrey David Wyard, 26, of Missoula, Mont., has been sentenced to three years' supervised probation for possession of hashish for sale.

Wyard pleaded guilty on Nov. 1 and was sentenced Monday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court.

Wyard was arrested with David Stuart King, 26, of Billings, Mont., Dec. 16, 1969, at the Fountain motel in Mill Valley, where agents said they found more than $134,000 worth of hashish and $24,000 in cash.

Deputy Dist. Atty. J. Michael Anthony recommended a state prison term, but a probation officer urged probation, explaining that Wyard had a responsible job and was never in serious trouble before or following the hashish raid.

King also pleaded guilty on Nov. 1 to hashish possession for sale and will appear in court on Dec. 13 for sentencing.

Charges against a third man caught in the same raid were dismissed last month on grounds that he was illegally searched.

OBITUARIES

MRS. DeCARLI

Requiem Mass for Lilly Anna DeCarli, 86, retired Petaluma nurse, will be offered at 10 a.m. Friday at St. Vincent DePaul Church, Petaluma.

Mrs. DeCarli died Monday after she walked into the path of a car on Lakeville Highway, Petaluma.

She was born on the family dairy ranch in Nicasio and was reared in Sonoma. Mrs. DeCarli graduated from St. Mary's School of Nursing, San Francisco, as a registered nurse and worked for more than 30 years for Petaluma doctors and at Petaluma General Hospital.

came, I suspect, mislaid on one of the desks in our office."

The Strawberry developers, Martell J. and Raymond Kaliski and Vladimir J. Turski, have been trying to get 389 sewer permits from the district since last March for two new projects at Harbor Point and Strawberry Hill.

The district, however, came under fire from the Regional Water Quality Control Board for pollution a month before the developers applied for their permits. The district finally was ordered in June by the regional board to allow new permits only to the extent that it cut pollution.

The developers thus have been stymied while the district upgrades its sewage treatment to earn new connections. Seaside attorney Saul M. Weingarten, their attorney, testified that 205 permits now had been earned in the Ricardo Road watershed of the district, or three more than his clients want. In the Salt Works watershed, he said, the district has earned only 108 permits, while his clients want 187.

Judge Brown, citing a legal battle pending in Marin Superior Court between developers competing for the available permits, put off his own ruling until after the Marin case is decided next month. He set further trial for 1:30 p.m. on Jan. 24, noting that the Marin decision may settle the whole matter.

Still pending decision by Judge Brown is yet a third suit by other Marin developers challenging the constitutionality of the state law under which the regional board limited new sewer permits — effectively stopping most new construction.

Water Panel Picks New President

Franklin Gustafson was elected president of the North Marin County Water District board last night by a 3-2 vote over George A. Amaroli.

Frank V. Baccaglio nominated Gustafson and Pat Heffernan, a newly elected director, nominated Amaroli, reported Dist. Mgr. Eugene S. Churchill. Balloting was secret, he said.

Directors also voted to limit the presidency to one year instead of two. Gustafson succeeded Arnold Heise who didn't seek reelection to the board.

Baccaglio was unanimously elected vice president. Meeting dates were reset for first and third Tuesdays with at least one meeting a quarter in West Marin.

Directors also passed a resolution of intention to annex 12.3 acres in the developed area of Marshall, a strip between Shoreline Highway and Tomales Bay in the areas of the Marshall Hotel and set a public hearing at 8 p.m. Jan. 18 at the district office, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato, on the annexation.

They awarded BIF Industries, low bidder, a $15,102 contract for valves in the relocation of aqueduct lines for the Highway 101 bypass project, with the cost to be paid by the state Division of Highways.

Bound Over On Sale Of Heroin

Christopher Austin Fenn, 24, of San Rafael must appear in Marin Superior Court on Dec. 20 to face a charge of heroin sale.

After a preliminary hearing in Marin Municipal Court yesterday, Judge David Menary bound Fenn over to the higher court for trial.

Accepts Tree

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Richard Nixon formally accepted a 20-foot Frazer fir for the White House Wednesday from the North Carolina Christmas tree growers.

M. L. WEBER

Dr. Manuel L. Weber, father of Thelma Percy of Mill Valley, died Thursday in Denver, friends here have learned. He was 79.

Before his retirement in 1966, Weber was chief of cardiology at Fort Miley Veterans Hospital. He later moved to Denver.

He was born in Russia, and studied medicine at the University of Geneva, Switzerland, and Moscow University before coming to the U.S. in 1922 with his wife, Dora Levine, whom he had married in Moscow in 1918.

In addition to his wife and Mrs. Percy, he is survived by another daughter, Betty Tobias of Denver, and three grandsons.

The family prefers contributions to the Rose Hospital Heart Fund, Denver.

EMMA SALINE

Private funeral has been held in San Rafael for Emma Saline, 80, of San Rafael, who died Friday in a local convalescent hospital after a short illness.

Miss Saline was a retired secretary for the I. Zellerbach Co. in San Francisco. She lived at 1323 Nye Street with a sister, Martha, who survives.

She was a California resident for 70 years, 15 of which were spent in Marin.

Marin City Land Fuss: Court Action?

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Threatening court action if necessary, some 60 Marin City residents again stalled a deal which would release to a developer valuable ridgeland property surrounding their community in exchange for his rights to develop flatlands.

The warning of a suit came as residents repeated demands to Marin County's housing authority and redevelopment agency boards that any agreement on release of the property include an option to buy it back.

Their fear is based on a belief that the predominantly black, low-income community can not develop properly if the ridgeland is developed privately with expensive housing.

To forestall and stop such a circumstance, residents will tie up the agencies and the developer in a lengthy court battle, Frank T. Phillips of the Marin City Community Services District told the boards.

The stormy four-hour session at the Manzanita Center was highlighted by repeated calls for the resignation of Wallace K. Shepherd, the agencies' executive director, whom residents accused of trying to "hoodwink and bamboozle" them.

Their ouster demands came as the executive director repeated his recommendation of last Thursday that title to the 167-acre ridgeland property be released to California Development Co. in return for development rights to the 60-acre redevelopment lands in the heart of the community.

He said proposals Monday to the firm that a three-year option be included in "mutual release agreements" was flatly rejected. The option condition was added Thursday at residents' request.

"Release agreements," without the option, he said last night, would allow the agencies to regain the development land and then, at a later time, negotiate for an option to buy back the ridgelands.

His no-strings-attached proposal was at first warmly received by the two boards but both changed their positions under heavy pressure from residents.

As a result, the negotiating team — made up of Shepherd, two board members from each agency and two residents — will meet with Cal Development officials today to take up the option proposal anew.

Ten years ago, Cal Development was offered the choice ridgelands by the agencies as a financial incentive to offset money losses expected in the development of lowland properties.

The development firm agreed and has since paid the ridgeland purchase price of $441,000. But the agencies refused to accept final payment pending final development of the lowlands.

A stalemate has resulted with Cal Development refusing to continue lowland development until its final payment is accepted and the title to the ridgelands turned over to it.

The federal government, meanwhile, has threatened to foreclose the lowland redevelopment project — if progress is not made in negotiations — meaning the demise of the redevelopment agency, already bankrupt.

Last night's meeting appeared at first to be over almost before it started. Directors of the two agencies swiftly moved and seconded approval of the no-strings-attached proposal from Shepherd.

As the vote was called — with the housing authority board unanimously endorsing the proposal — residents shouted their protest making it impossible for the redevelopment agency to vote.

"You're not giving the community a chance to speak," protested C. J. Williams of the Marin City Community Services District. "This isn't fair."

"What do you think we are, a bunch of jackasses that don't know what you're doing . . . You're trying to hoodwink us," added Thelma McKinney, a county human rights commissioner and resident of Marin City. "We want you out," she continued, saying she was demanding the resignation of Shepherd and planned to ask the board of supervisors to dissolve both boards.

To the applause of other residents who voice similar demands, Mrs. McKinney said the "mutual release" action was an attempt to "sell out" the residents' voice in the future of their community.

She along with others charged that Shepherd had already signed the release agreements and that his proposal last night was simply a ploy to get board confirmation of unauthorized action.

"I've said it before . . . Shepherd, I believe you are on Cal Development's payroll," Williams said.

Shepherd replied to the charges saying an "informal" release agreement had been offered and accepted recently by the development firm but that community demands for an option had killed negotiations.

Residents, returning to their demands for Shepherd's resignation, pressed to know by whom and when he was authorized to make such an "informal" offer.

He responded that the authorization had come from the board prior to mid-September.

Chairman Arthur Miller of the housing authority, when asked by the audience at which meeting the authorization was made, did not reply.

"I've attended every meeting and didn't hear anything about it," said Phillips, who is also head of a Marin City group interested in taking over development.

(The housing authority board was accused by some Marin City residents in August of holding a secret meeting just prior to its first round of negotiations with Cal Development.

(The district attorney's office, following an investigation, said it could find no "intent" to violate the state's antisecret-meeting law by the board and took no action.)

"If I've been misguided, you won't have to come and drag me to jail . . . I'll go willingly," Chairman Miller said of the meeting.

"Last Thursday was the first we heard of mutual releases," added Mrs. McKinney.

The meeting cooled somewhat when Robert B. Pitts of the redevelopment agency board agreed with residents that they had been left out of the planning process despite earlier assurances they wouldn't.

On his suggestion the boards directed the negotiating committee to meet today with the development firm representative and report back tonight at an adjourned meeting of the two boards.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the Manzanita Center in Marin City.

Eat lupper at Dominic's.
For Fashionable Marinites, Sunday brunch on Dominic's colorful, umbrella-shaded patio has become a tradition. But it has also become a problem. After all, when they feel like eating again, it's too early for supper, and too late for lunch. Thus, lupper. This meal, to be enjoyed between three to four-thirty in the afternoon, is not only a fine solution to the above problem, but, in all likelihood, the beginning of a new Bay Area tradition. And after lupper, what then? Why, dinkfast, of course.

Dominic's
507 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael 456-1383.

India Reported In Victory Push

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

An Indian government spokesman announced today in New Delhi that a general withdrawal of Pakistani troops from the borders of East Pakistan and India was underway. He reported the capture of Comilla and said Indian troops were within 22 miles of Dacca.

Comilla, a major garrison town in the eastern sector of East Pakistan, was the third district headquarters in East Pakistan to be captured in two days. Fall of Jessore and Sylhet Tuesday opened the way for the drive toward the capital city of Dacca.

Defense Secretary K. B. Lall, the Indian spokesman, said the Pakistanis were retreating toward the center of East Pakistan and that Gen. S. H. F. J. Manekshaw, the Indian chief of staff, had repeated his demands they surrender.

In Kashmir, 1,000 miles away across the subcontinent of India, Pakistan was on the offensive after spearing into India territory five to seven miles in tha Chamb region of southeastern Kashmir. Heavy fighting was reported underway with men, tanks and planes.

Lall said Indian troops captured Comilla without resistance during the afternoon. He said Comilla, Jessore and Sylhet were left undefended and that the fleeing Pakistanis abandoned large quantities of war material.

"There is a general withdrawal from all around the borders into the heart of East Pakistan," Lall said. "It does not seemed to be a planned withdrawal." He said intelligence indicated the Pakistanis from Comilla were trying to reach two river ports south of Dacca.

"I have taken measures to prevent you from getting away by sea and have deployed naval forces," Manekshaw said in a statement broadcast to the Pakistanis in several languages and dialects. "Should you endeavor toescape, I assure you that a certain fate awaits you."

Comilla is about five miles inside East Pakistan and is between 50 and 60 miles east of Dacca. Its fall opened the way for still another Indian army spearhead to drive on Dacca across the many rivers and streams in that low-lying part of the world.

Lall said that on the western front Pakistani troops launched a second major attack on Indian positions in the Akhnur sector of the disputed state of Kashmir but that "our troops have held the ground." A major Pakistani attack Tuesday captured the important road town of Chamb which links India with Western Kashmir.

He said nine Pakistani tanks were destroyed by air strikes during the day in fighting on the eastern bank of the Munawar Tawi River—little more than a rivulet—and that one Indian jet fighter was shot down during the battle.

He said more than 18,000 Pakistani infantry troops and more than 130 tanks launched a heavy attack before dawn today on Indian positions on the eastern bank and "our troops were hard pressed."

Bolinas Fire Routs Niman From Home

The home of William E. Niman, a Bolinas school teacher and newly elected member of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District board, was destroyed today by a fire which routed him, his wife and two guests.

Damage to the split-level frame house at 165 Rosewood Road on the Bolinas Mesa was estimated at $25,000 by Bolinas Fire Chief Jose A. Silva. He said $6,500 in the Nimans' belongings and household contents also were destroyed.

Niman, his wife and two unidentified house guests from New York were awakened shortly before 3 a.m. by the roar of flames and crawled out a window to safety.

Silva said sparks and cinders were carried aloft by winds and several nearby residents were forced to hose down their roofs to save their houses. Numerous small grass fires were started by flying sparks but were quickly extinguished.

Twenty volunteers, using three engines, fought the blaze, Silva said, and one unit of the Stinson Beach Volunteer Fire Department stood by at the Bolinas fire station.

Firemen spent until 8:30 a.m. mopping up. Silva said the cause of the blaze was unknown but Niman reported it apparently started in the downstairs area near a heater.

Niman was elected Nov. 2 to the public utility district board to replace Sherman R. Smith, who was ousted from office in a recall.

Innovent Plea To Vehicle Theft

Victor A. Santini, 33, of El Verano, Sonoma County pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of vehicle theft.

Judge Robert A. Smallman set a preliminary hearing for Dec. 21 in municipal court.

Santini was arrested Dec. 6 by California Highway Patrol officers on a warrant accusing him of renting a one-ton van from Nationwide Rentals at 439 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael and failing to return the vehicle. The district attorney said Santini rented the van for only one day on May 4, then disappeared.

Gnoss Field Busy Enough For Tower

Gnoss Field, the Marin County airport at Novato, is nearly busy enough to merit a control tower by federal standards, the Marin Aviation Commission was told last night.

Airport Mgr. Francis E. Torr said a recent Federal Aviation Authority survey for one week indicated that Gnoss Field now has 125,000 takeoffs or landings a year, with more than 29,000 operations by transient, visiting aircraft. "This is approaching the FAA's informal criteria for a tower," Torr told the commissioners.

He said the FAA would require at least two more one-week activity counts before making a recommendation of federal funding for a tower.

The Marin Aviation Commission also:

OFFICERS — Postponed election of 1972 officers to Jan. 4 because terms of Commissioners Al Hansen, Herbert M. Hanson Jr., William Schwarzer and Melville Dickson will expire Dec. 31. The seats must be filled by the county supervisors, probably on Dec. 28, Torr said.

JOINT USE — Heard from Chairman David B. Vail that a plan for proposed joint civilian-military use of Hamilton Air Force Base's runway would be ready for commission action at the Jan. 4 meeting, to be passed on to the supervisors and Air Force.

HELICOPTER — Heard from Torr that Spectrum Air Co. had begun helicopter pilot training with one machine.

INVENTORY — Heard Torr report that 123 aircraft now are based at Gnoss Field.

MASTER PLAN — Heard Vail report that Wiltsey Hamm consultants had been retained to prepare a long-range plan for development of the field.

New Computers For Airplanes

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An American Airlines jumbo jet, flying between New York City and San Francisco, has become the first commercial user of an air-to-ground computer system to replace radio talk.

The 747 jetliner Tuesday employed a new data-link system built to reduce the workload of pilots and ground controllers by transmitting needed information to and from the cockpit in computer language.

The system uses existing radio frequencies for relaying high-speed digital informtion. From the ground it transmits traffic clearances, terminal information and en route weather advisories. The aircraft system automatically reports altitude, aircraft system performance, takeoff and landing and fuel consumption.

Parliament Meets

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Supreme Soviet Parliament of the Russian Federation met in the Kremlin Wednesday to discuss its five-year economic plan and its 1972 budget.

MUSIC REVIEW

College Orchestra Finds It Difficult

By ROBERT M. NESS

Last night's performance at Angelico Hall by the Dominican College Orchestra was not very good, largely because the newly formed group for starters bit off more than it could chew.

Considering the difficulty of the music and the newness of the group, one could say that this concert, given to an audience of about 200 people, was a noble attempt. But why attempt Mendelssohn's Hebrides Overture, Mozart's concert aria "Misera, dove son!", and Beethoven's Sixth Symphony on a debut concert! (Stephen Elliot's "Partita for Flute and Orchestra 1971" was the one pleasant exception.)

There are thousands of fine, less difficult works that would have been more enjoyable and at the same time would have provided the players with the necessary learning materials that are such an important aspect of a college-community orchestra.

The director of the orchestra, Richard Anastasio, is a good teacher and a fine musician. This was evident by some of the musical concepts that were attempted, but he failed to evoke the spontaneity that is essential to a good performance. His attention was directed into his score rather than out to the orchestra and his large heavy beat never varied in size.

Elliot's "Partita for Flute and Orchestra" is a beautiful work that verges towards the popular style of Burt Bacharach, especially in the Scherzo movement with its meandering melody and continually changing meters.

Both flute soloist Bertram Monroe, who is an exceptional musician, and the orchestra seemed in control throughout the work. There were intonation and balance problems, but also some vitality and sparkle not found in the rest of the program.

Soprano Robin Miler has the voice of an angel and a rare musical sense. Her singing of Mozart's "Misera, dove son!" was enchanting, but one had to block out the orchestra much the way one would freeway noise. The work requires orchestral playing with precise intonation and transparent texture. It had neither.

The Hebrides Overture likewise must have these qualities and must be performed with seeming ease. It was labored.

The Beethoven Symphony had some very beautiful moments, but each was immediately negated by unbalanced texture coupled with bad intonation. After the first movement it became especially labored and totally lacked the dramatic drive inherent in the work.

Passes Bar Test

In the list of persons who passed the state bar examinations printed yesterday in the Independent-Journal, Joseph M. Homer of 1659 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo and Eugene Blaise Ceccotti of 55 Cedar Avenue, Larkspur, were omitted.

Burglars Hit Petaluma Store

Burglars carted off $3,000 worth of televisions and stereos yesterday from Grant's department store at the Petaluma Plaza, police reported.

Officers said entry was made by climbing a fence in the garden department and breaking a window. The burglars apparently wheeled the items to a rear shipping dock where they cut the door locks and loaded the goods into a waiting truck.

Police said burglars also entered the Labor Administration Center, 331 Keller Street, yesterday and took checks and a tape recorder valued at $192.

New Aide For Tiburon Plan Dept.

Andrew E. Hahto, 28, has been appointed planning assistant in Tiburon, replacing Jeanne T. McLean for the second time in a Marin Community in six months.

Mrs. McLean, who worked as planning aide first in Mill Valley and then in Tiburon before joining the staff of the Marin County Planning Department, was succeeded by Hahto in Mill Valley as well.

Hahto was graduated from Long Beach State College in 1969 with a bachelor of arts degree in public administration and worked in the planning departments in Long Beach and Pacifica before coming to Mill Valley in May to replace Mrs. McLean.

He will be in charge of enforcing Tiburon's sign ordinance, handling counterwork and attending meetings of the city's design review board. His salary is $8,760.

Hahto, who came to America from Finland at age 6, is single. He lives at 588 South Elisio Drive, Apt. 23, Greenbrae.

Sixty million Americans crossed the border into Mexico in 1970.

Angela Group To Show Films

The Angela Davis Defense Committee will begin bimonthly films at Brown's Hall in Mill Valley next month to raise funds for her defense and for community groups in Marin City.

The Homestead Valley Community Association board last night approved the showing of two films per month for a three-month trial, according to secretary Virginia Spalding. The association owns the hall.

The board also set Dec. 19 for its annual Christmas caroling, she said. Homestead Valley residents will meet at 7 p.m. at Homestead School and walk through the streets of the community. A party at Brown's Hall will follow.

Participants are asked to bring a candle, Mrs. Spalding said. The caroling is sponsored by the association and the Homestead School Parent-Teacher Association.

$200 In Lumber Taken From Site

Lumber valued at $200 was stolen from a construction site at 19 Elda Drive, San Rafael, between last Friday and yesterday, San Rafael police reported today.

Officers said the lumber was owned by Marken Corp. of Oakland.

'AND MY HORSE RAN BACKWARDS. . .'

Accused Felons Need More Time

The scheduled appearance of two San Quentin convicts, accused of stabbing another inmate and murdering a correctional officer who was guarding the injured prisoner, was postponed for two weeks today in Marin Superior Court.

The inmates, Earl Billy Gibson, 28, and Lawrence Justice, 28, told Judge E. Warren McGuire they need more time to obtain attorneys.

The judge gave them until 9 a.m. Dec. 29. If they have no attorneys by then, McGuire said he would appoint attorneys for the two at public expense with the understanding that they could later substitute lawyers of their choice.

The judge also granted Justice's brother, Gary Justice of Los Angeles, permission to visit his brother at the prison today to discuss the hiring of a lawyer. Gary Justice told the judge he needed special permission because today is not a visiting day at San Quentin.

Gibson and Justice are charged with stabbing inmate Herman Johnson, 25, in the prison exercise yard on July 19, apparently in retaliation for his testimony in the trial of seven Soledad Prison inmates accused of killing a guard a year earlier.

On July 21, San Quentin officer Leo Gaston Davis, 38, who was guarding the wounded Johnson in the prison hospital, was fatally stabbed.

Gibson is serving a life term for first degree burglary in Los Angeles County in 1965, and Justice is in prison on an indeterminate sentence for two felony assaults and grand theft in Los Angeles County in 1968.

Spine Fractured From Accident

A Fairfax man was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a spinal fracture suffered when his car lost a wheel and rammed two parked autos on Cascade Drive in Fairfax.

Injured was Fred D. Holland, 35, of 450 Cascade Drive. The mishap occurred at 12:45 a.m. Monday in front of 149 Cascade Drive, police said.

Lawsuit Fears Over Larkspur Plan Ruling

The Larkspur Planning Commission, despite warnings by city staff of a possible lawsuit, last night rejected plans for a 224-unit apartment development atop Bon Air Hill.

Both City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst and City Atty. Peter B. Brekhus warned the commission that it was leaving the city open to a lawsuit by turning down the project, planned by the Larwin Multi-Housing Corp. of Beverly Hills.

The commission, in a 3-1 vote, Otto Hoefler dissenting, couldn't cite any specific zoning violations in rejecting the apartments as too dense. Said Chairman Robert H. Lee, who joined Charles Curley and Leonard S. Rubin in voting against the project, "I think we expressed the spirit of the law rather than the letter of the law by our action."

John Tapking, planner for the developers, had an appeal to the city council in the hands of Brekhus before the commission had finished voting.

Bathurst told the commission, "I have to run this city. What am I going to do when someone wants to come in here with something? I have no ordinances to rely on anymore. What you're doing is rezoning. You need a legislative amendment for that."

The plans were rejected on a third motion. Earlier, one placing conditions on the project died for lack of a second and Hoefler moved unsuccessfully to approve the development.

As presented, the development showed a three-tenths of an acre increase in open space over earlier plans, less asphalt in the center of the development and a one-to-four car-dwelling ratio.

The conditions placed on the project in the commission's first motion were a 10 per cent increase in open space and more stringent parking requirements.

Tapking asserted the development was well within limits of existing density ordinances and said city planning consultant Sydney Williams had suggested the one-to-four car-dwelling ratio.

Lee, however, read the consultant's memorandum, which suggested a moratorium on all subdivisions until a review of building ordinances is undertaken next month. The commission had indicated, however, it was too late to order a moratorium on the Larwin development.

The memorandum also said Bon Air Hill was already overdeveloped, and Williams urged the city to look into a park for the top of the hill.

Lee and the commission also discussed specific parking inadequacies of the subdivision. Lee said "the streets outside the project are virtually useless for parking because they are 60 feet below, down a steep hill that nobody but the young will attempt to climb.

He told Tapking "you must figure on 448 cars, two cars for every dwelling, with parking space within the development."

Tapking replied "what you're essentially doing is taking away the viability of the project."

"What I'm doing," Lee said, "is asking for less units."

Tapking said "we are allowing for a dwelling every 2,400 feet. The other projects on the hill have densities below 2,000 feet."

Charles Brouse, spokesman for the Larkspur Town meeting group, said "the logic of more building escapes me. We should do all planning with the city in mind. My advice is to take your time and think hard about what you allow to be built."

Water Board Has New Chief

Andrea De Marco, one of three newly elected board members, has been chosen new president of the Stinson Beach County Water District board. Another new director, Proctor Jones, was named vice president.

At its organizational meeting Monday, the board also named four persons to a citizens advisory committee which will enter into board discussions and assist the board in its deliberations, according to director John L. Jones.

Appointed to the committee were Charles E. Hancock, Otto Reutinger, Harriet Crandall and Robert Tartaul.

Weiss Won't Be Tried In Prison Flap

A San Rafael attorney — accused by the state attorney general of being one of a band of lawyers breaking prison rules and fomenting revolution behind prison walls — will not be tried for any violation of the law, the Marin County district attorney said yesterday.

Any action against attorney Lawrence G. Weiss is up to the state bar association, according to Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, who has turned the matter over to the association.

Whether the bar association will review the case or act in any other manner in the matter may never be known. A bar association spokesman said it is against the rules of the association to confirm to deny whether an investigation is under way and, unless the association decides to take the matter to the Supreme Court, it never will be made public.

According to Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger, Weiss may have advised a woman named "Estella" to write to San Quentin inmate Louis N. Talamantez, telling the convict, "the only way you would come out is through a kidnap-ransom situation." Talamantez is now accused of murder while participating in the Aug. 21, 1971, break for freedom by George Jackson in which two other inmates, Jackson and three San Quentin guards were killed.

Bales said the letter had been brought to his attention by the attorney general's office before the August 1971 violence when Weiss was still acting as attorney for Talamantez in a case in which the convict is charged with assaulting another inmate.

Because of the pending case, Bales said, he decided not to prosecute Weiss on a misdemeanor charge of sending illegal mail into a prison.

Weiss was still unavailable today for comment.

He along with Faye Stender of Berkeley and Patrick Hallinan of San Francisco were accused of fomenting unrest in prisons.

They were named in a brief filed by the attorney general in a case which is challenging prison regulations prohibiting sealed letters between inmates and their attorneys.

Voluntary Teaching Plan Is Presented

The staff from Wolfe Grade School last night presented plans for more voluntary classes and apparently won support from the Kentfield School District board, according to Supt. Anthony G. Bacich.

Bacich said the group proposed to rearrange the class schedule so that courses like art, drama, physical education and music could be offered in the early afternoon three days a week.

The plan envisions volunteers, both teachers and nonteachers, giving classes that would cater to the interests of the school children, Bacich said. Each child would choose his own class, but would probably be counselled first, Bacich said.

The board seemed to approve of the concept at the workshop meeting, he said. A formal vote is set for Jan. 10.

Montecito Signs Must Be Removed

Sign standards were set last night by the San Rafael Planning Commission for Mentecito shopping center.

Peter Stock, planning technician, said the commission ordered free-standing signs removed, with the exception of one shopping center identification sign.

The move would affect three signs, Stock said, but the fate of one — at the Kettle restaurant — remained uncertain as the commission decided later at its meeting to consider the Kettle sign separately at a future meeting.

The commission set limits on the sizes and types of signs which will be allowed at the shopping center in an effort "to tie it together so it looks like one unit and not like everybody fighting each other," Stock said.

The commission also endorsed sign procedures at the Northgate shopping center and expressed no objection to the way they were proceeding.

Other shopping center signs will be reviewed by the commission at future meetings, Stock said.

De Surville Bound Over

Donald H. L. De Surville, 35, of Kentfield, was bound over yesterday to Marin Superior Court to face a charge of receiving stolen property.

Following a preliminary hearing yesterday in Marin Municipal Court, Judge David Menary set Dec. 20 as the date for De Surville to be arraigned in superior court.

De Surville, owner of Town and Country Billards, was arrested Nov. 12 and accused of receiving a valuable coin collection stolen from a Larkspur home on Oct. 26.

Hub Library Mapping Plans For Delivery Service To Shut-Ins

Plans for a delivery service for shut-ins are being formulated by the San Anslemo Library board.

Jacqueline Perazzo, chairman of the board, said the service will provide home delivery of books, records, films and other library materials.

She said the service will be started following a survey to determine areas of need and enlistment of volunteers to perform the deliveries.

At its meeting Monday, the board also discussed plans for a board reception for Friends of the San Anselmo Library, a volunteer service group. The reception will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 28 in the children's room of the library, Mrs. Perazzo said.

Youth Stamp Club Set In Sausalito

Organization of a youth stamp club in Sausalito was announced today.

First meeting will be Dec. 15 at 7 p.m. at the Sausalito Youth Center in Central School. Organizers are John Biestman, Sam Silver and Mark Lester.

Guilty Plea To Malicious Mischief Charge

Mark Anthony Carrillo, 18, of Santa Rosa, originally charged with passing a bad check, pleaded guilty yesterday to malicious mischief.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of Marin Municipal Court sentenced him to 12 days in jail, which he already has served.

Carrillo and Jennifer Lynn Wren, 23, of Rohnert Park were arrested May 23 by Sausalito police, who said they cashed two bad checks at Sausalito stores.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter Evans said that since Miss Wren admitted the bad check charges, Carrillo was allowed to plead to the lesser offense of malicious mischief.

Miss Wren pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor bad check charge on Nov. 17 and is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court on Dec. 10 for sentencing.

Mill Valley Chamber Of Commerce Picks Officers

Samuel W. Schneider, co-owner of Varney's Hardware, has been elected 1972 president of the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce. Schneider will replace Richard C Conrad whose term will expire Dec. 31.

Election ballots mailed in by chamber members were counted at Monday's meeting of the chamber board of directors, according to Granville L. Beedle, chamber secretary-manager.

Other new officers are first vice president, Christian R. Steindl, co-owner of Strawbridge's Camera and Stationery Store; second vice president, Normand B. Black, owner of El Marin Florist, and treasurer, John P. McNamara, manager of the Mill Valley branch of Wells Fargo Bank.

The board also agreed to reappoint Beedle to a 12th term as secretary-manager. His assistant, Carol B. Healy, was also reappointed.

In addition, directors accepted, with regret, the resignation of director Edward M. Mills, co-publisher of the Mill Valley Record. Mills, who resigned because of the press of other business, had been a member of the chamber board since 1965 and served two consecutive terms as president in 1967 and 1948.

Four Holiday Trips Slated

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department has announced it is offering four trips during the holiday season:

For senior high school students, a ski trip to Boreal Ridge, leaving 6:30 a.m. Dec. 20 and returning 8 p.m. Dec. 21. The trip includes transportation and lodging.

For children 5 to 12 years old, to Santa's Village in Scotts Valley, leaving at 9 a.m. and returning at 6 p.m., Dec. 21.

For children and adults, to San Francisco Ballet's production of "The Nutcracker" from 6:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Dec. 27.

For children 9 to 12 years old, to Bumble Bee Toboggan Hill from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Dec. 29.

Further information on the trips and fees may be obtained from the parks and recreation department.

SPACE AGE FIREFIGHTING?

1985: Hamilton 'Airport' Seen

Novato residents had a momentary vision last night of Hamilton Air Force Base serving a million civilian air passengers a year in 1985.

If it were developed in this manner, it would "look like the San Jose airport today," according to Walter E. Gillfillan, director of the Regional Airport Systems Study for the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Civilian use of Hamilton Air Force Base is one of the possibilities being considered in the study, Gillfillan told the Novato City Council and an audience of about 25 persons last night.

The present 20 million air passengers annually in the Bay Area will increase to 83 million by 1985, he said. With the joint capacity of the San Jose, San Francisco and Oakland airports at 54 million, accommodations would be short by about 30 million, Gillfillan said.

The question is whether to expand existing airports to create new ones. "Where do they go? Do we have a series of small airports like Hamilton Air Force Base, one million passengers, or a major new regional site . . . a remote site in the region?"

The Association of Bay Area Governments hasn't any power to implement plans, but does review applications for federal grants, he reminded the council.

If an application is made for a project that is contrary to the regional plan, the association would report so in reviewing the application, he said.

The study committee is considering the impact of noise and the effect on the environment of airports, but hasn't established any noise criteria yet, Gillfillan said. "Our job is to look at all issues, get public opinion and recommend airport alternatives to meet future requirements in the Bay Area."

Then, the association will adopt an aviation element in its regional plan, Gillfillan explained.

When considering fields such as Hamilton Air Force Base, one of the major factors is considering what level of use there should be, he said.

His appearance before the council last night was in the nature of an informational report, not a public hearing, and the council recommended that the study committee hold a public hearing in Marin.

Councilman Wayne Sartain asked that if there were joint civilian-military use of Hamilton Air Force Base, could the city impose limitations on the type of aircraft used.

Gillfillan said Long Beach regulates the number of flights and Orange County regulates the time of flights, and the city probably could regulate the type of planes.

60 Strep Cases During Last Week

With 60 cases reported, streptococcus infection was the most prevalent communicable disease reported to the Marin County Health Department last week, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer.

There were 18 cases of gonorrhea, five of salmonella and one each of tuberculosis, rubella and shigella.

Shopping Center Hopes Hold Fast

The Novato City Council is holding fast to its hope that a regional or at least subregional shopping center will be developed at Pinheiro Ranch, north of the downtown area.

There hasn't been any action toward development of a major center, but City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said last night the poential still exists.

Comment came as the council upheld planning commission denial of use permits for two new businesses in the area of the proposed center.

Shot down by a 4-1 vote because they didn't fit into the downtown plan were a Taco Bell restaurant on the west side of Highway 101, between Olive and Vallejo avenues, and a car wash, planned by Emil Renati, at the northeast corner of the highway and Vallejo Avenue.

Councilman J. Wayne Womack, the lone dissenter, wanted to know how long the council was "going to control property" waiting for some action on a major center before it would consider "other uses" for the land.

Councilman Wayne Sartain said it wouldn't be reasonable to set a "specific date" now when other uses might be permitted. "We're trying to provide a shopping center if we can. It would help the property owners and should be given a chance to fly."

Councilmen agreed that the city's downtown implementation committee should submit a quarterly progress report on its efforts to get a major center developed.

The Novato City Council also:

INDIAN VALLEY COLLEGES — Reaffired its stand that the Marin Community College District should construct Indian Valley Colleges near Novato for opening in 1974 with financing on a "reasonable" pay-as-you-go basis. Mayor Joseph D. Gargiulo, a former member of the college board, will take the message to the district board Thursday night.

LIONS PARK — Sent the North Marin County Water District 120-day notice that the city will terminate its lease on district land at Lion's Park, near Stafford Lake, a park plagued by vandalism and now closed. The Novato Lions Club said it wasn't interested in further use at the site.

EMERGENCY PLAN — Adopted 4-1 an ordinance to set up a city disaster council to develop plans for emergencies, Councilman George C. Quesada dissenting because he felt the city would be improperly delegating authority. An accompanying resolution which would give Marin County power to coordinate activities in countywide disasters was continued until Dec. 21, and a state mutual aid agreement was passed unanimously.

MOSQUITO BOARD — Reappointed Frank V. Baccaglio to a two-year term on the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District board.

PROMOTION FUNDS — Denied a request by the Redwood Empire Association for $250 toward its promotional activities.

OAKS UNIT — Approved precise plans, submitted by Condiotti Enterprises, for Oaks Unit Two, consisting of 80 single family dwellings on 37.5 acres in the Marin Highlands area.

DIABLO TRIANGLE — Adopted an ordinance approving the master plan for development of 161 apartment units on 5.8 acres of the south portion of the Diablo Triangle, along Center Road and Diablo Avenue, which included a ponding area on Warner Creek and a bicycle and pedestrian path along the creek.

PACHECO VILLAGE — Approved precise plans for Pacheco Village, 180 multiple-family units on the east side of Marin Valley Drive, south of Bolling Drive, by a 4-1 vote with Councilman David Price Jones dissenting. The council specified that the siding of the buildings be wood rather than stucco.

CREDIT CARD — Continued until Dec. 21 a request from the Association of Credit Card Investors that it be exempt from payment of a business license fee since it is a nonprofit corporation.

SPEED CONTESTS — Introduced an ordinance to prohibit auto speed contests on private property open to the public such as shopping center parking lots and drive-ins.

APARTMENTS — Approved precise plans by Fred Mauroni for a seven-unit apartment building on the east side of Railroad Avenue, north of Logan Street.

PRIVATE PATROL — Granted Paul Davis of San Francisco a license to conduct a private security patrol at the Woodland Heights development near Terry Circle.

PARKING LIMIT — Established a two-hour parking limit on the east side of Scott Avenue from Grant Avenue to 50 feet south of Grant Avenue.

CROSSING — Approved an agreement with Northwestern Pacific Railroad Co. for an easement to cross the tracks at Reichert Avenue as part of the Highway 101 bypass project. Public Works Director Clifford E. Temps estimated the track and signal work would cost $16,000 and the city could apply for 50 per cent reimbursement from the state Public Utilities Commission.

PETITION — Received a petition from the Garden Club of the Marin Golf and Country Club, carrying 300 signatures, that request the council to consider landscaping the median strip along Ignacio Boulevard.

MEETING — Adjourned at 1:25 a.m. until 6 p.m. Monday at the North Marin County Water District Office for a joint meeting with the Novato Sanitary District Board. The next regular meeting will be at 8 p.m. Dec. 21 at the Novato Community House.

50 Bicycles Will Be Auctioned Off

Fifty bicycles will be among items available when the City of Novato holds its semiannual public auction at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the city hall parking lot.

The auction list includes 32 boys' bicycles, 18 girls' bicycles, 16 card tables, 20 folding tables, two police radios, a typewriter adding machine and miscellaneous clothing.

1972 Corona Mark II 4-door sedan

Until very recently people thought size and high price meant luxury. The Corona Mark II puts an end to that. Even domestic automobile executives compliment Toyota's engineering. Owners love its electric clock, fully reclining bucket seats, wall to wall carpeting, vinyl upholstery, the Mark II's clean running 2000cc overhead cam engine, disc brakes, 2-speed windshield wipers and washers, locking glove compartment. The Mark II is one luxury sensible people can afford.

Coalition Formed By Lucas Valley Citizens

The successful battle of a citizen's committee against establishment of a Renaissance Center in Lucas Valley had led to creation of a group to be known as the Lucas Valley Coa lition.

Calvin B. Colt of 353 Mount Shasta Drive, Lucas Valley, who had led a group known as the no Faire Committee, was elected chairman of the new coalition at a Dec. 1 meeting.

Jean Fitzgerald, public information chairman, said the purpose of the coalition was "advocacy planning, working with all parties to the planning and development process in creating changes that will enhance the unique living environment of Lucas Valley."

Residents of all the Lucas Valley communities — Marinwood, Mont Marin, Twelve Oak Hill, San Rafael Park and Lucas Valley — attended the organizational meeting of the coalition, she said.

At the meeting, the coalition agreed to request the Marin County Board of Supervisors to establish a Lucas Valley Planning Council to hold public hearings on development in the valley and submit recommendations to the county planning commission.

The coalition voted to recommend to the board of supervisors that Marinwood attorney Walter K. Dods be appointed to a vacant at-large seat on the planning commission.

James Erickson of 2647 Heatherstone Drive, Marinwood, was named to head research activities of the coalition and Joan Fernandez of 41 Mount Rainier Drive, Lucas Valley, was selected to coordinate community action activities.

The coalition will meet again at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Lucas Valley Community Center for a presentation of the preliminary Marin County master plan, particularly as it affects Lucas Valley, by County Planning Director Werner von Gundell. All Lucas Valley residents are invited, according to Mrs. Fitzgerald.

Named admissions director

Boys' School Executives Announced

Two members of the Katharine Branson faculty have been named to administrative positions for the new boys' school, Mount Tamalpais School, which will open on the Branson campus in Ross in September, 1972.

Named as principal of the new school was Rollin Miles Warner Jr. James Basil Hamblin will be the director of admissions.

Warner, 41, has been among those making plans for Mount Tamalpais School for the past two years. He currently teaches history and sociology at the Branson school.

A graduate of Yale University, Warner holds a master's degree in business administration from Stanford University. He also has studied at Harvard Law School and the University of San Francisco.

As a high school student at Hotchkiss School in Connecticut, he attained national recognition as an All-American prep swimmer.

He has directed the program at Camp Royaneh, the Bay Area's Boy Scout camp, and taught history for seven years at the Town School in San Francisco, where he also served as senior master.

He worked as the assistant to the vice president for finance of Stanford University for three years and prior to entering the education field, he worked for Matson Navigation Co.

He served in the Far East as a Navy lieutenant.

Hamblin, 31, teaches English, photography and journalism at the Branson school. He attended Amherst College, graduated from Miami (Ohio) University and holds a master's degree from Ohio State University.

Prior to coming to Branson's, Hamblin taught English for seven years in New York state and Oregon and also taught English as a foreign language in Paris.

Leonard Richardson, headmaster of Katherine Branson School, who will also serve as headmaster for Mount Tamalpais School, said that more than 125 applications for the new boys' school have been received.

Concert To Feature Student Composition

An original fugue for string quartet by Mark Rasmussen of Petaluma will be featured at the first concert of the Sonoma State College Chamber Music Workshop Dec. 16 at noon in Ives Hall of Music.

Rasmussen, a senior music major, plays piano, organ and viola, in addition to composing. The program will also include music by Handel, Mozart, Faure and Hindemuth.

Here's A Message Of Love

A gift made by hand conveys a message of thoughtfulness and love that even a person who "has everything" is sure to appreciate.

This fruit cake recipe is different. It contains finely chopped apples which add their wine flavor and moistness to the usual mixture. Call upon your imagination in selecting pans in which to bake the cake.

For example, a can that has held coconut makes a pretty candle, with white frosting for dripping "wax" and a piece of candied cherry for a flame. An eight-inch ring mold makes a handsome wreath, with candied cherries and halved green gum drop leaves for holly. Small gelatin molds can be called into service, or the flat round cans in which tuna and other foods are packed. You can go on from there.

CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

- 1 cup vegetable oil
- 1½ cups firmly packed brown sugar
- 4 eggs
- 3 cups sifted all-purpose flour, divided
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 2 teaspoons allspice
- 1 teaspoon cloves
- 1 cup pineapple juice
- 1 cup chopped candied pineapple*
- 1½ cups whole candied cherries
- 1 cup diced candied citron
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 1½ cups finely chopped apples
- 2½ cups coarsely chopped walnuts

GIFTS MADE by the giver are doubly welcome at Christmas. Here's fruitcake that can take many forms for a personalized expression from the giver.

*Or use mixed diced candied fruits

Combine oil, sugar and eggs; beat vigorously two minutes, mix and sift two cups flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Stir into sugar mixture alternately with pineapple juice. Mix remaining cup of flour with fruits and nuts. Pour batter over this mixture, blending well. Turn into well-greased and floured pans. Place on baking sheet. Bake at 300 degrees for two to three hours, depending on size and shape of pan. Let stand 15 minutes. Remove from pans to racks to finish cooling. Wrap in aluminum foil; store to ripen. When ready to serve or wrap as gifts, decorate as desired. An hour or two before slicing chill cakes in refrigerator.

A Soup Can Free The Hostess

A bright, light hot soup set up with handled cups in the living room for guests to serve themselves does more than welcome warmly. It frees the hostess-cook for getting everything for the festive main course on the dining table at one time.

Such a soup should be light-bodied, and the more delicate and enticing the taste, the better. This one is light red in color, with bits of green. Its "guess-what" flavor comes from caramelizing four teaspoons of white granulated sugar in a heavy saucepan on low heat.

Stir until sugar melts and turns lightly amber. Remove from heat to blend in two tablespoons butter or margarine. Slowly stir in three cups hot water with four chicken bouillon cubes (or equal amount of canned or strained homemade broth), and ½ cup tomato juice. Bring to boil; add ¼ cup each chopped pimiento and green pepper. Correct seasoning, if necessary, with salt or sugar, and simmer about five minutes. Makes eight half-cup portions or four cups of soup.

This recipe makes a soup to cheer on other occasions also — particularly the day after a meal of roast turkey, capon, or chicken. Then the broth base can be made from the bones left from carving, simmered with pieces of onion, celery, carrot, a little sugar to bring out their flavors, and water; cooked down and strained.

BEEF RIB ROAST IDEA

An Elegant Holiday Season Dinner

For an elegant dinner during the holiday sesson, serve a rolled or standing beef rib roast. It is perfect for formal dinners.

A beef rib roast cooks perfectly with little attention and comes in all sizes. You can select a roast that is just right for a small family or one large enough to serve a crowd. Purchase a roast large enough to have planned-over meat for sandwiches and mini-meals.

Serve a rolled or standing beef rib roast for holiday entertaining with a chilled cranberry juice cocktail, baked acorn squash with peas, spiced pears, tossed salad with Roquefort dressing, individual herb yorkshire puddings or popovers, beverage and fruit cake.

Place beef roast, fat side up, on rack in shallow uncovered roasting pan. If desired, season with salt and pepper. If a meat thermometer is used insert it into center of heaviest part of roast with tip away from fat or bone. Roast uncovered in slow oven (325°) to degree of doneness desired. Let stand 20 to 25 minutes before carving. Slice first servings of meat and arrange roast and slices on heated serving platter. Garnish as desired or with spiced pears as shown in picture. Serve with individual herb yorkshire puddings or popovers. Yield: Count on two to four servings per pound.

A HOLIDAY change from turkey is welcome in this beef rib roast with spiced pears and spicy popovers or Yorkshire pudding.

SPICED PEARS

- 3 cups water
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 2 tablespoons lemon or orange juice
- 1 teaspoon shredded lemon or orange rind
- 6 whole cloves
- 2 cinnamon sticks
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 6 or 8 slightly underripe winter pears (Bosc or Anjou)

Combine all ingredients except pears in a large sauce pan or Dutch oven. Place over moderate heat and bring syrup to a boil. While syrup is heating peel pears leaving stem on. Drop pears in cold water to which a small amount of additional lemon juice is added to keep pears from darkening. Add pears to syrup; cover and keep syrup at a boil so pears will keep turning or rolling in syrup. Remove pears from syrup when fork tender, about 20 to 25 minutes. Let pears stand upright while cooling, basting often with a small amount of syrup.

INDIVIDUAL HERB YORKSHIRE PUDDINGS OR POPOVERS

- 1 cup sifted flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon fresh or dried chopped chives
- ¼ teaspoon marjoram
- ¼ teaspoon leaf thyme
- 1 cup milk
- 3 eggs
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Sift together flour and salt; stir in herbs. Combine milk, eggs and butter or margarine in bowl; beat until thoroughly mixed. Add dry ingredients to liquids; beat well. Fill eight well-greased five-ounce souffle or custard cups about ⅓ full. Bake in hot oven (400°) until brown and crisp, 40 to 45 minutes. If desired, popover batter may be prepared several hours before serving time, poured into souffle or custard cups, covered and stored in refrigerator until baking time. Yield: 8 large popovers.

Apicius Would Be Proud

As far back as the first century, a Roman gourmet named Apicius wrote what is supposed to be the first cookbook. In it, he recorded his favorite recipe for cooking lamb with a collection of pungent herbs. And although cooking methods have come a long way since then, this venerable combination of lamb and herbs is still going strong.

Here is a new recipe for stuffed breast of lamb that Apicius would have been proud to serve his friends after a long day at the chariot races.

In classic style, the lamb is marinated for several hours; but the modern marinade is a most ingenious one a bottled Italian dressing. Although intended primarily for salads, this dressing, with its oil, vinegar and traditional seasonings, adds a unique savor to the lamb.

The unusual rice stuffing features a mixed bouquet of allspice, cinnamon, pepper and parsley. And for a final touch, the top of the lamb is spread with tomato sauce before baking.

STUFFED BREAST OF LAMB

- 3 to 4-pound breast of lamb with pocket
- 1 bottle (8 oz.) Italian dressing
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped onion
- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 cup uncooked regular or processed white rice
- 1 cup hot water
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon allspice
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup tomato sauce.

In large bowl, combine meat and Italian dressing. Marinate two to three hours at room temperature.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In medium skillet, melt butter, add onion and green pepper; cook until tender. Add rice and cook two minutes. Add water, parsley, salt, allspice, cinnamon, and pepper; mix well. Simmer covered, seven minutes or until water is absorbed.

On rack in roasting pan, place meat with pocket side up; fill with mixture and secure edges. With point of knife, pierce top of meat in several places; spread tomato sauce over top. Bake covered, 45 minutes. Remove cover and bake an additional 45 minutes or until done. Makes about six servings.

STUFFED BREAST — of lamb stars at a big dinner party. In classic style, the lamb is marinated for several hours in Italian dressing. The rice stuffing features a mixed bouquet of seasonings and for a final touch, the lamb is spread with tomato sauce before baking. Artichokes are an accompainment.

The Size Really Doesn't Count

It used to be that you could pick up the largest package or container from the shelf and know it was less expensive than the smaller sizes of the same brand product.

Not so anymore, according to the Credit Union National Association. It seems that grocers and manufacturers caught on to this consumer practice, because now the largest sizes are often the most expensive.

When you shop, be sure to compare prices before you reach for the big box, warns the CUNA.

Travels Well, Stays Fresh

Cranberry fruit balls make a gift that travels well and remains fresh for several weeks. In a meat grinder, grind 1 pound of fresh cranberries with 2 large, seeded but unpeeled oranges, 2 (3½-ounce) cans of flaked cocoanut and 3 cups of raisins OR currants. Stir in 2 cups of sugar and 2 (13¾-ounce) packages of graham cracker crumbs. If necessary, add more crumbs to make a mixture that can be molded into 1-inch balls. Roll each in finely chopped nuts, using total of 3 cups. Wrap individually in clear plastic and tie with ribbon loops if you wish to use them as tree ornaments. Pack in airtight container for storage or shipping. Makes about 100.

High In Protein

One food that is always on the shelf is peanut butter. It is high in protein and helps build muscle and blood.

A Gift From The Kitchen

Orange-flavored vineagar is a unique, easy-to-make and inexpensive "Christmas gift from the kitchen." Pare orange zest from 1 orange. Scrape away any white membrane that clings, twist strips into spirals and drop them into 1 pint of white OR white wine vinegar. Recap bottle and let set two to three weeks. If desired, decant vinegar through a cheesecloth-lined funnel into a decorative bottle with either ground glass stopper, cork or screw lid.

Quick Pear Pie

Make Christmas Eve Wait A Little Bit Easier

This Christmas Eve, while children wait for Santa and wonder what the morning will bring, make the wait easier and start Christmas fun sooner by serving child-pleasing beverages like these festive egg nog punches.

Festive egg nog punches all begin with dairy egg nog. The first one chills a combination of egg nog and a favorite flavor ice cream. Serve in a punch bowl and float more scoops of ice cream on top. Deep Dutch chocolate would be good, but so would cable car crunch, strawberry blonde and milk chocolate chip ice cream.

A few more variations on your festive egg nog punch theme will cap this evening off admirably. Pineapple egg nog punch will please all ages. In addition to these, and egg nog, it calls for a can of pineapple juice concentrate to complement the nog. Cranberry juice cocktail makes another combination with egg nog; and a little red food coloring gives a pink color to this tart yet sweet beverage.

Put out some other holiday sweets and serve the nog in your most festive glasses or mugs.

FESTIVE EGGNOG PUNCH

1 quart ice cream
2 quarts egg nog
Nutmeg

Reserve three or four scoops of your favorite flavor ice cream for garnish. Soften remainder and beat into egg nog. Chill thoroughly. Turn into punch bowl and float reserved ice cream on top. Sprinkle each serving with nutmeg, if desired. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Note: For a thin egg nog punch, add one quart chilled milk. This will make 16 servings.

PINEAPPLE EGG NOG PUNCH

1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 cup milk
1 quart egg nog
1 (6 oz.) can frozen pineapple juice concentrate, defrosted
¼ teaspoon salt

Soften ice cream, then blend smooth with milk. Combine all ingredients and serve well chilled. Makes about eight servings.

CRANBERRY EGG NOG PUNCH

1 quart egg nog
2 cups chilled cranberry juice cocktail
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Red food coloring

Combine egg nog, cranberry juice cocktail, salt and lemon juice until well blended. Add a few drops red food coloring to give delicate pink color. Serve well chilled. Makes six to eight servings.

A Danish Delight

Staying Power

Protein puts staying power into your breakfast so you don't get hungry before the noon meal. Some breakfast protein foods are eggs, sausage, milk, and cheese.

CONSTANCE KARLA, holding her pastel portrait of Walter, reminisces over how a Christmas card showing him playing a cello started her hobby of making an entire orchestra of cats with instruments out of scraps. On the easel are portraits of two other pets, Fritz and Mike, who lived to be 16 years old.

'MY SCRAP BASKET CATS'

A Little Feline Symphony Comes True

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Constance Karla has always liked cats, music, art and photography. Now, at 79, she is immersed in a hobby, bringing her interests together.

"My scrap basket cats," she calls the orchestra of three-dimensional jewel-eyed felines she has made from odds and ends of paper, cardboard and anything handy.

Miss Karla, who worked for the Mill Valley Library for 18 years, now lives in Greenbrae. Before retiring in 1963 she built the library's music record section to its present status.

AT HER Greenbrae apartment Miss Karla discussed how her interests came together when she began making the orchestra of little cats with tiny instruments.

"I have been fascinated with cats ever since I can remember, and I had always wanted to be an artist, but I was shoved into being a musician by my mother," she said. "I had absolutely no talent for music, but my father was a good artist, and I guess mother thought one artist in the family was enough."

Apparently her study of music under protest left no serious scars, however, for Miss Karla became a professional violinist, and for many years presented public recitals and programs with a harpist.

"I even did a stint in vaudeville," she said, her bright blue eyes twinkling with mischief, "and I was actually the first instrumentalist to play over the radio in the New York area about 1920."

When she and her father came to Mill Valley in 1928, they started a little shop in the basement of their home, where they made gift items out of redwood. That training in handicraft led to a job at Marinship in Sausalito during World War II making wood models of ships and ship parts.

IT WAS this training that came in handy in making her cats and their little instruments, she believes.

She started working at the Mill Valley library in 1945, where she was kept very busy doing many kinds of work until the music library required most of her time. After her retirement, she was free for the first

MAESTRO VON HISS N'SPITS may have called a 2 a.m. rehearsal for Constance Karla's feline orchestra, but the music they make, she says, is strictly symphonic, not of the backyard-fence-at-midnight variety. The musician-artist-photographer-cat fancier hopes to make a book of the pictures she has taken of the cats, each with a funny jingle caption.

Today's Divorce Laws Are Viewed

By JOAN LISETOR

New divorce laws are good for women who are now growing up, but women who are already married are not prepared for its effects, San Rafael attorney Ann Diamond told an audience at Redwood High School yesterday.

Her talk, "The Legal Status of Women," was sponsored by the Women on the Move group at Redwood as the first of a two-day program, "Women and the Law."

"Community property is anything acquired during the marriage," Mrs. Diamond explained, "with the exception of gifts and inheritances."

In case of a divorce the law divides these things equally, she said, but since the husband has been the manager, determined what was done with possessions, what the family standard should be and how money is to be invested it is not fair to the woman.

SO MANY laws discriminate against women, she said, because they are written by legislators and interpreted by judges, most of whom are men.

"The new divorce law provides a realtistic attitude by abolotioning the fault concept and recognizing that the breakdown is caused by both the husband and wife," Mrs. Diamond said. "In the old days, the '40s and '50s, women were told if they were good girls, good housewives and mothers, they would be provided for for life. All they had to do was help their husbands along in careers."

Using an hypothetical 35-year-old doctor, "because in Marin doctors divorce in large numbers," she gave the example of a 12-year-marriage with three children splitting up.

"Early in the marriage the doctor finished medical school and did a stint in the service. His practice has just started to show a profit and for the first time the family is in a comfortable situation," shesaid.

"The wife is a graduate of Berkeley and worked as a secretary when he was in medical school. She quit when the babies started coming and has been at home for 10 years. Then he decides to split.

"The court gives her half of the community property, but there is little property, since it is his education, and the court doesn't recognize that. She is given support for the children and for herself for three to five years, but she is in her thirties and her skills and self confidence have eroded while she was in the protected position."

THE DIVORCE law is a liberation of women who are not ready for it, she said.

"The romantic and sentimental ideas that you marry for life are not borne out by statistics, and giving up a life outside the home is a short-sided position," Mrs. Diamond said.

The attorney intorduced the youngest member of her law firm, Diamond and Savitt, Verna Mellini, who traced the legal rights of women since 1800, when married women in the United States and England had "the same status in the eyes of the law as the insane and criminals."

ANN DIAMOND
Legal status talk

During the 19th Century American women were granted a few rights, which included owning property and entering into contracts. Next came the right to vote in 1920, and things stayed about the same until the Equal Pay Act was passed by Congress in 1963. That statute does not cover all jobs and has some loopholes, she said, as does the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which under Title VII porhibits discrimination in employment.

"It is interesting that the word 'sex' was added as a joke by a Southern senator who wanted to see the act defeated," she said.

ANOTHER MILESTONE was reached two weeks ago when the Supreme Court delcared unconstitutional an Idaho law, which denied the equal protection guaranteed by the 14th Amendment, she said.

An Unusual Method For Divining Future

By BARBARA HOSMER

Patricia Garlan used an unusual method for divining the future at the final lecture last night in the College of Marin series, "Women: Past, Present. Future."

With the help of a panel, she asked each person in the audience to reach within and ask herself what she might be in the process or have hopes of becoming. She asked each to list 10 traits.

FORMER FESTIVAL Theater assistant director, Marjorie Casebier then asked the audience to close their eyes and take a "fantasy" trip back into their childhood, then youth, then middle years and then to think about the changes each had gone through as a person and what she hoped to be.

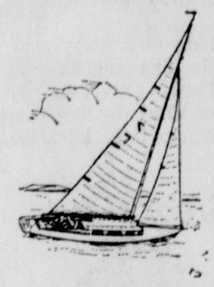
A fantasy film of children playing and becoming what they pretend to be helped to set the audience on its own "fantasy trip." Marin poet and College of Marin teacher Rosalie Moore Brown had read her poem "When I was 13."

After the fantasy experience, former Festival Theater director Elizabeth Berryhill read the now famous "Aren't I a woman?" statement by Sojourner Truth, delivered at a women's rights meeting in 1852.

AND THE AUDIENCE began to discuss themselves and the college's 13 week series on women.

Mrs. Garlan pointed out that the human condition had changed radically in recent decades with the discovery of DNA, rocketry, and atomic power with its ability to destroy the planet and human species.

"We have the ability to break out of a closed system into space, and patterns of growth, maturity and aging will be subject to our own wishes," said Mrs. Garlan, researcher for studies in non-verbal behavior at Langley Porter Clinic in San Francisco.



SERIES COORDINATOR Diane Wickstrom said that her intention for the series was to suggest choices that women could make in their lives, encourage growth through change, and illustrate some alternative life styles open to women.

Mrs. Robert King Is Elected To Direct Novato Hostess Club

She was born in El Paso, Tex., and has been a resident of Marin County for 25 years. She was graduated from Tamalpais High School and attended College of Marin. She and her husband, a Volkswagen parts department manager in San Rafael, have four children. Julie Ann, 16, Robert Jr., 15, Jenie, 8, and Ronald, 6.

Knitting, bowling, golf, arts and crafts and working with children are activities the new president says she enjoys as well as dancing and family get-togethers. She is also active in Camp Fire Girls, serving as a Blue Bird leader.

MRS. ROBERT P. KING
Hostess club president

Mrs. King has served as welfare, sewing and publicity chairman during her four years as a member of the club. She says the purpose of the organization is to promote and encourage good citizenship by taking an active interest in the civic, social and moral welfare of the community. Money from fund raising activities benefit civic projects. Club members recently donated $700 toward the Demonstration Creek Park near the Novato library.

Any resident of Novato is eligible to join the club.

Officers to be installed with Mrs. King on Jan. 20 are Mmes. David Thomson, vice president; Howard Miller, recording secretary; Al Verza, corresponding secretary, and Raymond Szostak, treasurer.

HELEN HELP US!

The Younger Generation's Code Probably One Of The Straightest

DEAR HELEN:

The "Homely Girl" who commented about the previous generation (us oldies) being hung up on the beauty queen syndrome — proms, dates and sex — had better stop and take a good look at our world today.

Now I'll admit we probably had more interest in proms and formal dating back in those days. But sex?

It seems to me that with all the emphasis on free and easy living, near-nudity, the "your place or mine?" philosophy, this new generation is more sex-minded than ever before in history.

How many girls worry about standards and morals any more? (The boys never did, as I remember.) The way they wear their clothes, talk, hitchhike, openly sashay up to boys, they make their invitations very clear. — M.S.

DEAR M.:

"Homely Girl" said the younger generation is "no longer hung up on sex" and she's right. A "hang up" implies worry, indecision, obsession, secrecy. Today's youth doesn't consider sex that important. Sure, they indulge (what generation hasn't?), but for the "now crowd" it's a matter of personal choice. They don't feel compelled either way, and they don't condemn their peers, whichever way they choose. Nor do they try to hide their relationships.

You might be surprised to learn that some of the girls who appear most available, judging from an elder's view of clothes, "sashaying," talk, — even communal weekending — etc. are the straightest — and the boys know it and don't push.

If you don't believe me, ask a teen-ager — or observe which group largely keeps the "adult" book stores and X-rated movies in business: The hung-up middle-agers! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I applied at a local store for work. Because I was desperate, I filled out the boss's sex questionnaire the way I knew he wanted it. You see, it's all over town that he asks girls very personal questions in a supposedly psychological test and, if they indicate they're willing and eager, they're hired. Girls who don't go for extra or premarital sex get passed over. That's why there are usually job openings there.

Well, he hired me. I work in women's lingerie. So far (in two months) the boss has only stopped by once, and he hasn't asked me to his office yet. But I'm scared. What if he makes a pass? I absolutely have to have this job because my husband was laid off and his unemployment money is about used up. We have two small children.

How do I hold him back and stay employed? — WAITING BUT NOT WILLING

DEAR WBNW:

The lech (if he is one) probably won't bother you during Christmas rush — he needs willing workers now more than willing bodies.

After the holidays? Why not wait and see. Perhaps the guy is only curious, or maybe his psychological test isn't as sexy as you and others assume.

But keep your eye out for another job, just in case it is! — H.

time to do what she had always wanted to — study art — and she began taking lessons from Mill Valley artist Marcella Winer.

Though she painted other subjects, cats and art came together when she did the portrait in pastels of Walter, Mike and Fritz, her pets for many years.

"That made such a hit," she recalled, "that I got the idea of making the whole orchestra of cats. I loved constructing them and especially their little instruments.

"I had been taking colored slides and studying photography on my own ever since 1938. I had taken pictures mostly of my paintings and other people's, and I thought, why not photograph the cats individually and in groups and make a book of them with a funny little jingle under each one."

The book has not yet materialized, but the musician-artist-photographer-cat fancier has about 75 of these slides.

"MAKING THE cats and the pictures is my game, not showing them," she said, "but I have shown the slides in programs for my friends and for people in retirement homes."

Seen through a little viewer, the cats looked three dimensional through lighting tricks and a technique she developed of taking two different pictures of the same group from a slightly different angle and combining them into one image.

Adding to their fascination is the sense of humor, typical of their creator, seen in the jingle under each.

Under a cat playing a French horn, "Yorick Yoiks was an excellent tooter till he cleaned out his horn with a rotorooter."

The Indigo Prints

Indigo prints are replacing the popularity of madras for spring and summer, reports Women's Wear Daily. The basic colors are yellow, white and navy blue printed on English cotton work cloth, and are often sent to Africa for use in dashikis and turbans. Now the prints are being seen in Western wear.

SMART SHOPPER

Indictment Could Aid Magazine Sales

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Last week's indictment of the Hearst Corp. and allied firms on 25 counts of mail fraud may be the final nail in the coffin of a once-thriving practice of selling magazines on monthly payment plans known as PDS (for Paid During Service).

Hearst is the last of the large nationwide companies to remain in the PDS business despite complaints filed a year ago by the Federal Trade Commission and other agencies of the federal government.

Hearst is also the first of such firms to be indicted for such operations. Cowles Communications, which formerly published Look magazine, got out of the PDS business after being fined $50,000 and enjoined from continuing certain practices last year in another mail fraud case.

Technically, Cowles was not indicted, but it was subjected to a "criminal information" which is similar to an indictment. The Justice Department settled the case before the grand jury had completed its probe.

TWO OTHER PDS operators, Time, Inc., and Perfect Film and Chemical Corp., one-time publisher of the Saturday Evening Post, have signed consent orders with the FTC in which they agree to stop using deceptive and unfair means to sell magazine subscriptions without admitting any guilt.

Almost all of the PDS business, estimated to total over $100 million a year, was done by these four companies and their subsidiaries with such names as Keystone Readers' Service, Ben Franklin Reading Club and Firestone Readers' Service, all of Perfect Film.

All of the sales operations were similar. A telephone caller would say she was conducting a survey and that in return for answering a few questions, the listener would be eligible to receive a free gift, either a reference book or magazine subscription.

Customers would be told they could get up to five magazines for five years free except for the cost of "postage." In fact, the cost equaled the full subscription price, which was spread over a two or three-year period of monthly payments.

When customers complained and stopped payment, they were often subjected to long-distance calls threatening legal action. In some cases, employers were also called.

IN THE Hearst case, the indictment charges that subscribers were enticed through bogus sweepstakes and "surveys" to sign up for "free" magazines, then billed and sent a book of coupons to be sent in with payments.

According to the indictment, each book of coupons contained at least one extra coupon, sometimes as many as six extra ones, beyond the number called for by the contract.

When customers noticed the extra coupon, says the indictment, they were told to forget it, but the company took no action to refund the money of other subscribers who did not notice the extra coupon.

INDICTED ALONG with the Hearst Corp. by the grand jury in Baltimore were International Magazine Service of Mid-Atlantic, Inc., and three officers of the firm, plus Periodical Publishers Service, Inc. Periodical is a subsidiary of Hearst; International is a franchise of Periodical.

The legal action climaxes a two-year crusade by Rep. Fred Rooney, D-Pa., against PDS selling schemes. His original complaint to the Federal Trade Commission two years ago was against Hearst.

Even Doubleknit Furs Making The Scene

NEW YORK (UPI) —This is the year of the doubleknit for men. There are doubleknit pants, doubleknit coats, doubleknit suits. And now for people who oppose the killing of wild animals for their pelts there are doubleknit furs.

As it works out, there are still a lot of real furs around, too, and Albert Gompertz says people who intend to wear fur and are ready to spend that kind of money will not hesitate. Besides, he said, "we are not handling any endangered species."

Gompertz, 50, a textile engineer turned fur expert, works with his brother John, 47, who is the "Mr. John" of Fur and Sports. John Gompertz, in the fur business all his life, now is consultant to a big textile firm which wants its fake furs to look real.

"There is what seems to be a growing opposition in the management of some publications and the management of some department stores to real furs, and we thought it might hurt the industry," Albert Gompertz said. "Instead we just added the fake furs —I like to call them 'fib furs' onto the old line, and doubled our business."

GOMPETZ CALLS the new fake fur line "The Other Dimension" and said "instead of letting someone else knock us off (copy the designs) we decided to knock ourselves off so many of Mr. Fred's designs turn up in our fake, or fib fur line."

"We still make a lot of furs too," he said. "A muskrat is a rodent and when you make a muskrat coat it is sort of like pest control for flies, mosquitoes and rodents. But then there is also a general economic factor, especially in the men's line. Men are liberating themselves and spending more money on fur coats.

"RATHER THAN make actual fake furs to imitate the real fur we also decided to give them some status. So we decided men could wear pile fabrics whether it looks like real fur or not.

"I think the fake furs should be sold right alongside the real furs and maybe this will avoid controversy. Then if somebody has a hangup about blood on my hands from an animal you can ask: 'How about polluting the rivers with polyesters'?

JACKIE ONASSIS APPEARS

Stitchery Exhibit At The Tamalpais

An exhibit of stitchery by Gertrude Sanford and Mrs. Ronald Alexander MacMillan of San Rafael is on display in the gallery of the Tamalpais Retirement Residence in Greenbrae.

Miss Sanford is a Tamalpais resident, as is Mrs. Mac Millan's mother, Dorothy McCone.

Tree-Trimming Party Slated

Residents of the Tamalpais Retirement Residence are having a Christmas-tree trimming party Dec. 14 at 2:30 p.m.

A tea to welcome new residents will follow the tree decorating.

Begin Day Right

One is less likely to overeat at lunch if they've eaten an adequate breakfast, says Dairy Council of California nutrition consultants. Studies have indicated that weight reduction is easier to manage when the day is started with a morning meal.

$100,000 Allocated For Scholarships

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — California State Parent-Teacher Association has announced that $100,000 has been allocated for the complete P-TA scholarship program for the academic year, June 1, 1972, through May 31, 1973.

Allocations are for 89 elementary teacher education scholarships at $500 for a total of $44,500; 65 secondary teacher education at $500 for $32,500; 15 special education at $500 for $7,500; nine school librarian at $500 for $4,500; 25 counseling and guidance at $200 for $5,000; 38 nursing at $100 for $3,800; four youth corrections at $500 for $2,000; and one rural Indian health pilot project at $200.

Student loans have first call on the fund, with $227,000 having been allocated for loans for this school year.

CURRENT ALLOCATIONS represent an increase over last year for student loans, secondary teacher education, youth corrections and special education scholarships and a decrease for elementary teacher education and counseling and guidance scholarships. Support for the fund is derived from presentation of Honorary Service and Continuing Service Awards, augmented by student loan repayments, interest on student loan funds invested in bonds and gifts.

Application forms for student loans are available from the P-TA State Office in Los Angeles and are considered by the student loan committee at its bimonthly meetings. Purpose of the loans, which are interest free and require no co-signer, is to assist worthy high school graduates to continue their education.

Colleges and universities select and screen the scholarship recipients and disburse the funds.

THE CALIFORNIA P-TA allocates funds only to schools accredited by the State Board of Education and the Western Association of Schools and Colleges. Each scholarship recipient assumes an obligation following graduation to teach for one year in the public schools of California or to serve for one year in California in his specialized field.

Forms for youth corrections scholarships may be obtained from the P-TA State Office or the general manager of the California Probation, Parole and Correctional Association, 1220 H Street, Sacramento 95814, with March 31 the deadline for return of applications. Scholarships are granted for upper-division or graduate work, and applicants must be employed in the youth corrections system in California.

New Uniform Is Available

The first pantsuit for adult leaders of the Girl Scouts is available.

To keep pace with the activities of today's leaders, the organization had an easy-care, easy-wear pantsuit uniform created to facilitate action and upkeep. The pants and tunic top are of polyester double knit.

The Girl Scout organization recognized the need for suitable attire for this new young leader, and, answering the pleas from adult members for more comfortable and covered-up uniforms, have arrived in the nick of time with their new pantsuit. It's the new look for the active Girl Scout woman of the 70s.

New Way To Monitor Ill Infants

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) —Telemetry, used to radio data from space ships to Earth, has been instituted at University of Minnesota hospitals to monitor seriously ill infants.

Dr. Arnold Leonard, chief of pediatric surgery, told Gov. Wendell Anderson Monday that the hospital is the first in the nation to use telemetry and a computer together.

In the space program, telemetry is used to radio all kinds of data from a space ship to Earth, including medical data.

At university hospitals the new method, in use for about a week, means that the infants and their incubators no longer need be hooked up to wires. Instead, a cigarette pack-size radio transmitter lies beside each infant inside the incubator. It transmits such data as heart waves, respiration and blood pressure to monitoring units of the computer.

The Consumer Being Cheated

Approximately 87 per cent of items tested by the New York City Consumer Affairs Commission have been found short-weighted, short-counted or short-measured, according to commissioner Bess Myerson.

Examples are a bag of potatoes marked "10 pounds" actually weighing 8 lbs., 7 oz.; a capon turkey that was 5 ozs. short; a box of toothpicks that had 411 toothpicks but listed its contents as 750.

Miss Myerson stresses that these are not isolated incidents. A weights and measures expert says United States consumers lose between $6 million and $12 million a year due to short weighting.

Making A Return

Raggedy Ann returns this season as a favorite of children of all ages. She and Andy have become teachers of sorts. A 19-inch Ann or Andy doll has buttons to button, zippers to zip, and snaps, laces and buckles galore. The aim: Teach the child playing with the doll how to dress.

Warriors' Tailspin Continues

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —Maybe, the Golden State Warriors are thinking, it's not a good idea to beat the Milwaukee Bucks.

After the Warriors defeated the Bucks on Nov. 20, they lost three in a row. Golden State also upset Milwaukee on its home floor Nov. 30 and since then have dropped four in a row, the Warriors longest tailspin of the season.

Latest humiliation was a 116-113 loss to the lowly Atlanta Hawks on regional television out of San Diego Tuesday night.

Lou Hudson scored 30 points and Pete Maravich added a season-high of 26 as the Hawks came from behind to beat the Warriors for the second time this season.

Hudson's 11 points in the third quarter helped erase a 60-55 Warriors lead at intermission. Maravich couldn't miss in the fourth period to keep Atlanta rolling to its third straight victory.

Cazzie Russell tallied 33 points to pace the Warriors.

The Warriors will try to regroup in time to halt the 17-game win streak of the Los Angeles Lakers at the Oakland Coliseum-Arena Thursday night.

Marin Cagers Hike Win Streak To Six

Tars Whip Cosumnes J.C., 72-62

The College of Marin basketball Tars, weary and cold in the first half, played up to their reputation after intermission and defeated Cosumnes River Junior College last night in Sacramento, 72-62.

The Tars trailed at the half, 34-28, but went on a 16-4 streak immediately after the second-half tipoff and resisted a full-court press by the hosts late in the game. The victory gave them a 6-0 record.

"We were still very tired, with this bus trip to Sacramento after a long bus ride to Reno," said Tars coach John Panagakis. "We rotated 10 men in and out, but their press still got to us near the end."

Marin shot a dismal 33 per cent in the first half, hitting nine of 27, but got good shots in the second half and made 15 of 24. "We were able to get the ball inside," said Panagakis. Roosevelt Green, the center, scored 12 points after intermission and finished with 17.

Joe DeMaestri, former Novato High star, added 18 points, 12 in the second half, Ed Herrnberger chipped in with 13. All told, the Tars shot 48 per cent on 24 for 51.

"We went out and played defense in the second half," said Panagakis. "We had been alternating zone and man-on-man defenses in the first half, but we went to a straight man-on-man after the half."

College of Marin	28	44—72
Cosumnes River	34	28—62

College of Marin — Casteel 3-1-7, Herrnberger 4-5-13, Green 7-5-19, Smith 3-3-9, DeMaestri 6-6-18, Groshong 1-2-4, Small 0-2-2. Totals: 24-24-72.

Cosumnes River — McDonald 0-2-2, Williams 5-2-12, Blake 7-1-15, Boxley 5-7-17, Roper 1-0-2, Slater 0-1, Myers 0-1-1, Houston 1-2-4, Pflugrath 3-2-8. Totals: 22-18-62.

Tomales Trounces El Molino, 65-57

Tomales High School, getting 56 of its 65 points from three men, defeated El Molino yesterday in Forestville, 65-57.

Bill Zimmerman scored 21, Bruce Pickering 18 and Bob Kehoe 17 for Tomales, now 3-0 with the Cloverdale Tournament coming up tomorrow.

STARTS TOMORROW

Mariners Host Cage Tourney

College of Marin will be trying to win its own tournament for the third time in a row starting tomorrow in Kentfield.

The Marin Tars, winners of all six of their games thus far in the season, won the Marin Invitational Tournament the past two years and must be considered one of the favorites to win the sixth annual tourney.

Tomorrow's opening round schedule: Santa Rosa vs. Sierra of Rocklin at 3 p.m.; Solano of Suisun vs. Napa at 5 p.m.; Marin vs. Yuba at 7 o'clock, and Reedley vs. Ohlone of Newark, 9 o'clock.

Marin has two Camino Norte Conference mates in the tourney in Solano (2-3 record) and Santa Rosa (0-4). There are three Golden Valley Conference teams, Sierra (0-3), Napa (3-1), and Yuba (3-1). Reedley (3-3) comes from the Central Conference and Ohlone (0-4) from the Coast Conference.

Losers of the opening round games play Friday at 3 and 5 p.m., and the winners at 7 and 9 p.m. Consolation games and third place games are Saturday, 5 and 7 p.m., with the championship game scheduled for 9 o'clock.

American River Junior College of Sacramento won the first tournament in 1966 and repeated in 1968. In between, Sierra won.

Cost for the tournament is $1.50 for each night, 50 cents for children.

Bobby Winkles Added To Angels' Staff

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Bobby Winkles, Arizona State University baseball coach, was hired today by the California Angels to act as assistant to new manager Del Rice.

Winkles, 41, has been head coach at the Tempe School for 13 years and produced NCAA championship teams in 1965, 1967 and 1969.

He said his 10-year friendship with Rice prompted him to take the job as a coach with the Angels.

Hiring of Rice and Winkles is part of a reorganization job undertaken by Harry Dalton, the new general manager of the Angels. Rice won the Pacific Coast League Pennant with Salt Lake City, an Angel farm club in 1971.

The announcement came Tuesday that Rice had accepted a one-year contract with the Angels as their general field manager.

"This is the greatest Christmas present I've ever had," Rice said. "It's great to be back in the major league. It's always been my ambition to manage in the major leagues— it's what I've been working for all my life."

The 49-year-old Rice has been in baseball for 27 years and spent 17 years with five clubs as a major league catcher.

Dalton, who was brought here from Baltimore in October to give the Angels a transfusion, said "Del fits our needs completely."

"He is a firm knowledgeable leader," said Dalton. "His record as a manager is excellent. In four years in that capacity, he's sent nine players to the majors with a possibility of four or five more next spring."

Rice spent 10 of his 17 years as a catcher with the St. Louis Cardinals, then played for the Milwaukee Braves, the Chicago Cubs and Baltimore Orioles before coming to the Angels as a player and coach.

Cable Car Time For Boro, Piro

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Two very fine basketball players who got their prep schooling of the game from Redwood High School coach Dick Hart will be cavorting on the San Francisco Civic Auditorium court this weekend in the fifth annual Cable Car Classic.

John Boro is a guard on the University of San Francisco team and Jerry Piro is a guard on the University of Santa Clara team. Both are sophomores, both are good, and they played together for championship teams at Redwood.

They are not matched against each other in the opening round Friday, but depending on the outcome of the openers, it is possible they'll clash Saturday night. According to their coaches, they should see some action in the tournament.

Said USF coach Bob Gaillard about Boro: "He is alternating between third and fourth guard. He has an excellent outside shot and a great attitude. I know he's a tremendous asset to the team."

Said Santa Clara coach Cal Williams about Piro: "He's going to play. He's improving all the time and is a tough competitor. He's a real credit to Redwood High School and a tribute to their basketball program. His biggest problem is learning to adjust to varsity play and to quicker players. Right now he's the third or fourth guard, and he could possibly be a starter by mid-season."

USF and University of California start the tournament Friday at 7 p.m., followed by the Santa Clara-South Carolina game at 9 o'clock. Friday's winners meet at 9 p.m. Saturday for the championship and the losers vie in a 7 o'clock consolation game.

If you are in need of tickets, Allan B. Murray still has some available at GTS Travel, 1435 Fourth Street, San Rafael, at a cost of $6 one night, $10 for both.

REG CAROLAN of Novato was one of the happy fans Monday night at Candlestick Park when Kansas City whipped the 49ers, 26-17. Reg, a tight end for the Chiefs before retiring a year ago, said hello to a lot of his old friends at the Chiefs' S.F. headquarters at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, and then went to the game. Carolan is now a salesman for Xerox Corp. His official title is nifty — "Facsimile Products Specialist." Reg, wife Judy and two children live in San Marin.

THAT TALL fellow with a basketball under his arm seen around Mill Valley every so often is Wilt Chamberlain. The Los Angeles Lakers' superstar usually stays at the home of a friend, James Bryan of Mill Valley, when he's in the Bay Area. Wilt is also an avid water skier and just might help promote the California International Cup next September. The water ski event is tentatively scheduled for Bahia development, near Novato.

SAID 49ER PRESIDENT Lou Spadia about Monday night's wild time on the field by teenagers at the end of the game: "This was the first such incident at Candlestick. I wouldn't like to see it happen again and I don't expect it to. We must have better crowd control."

I hope they don't have to put up a wire fence around the field as they were forced to do at Kezar Stadium because of this same problem.

49ers 4-Point Choices

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Norm Van Brocklin comes to San Francisco with a 10-3-1 record over the 49ers.

His team, the Atlanta Falcons, are 6-5-1 in the NFL West including a 20-17 win over the 49ers in the season opener. Van Brocklin hopes season-closing victories over San Francisco and New Orleans will land the Falcons in the playoffs.

The 49ers have been picked as four-point choices, according to odds posted out of New York.

Van Brocklin piled up that 10-31 mark against the 49ers while coaching at Minnesota and Atlanta. He keeps telling his team that if they outmuscle and outhustle the 49ers, victory will always be theirs.

Despite their problems with police at a private party Monday night, both quarterback Bob Berry and defensive end Randy Marshall are expected to play this weekend. Berry tops NFC quarterbacks in percentage of completions (61.9) and yards per attempt (9.41).

Coach Dick Nolan of the 49ers will still have a depleted secondary against the Falcons. However, safety Mel Phillips saw spot action against the Chiefs with his sore ankle which may get better by Sunday.

No More Tomorrows For Raiders

OAKLAND (UPI) —The lame and the cripple will trot onto the field for the Oakland Raiders in Sunday's AFC West showdown at Kansas City.

Defensive tackle Carleton Oats and linebacker Gus Otto will probably be activated for the game. Oats has missed two games with a knee injury while Otto has played little in the past month.

Madden said he didn't learn much from watching the Chiefs race to a 16-10 halftime lead over San Francisco at a local television studio. So he left to study game movies of the Chiefs.

"From what I saw, the Chiefs were effective putting both wide receivers on one side and the tight end on the other, then passing to one side and running behind the tight end," said Madden.

"But it still all boils down to Sunday."

Showdown Sunday In K.C.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — There seems to always be an Oakland-Kansas City showdown. And there will be again in 1971.

This was assured Sunday when Oakland fell to Atlanta, allowing its record to plummet to 7-3-2. Kansas City moved a half-game ahead of the Raiders at 8-3-1 Monday night with a victory over San Francisco.

But the Chiefs' lead will mean nothing Sunday. The only way they can make it work to their advantage is by tying the Raiders.

Since 1965, when San Diego won the last of three straight Western Division titles, Oakland has won four straight since the Chiefs were victorious in 1966.

The Raiders' divisional title in 1969 was tarnished, though, because the second-place Chiefs qualified for the playoffs, beat Oakland, 17-7, and won the Super Bowl over Minnesota.

Oakland rallied to tie Kansas City, 20-20, Oct. 31, but Coach John Madden will have reason to question his strategy in that one if the two teams tie again Sunday.

The Raiders drove to the Chiefs' six-inch line in the waning moments and Madden settled for a George Blanda field goal on fourth down. Had he tried for the touchdown and failed, there still was enough time left to regain possession in field-goal range.

But Madden took the field goal and many of the Chiefs felt he did them a favor by going for the tie.

A Chiefs' victory, because of the half-game lead, will clinch the divisional crown. An Oakland victory simply will mean the Raiders also must whip Denver Dec. 19 in Oakland. The Chiefs close against Buffalo in Kansas City.

"We've talked all season long about doing it ourselves," Kansas City Coach Hank Stram says. "And it really is within our grasp now. So that's our concern—what we do with the opportunity we have. We'll concentrate our energy on what we have to do, what must be done."

Since 1966, Kansas City has won only three of 13 games with Oakland. Two have ended in ties.

Game time for Sunday's nationally-televised event is 3:05 p.m. (CST).

THANKSGIVING DAY RECORD TV AUDIENCE

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Thanksgiving Day game between Nebraska and Oklahoma drew the largest television audience ever for a regular season college football contest, it was reported Wednesday.

The game, televised by ABC, averaged 13.6 million homes per minute, according to the Nielsen TV index ratings. This bettered the 13.3 million average reached by Notre Dame-Southern California in 1970.

The Los Angeles-Dallas pro football game, which was on opposite the Nebraska-Oklahoma game, had an 11.5 rating and was seen in 7.1 million homes but the Detroit-Kansas City game, seen on NBC starting at noon Thanksgiving, received a 22.5 national Nielsen rating and was watched in 13.9 million homes.

Berry Back To Practice In Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI)—Quarterback Bob Berry and defensive end Randy Marshall returned to the practice field Monday but the Atlanta Falcons refused to say whether they had been disciplined for involvement in an off-field party which led to their arrest.

Club owner Rankin M. Smith called the incident "unfortunate" but said police informed him neither Berry nor Marshall were involved "in the use or possession of drugs."

Smith also said it was a club policy that "we do not make public announcements regarding internal disciplinary action."

Both men were arrested Monday night following a raid on Marshall's suburban apartment after an informant reported a "pot party." A court hearing has been set for Dec. 23.

Angela Carol Nichols, 20, was also arrested at the party and charged with possession of marijuana, pills and a device suspected of being used to smoke marijuana.

Police charged Marshall, a reserve lineman, with running a disorderly house, and Berry, the Falcons' starting quarterback, with slugging a policeman.

A spokesman for the National Football League said in New York Commissioner Pete Rozelle's office had received news accounts of the incident but "we haven't ascertained all the facts. In these matters, each case is decided on its individual circumstances."

$1 Million Settlement For Warriors

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Three owners of the old Oakland Oaks basketball team, including singer Pat Boone, agreed Tuesday to a $1 million settlement with the owner of the Golden State Warriors, ending a court battle over basketball star Rick Barry.

The court fight began after the 1966-67 season when Barry, now of the New York Nets, left the former San Francisco Warriors of the National Basketball Association for the Oaks of the ABA.

Boone, and associates, S. Kenneth Davidson and William Hale agreed to pay Lemat Corp., owner of the Warriors, the $1 million as settlement of a $4.5 million suit. It accused the Oaks ownership of inducing Barry to leave the Warriors in violation of his $30,000-a-year contract.

Boone's attorney, Louis Meisinger, said that while the judgment was fixed at $1 million, a document not filed with the court provides for actual payments over a period of 10 years of "substantially less" than $356,000, the amount claimed as lost receipts for Barry's services by the Warriors.

Since the suit was filed, the Oaks moved to Washington and later to Virginia, where they are now called the Squires.

NBA ROUNDUP

Impressive Win For The Celtics

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Former Celtics Bill Russell and Tom Heinshohn are suitably impressed by the present brand of Boston talent.

They cite three reasons why the current Celts should win the Atlantic Division title in the National Basketball Association this season:

—The 105-97 victory over New York Tuesday night that snapped the Knicks' eight-game winning streak against Boston.

—The maturing of 1970-71 co-rookie of the year Dave Cowens into an all-round center.

—The 10-2 start by Boston this season and the ability to win a vital decision Tuesday that meant a two-game lead over New York.

"Cowens is a strong center, a good team player and tough on defense," said Russell, who won considerable renown as an NBA All-Star center with Boston.

Cowens controlled the boards in the first half as Boston overcame poor shooting to trail New York 52-51, at intermission.

The Knicks, hitting only on one of their first 15 shots, exhibited one of their frequent cold spells this season as they failed to score for 4:14 of the third period while Boston ran off 10 straight points. Boston led 69-55 midway through the quarter by running off an 18-3 spurt as Jo Jo White and John Havlicek zeroed in on target. White finished with 26 points and White netted 25.

"All teams are sky-high when they play us," said Heinsohn, the Boston coach. "The old Celtics were twice as tough, but we're achieving recognition. Everybody worked their butt off tonight to beat the Knicks."

Havlicek said the team "had good communication" as the Celtics grabbed the rebounds, brought the ball up fast and put pressure on the New York defense.

In other NBA action, Milwaukee routed Seattle 116-83, Chicago ripped Cleveland 115-99, Portland surprised Detroit 131-130 in overtime, Buffalo riddled Cincinnati 115-91 and Atlanta defeated Golden State 116-113.

Milwaukee let Seattle close to 39-37 with 3:46 left in the first half and then ran off a 12-1 spurt to put the game out of reach. Kareem Jabbar paced the Bucks with 29 points and Bob Dandridge had 28. Don Smith led the Sonics with 21. John Block of Milwaukee and Dick Snyder of Seattle were ejected in the fourth quarter for fighting.

Chicago remained 4 1-2 games back of Milwaukee in the Central Division with a fourth quarter rally that beat Cleveland. The Bulls held the Cavs to 13 points in the final period while scoring 30. Bob Love hit for 16 field goals en-route to a 40-point night for Chicago. The Cavs, playing without injured Austin Carr, were led by John Johnson's 25 points.

Stan McKenzie scored six of Portland's 15 points in overtime as the Trail Blazers won their first road game in 12 attempts. Jimmy Walker rallied Detroit in the fourth quarter by scoring 19 of the club's last 21 points in regulation time. He finished with 40. Geoff Petrie, the other co-rookie of 1971, scored 36 for Portland.

Rookie Fred Hilton accounted for 26 points as Buffalo clobbered Cincinnati. The Braves scored 12 straight points in a surge that started with four minutes remaining in the third period and carried them a 69-64 deficit to a 76-64 lead. Nate Archibald netted 21 for the Royals, who dropped their fourth consecutive game.

Lou Hudson scored 30 points and Pete Maravich added 26 as the Hawks beat Golden State. Maravich, who accounted for his season high point-production, kept the Hawks alive in the final period after Hudson's shooting had put Atlanta into the lead in the third qyarter. Cazzie Russell led the Warriors with 33 points but it wasn't enough to prevent their fourth consecutive defeat.

Coliseum Just Like Home With Beer, Instant Replays

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LOS ANGELES — Sports fans attending the Coliseum will be able to buy beer for the first time Monday night. And in less than a year instant replay pictures will be flashed on a new $1.6 million scoreboard.

The Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum Commission yesterday awarded the scoreboard contract to the Federal Sign and Signal Corp., and American Airlines.

The two co-sponsoring firms will construct the scoreboard — capable of instant replay transmission on the first exhibition game in August, 1972. American Airlines will also have advertising privileges for the sign.

In a separate action, the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board granted a beer-selling license to stadium concessions, ending 48 years of prohibition at the Coliseum.

Under terms of the license, groups using stadium facilities have the option of selling beer. The Rams will allow the sale Monday night at their game with the Redskins, but UCLA and the University of Southern California have not yet made a decision about beer sales.

Harness Racing

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Albatross, the unwanted yearling who went on to earn more in a single season and race faster than any standardbred in history, was named harness horse of the year for 1971.

Albatross ran away with the balloting done by the U.S. Harness Writers Association and announced by the U.S. Trotting Association Monday.

The 3-year-old pacer received 141 of the 191 votes cast. Steady Star was second with 34 votes and Fresh Yankee, the 1970 champion, was third with eight..

NEW ORLEANS — The New Orleans Saints said yesterday wide receiver Al Do dd had a torn cartilage in his left knee and would be out the rest of the season.

NEW YORK — New York City's Board of Estimate approved a $225,000 engineering study as the first step toward keeping the Yankees in New York by buying and renovating 43-year-old Yankee Stadium.

LOS ANGELES — A building holding records and trophies of the Helms Hall of Fame was flooded yesterday when a water main burst. Mementoes such as the bat which Babe Ruth used to hit his 60th home run were spared.

A foundation spokesman said damage was isolated to magazines, souvenir sports programs and memorabilia saved from the 1932 Los Angeles Olympic Games.

IN RICHMOND, VA.

Russ-U.S. Indoor Track

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The first dual indoor track and field meet between the United States and the Soviet Union will be held March 17 in the Richmond Coliseum, the Amateur Athletic Unioin (AAU) announced today.

Ollan Cassell, assistant executive director of the AAU and a former Olympic gold medal winner, and Gov. Linwood Holton made the announcement jointly at a news conference at the state capitol.

"We are most pleased that the state of Virginia has been chosen the site of the world's first indoor track meet between athletes of Russia and the United States," Holton said.

Cassell, who won a gold medal in the 1600 meter relays in the 1964 Olympics at Tokyo, said there is a long history of competition between the U.S. and the Soviet Union in outdoor track, but that this marks the first time they will meet indoors.

He called the coliseum, which opened last August and which will seat 9,176 for the one-day event, an "excellent facility" for indoor track.

The decision to hold the meet in Richmond was due in part to the fact "the AAU feels amateur track and field should be provided in other areas than New York City, Los Angeles and San Francisco," said Cassell.

He said the 54,000 persons who turned out for the Pan Africa-USA international track meet at Durham, N.C., last summer—the largest attendance for an amateur track meet in the U.S. in 17 years— was proof of public interest in track in the South.

ABA ROUNDUP

Scott Hot, But Squires Still Lose

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Charley Scott can't win it all alone.

Scott scored 17 points in the fourth quarter Tuesday night, but his flurry fell far short as Dallas defeated the Virginia Squires, 113-103. Still, Scott scared the Chaps with his scoring spurt that carried Virginia to within four points with four minutes to go.

The loss dropped the Squires 2 1-2 games back of Kentucky in the American Basketball Association's East Division. Dallas, led by Donnie Freeman's 26 points, moved within a half-game of third place Memphis in the West Division.

Roger Brown's trio of three-point baskets, enroute to a 22-point night, paced Indiana to a 119-114 victory over the New York Nets. Rick Barry scored 44 points for New York, including 25 in the first half, as the Nets fell to fifth place in the East.

Pittsburgh took over fourth place by beating the Carolina Cougars, 122-102. John Brisker tallied a game-high 29 points and grabbed 19 rebounds for the Condors, who snapped a three-game losing streak.

Warren Jaball's two free throws with four seconds left lifted the Floridians to a 107-105 victory over the Denver Rockets. Jaball scored the Floridians' last nine points and was high for the team with 19 points.

San Rafael Takes Lead In Water Polo

San Rafael High School struggled past Tamalpais in a foul-studded water polo game yesterday, 7-5, to take over first place in the Marin County Athletic League from idle Terra Linda.

Redwood broke a two-game losing streak and clobbered Novato, 18-7, while San Marin drubbed Drake, 13-4.

Redwood, smarting from earlier losses to San Rafael and Terra Linda, kept alive in the race by thrashing Novato. Dave Drake scored nine goals and John Goepp and Tom Chindler four each. "Ken MacDonald, a forward, did a great job on defense for us," said coach Dan Abballo.

San Marin, beginning to develop title aspirations after its recent upset of Terra Linda, used a tight defense to stop Drake. The losing Pirates had only 10 shots on goal from the field, and made just one.

Jay Woods scored six goals and Brad Leathers three for San Marin.

In junior varsity action, Redwood ran its record to 4-0 by defeating Novato, 8-3; San Rafael beat Tamalpais, 8-1; and San Marin topped Drake, 3-0.

Friday's schedule finds Tam at Redwood, Drake at Terra Linda and San Marin at Novato. San Rafael draws the bye.

The standings:

Terra Linda Grapplers Fall; Munson Stars

Ron Losk (191) and Tom Bennett (145) both pinned their foes in the second period. Keith Rautio (138) and Brian Jordan (175) both won lopsided decisions, Rautio by 9-4 and Jordan by 9-2.

McGinnis' 12 Help Specialized Quash Quality

Specialized Services, a firm which apparently specializes in putting points on the scoreboard, defeated Quality Motorcycle Repair in the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult basketball league yesterday, 50-28.

Stan McGinnis scored 12 points, Terry Thomas 11 and Clem Glynn 10 for Specialized. Hal Clemets was high scorer for Quality with nine.

The All-Catholic All-Stars trounced the Roadrunners, 52-33, behind a 16-point effort by Jim Tupper. Gary Wintennerr added 12 and Bill Shine 10 for the Stars, while Mike French had 12 and Jerry Lonford 10 for the Roadrunners.

Las Gallinas Golf edged Brookline Electric in a defensive struggle, 29-25. The winners had no scorers in double figures, Tito Velasco topping them with nine, while Brookline's Keith Fraser took game honors with 10.

Seals Battling For Title Of 'Best Of Rest'

PITTSBURGH (UPI) —California's Golden Seals are in the thick of the battle in the Runner-up League of the NHL West.

Some 17 or 18 points behind are California, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia with no more than one point separating them. Only two of them can make the playoffs.

The Seals will try to improve their position by engaging the Pittsburgh Penguins tonight at the Civic Arena. California has played the Penguins three times this season and won two of them.

Trojan J.V.s Win

RECREATION, TOO

A Swim Program For Everybody

By PAUL CANE

"If you can swim at all, no matter what age you are, we have a place for you in our program," explains Don Swartz, head coach of the Marin Aquatic Club.

The Marin A.C., along with the four other Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) clubs in Marin County, is "taking into account now, more than ever, the recreational needs of the community," according to Swartz.

Rock Morgan, coach of the Novato Aquanaut team agrees. "We try to stress the idea of the recreational aspects of swimming along with the competition." It's a year-round proposition.

The three other local AAU teams, the Hamilton Air Force Base Voodoos, the Tamalpais Swim Club and the Dolphins of Marin do not have as many members as either the Marin A.C. or Novato, but each also offers similar recreational opportunities.

Hamilton coach Beth Musser relates, "We are interested in anybody (who meets the armed service-relation eligibility requirement) even if they are total non-swimmers. Ninety-nine per cent of all swim teams won't take you unless you can swim. But we encourage these people to join and to swim for the love of the sport."

Dave Seaton, in his first year as coach at Tamalpais, explains, "We like to give each individual the opportunity to reach whatever levels he can; we structure our program so that everyone can achieve what he wants," and put in as much effort as he wants.

Art Octavio, instructor of the Dolphins of Marin club says he stresses competition in and out of the water. "We give swimmers a chance to improve as far as their ability goes; our program gears people toward competition in the pool in races and out, like in school."

Morgan says he coaches about 30 youngsters under eight years of age, some of which, "we virtually taught to swim."

He related that he gets "a bigger kick" out of coaching the inexperienced youngsters than his more advanced seniors.

Swartz said he felt the Marin A.C., with a four-phase program, meets the needs of everyone. His novice program ("The only ability needed to join is the ability to swim one struggling lap of a 40-foot pool"), is followed by the oft-publicized age-group and senior programs, where "the creme de la creme" compete in a highly competition-oriented environment, and then finally by the "Masters Program," a set-up where "adults that are overweight, or maybe just want to get in shape, can have a little enjoyment by exercising with others, meanwhile developing the cardio-vascular system."

Mrs. Musser retells the story of one of her recent swimmers, who, after failing a Red Cross swim exam, came to her for help. "Within six months, she could not only swim, she broke five Class A times and took five first places at a Pacific Association swim meet."

All local coaches agree on one thing. Mrs. Musser summed it up when she said, "I get a tremendous amount of self-satisfaction from working and helping these youngsters swim. Young children are an exciting group to work with."

Following is a list of Marin swim clubs:

Sonoma Cagers Try To End The Famine

Two College of Marin products will have roles in Sonoma State's bid for basketball respectability this fall.

After a disasterous record of 25 losses without a win last year, the Cossacks are battling back with several transfers, including Marin's Bob Ward and Darrell Ravani.

Earl pointed out that "Bob gives a good effort all the time." Ward is also lauded for size and strength.

Thus, Ward and Ravani are two reasons why Earl stated: "we should be more competitive this year."

"Ravani was one of our starters two years ago, " Marin Tar coach John Panagakis recalled regarding this good shooting guard-forward.

"He was a real hustler who gives 120 per cent," the Tar mentor said.

He added, "Ward was one of our reserves last year. He played junior varsity for us the year before that. He was one of our real hard workers. He is one of these individuals who grew into maturity. He's a really dedicated kid."

"Dedication" seems to be the Sonoma State basketball hallmark this year, Earl noted. This is ably demonstrated by talented freshman guard Jim DeLaughter from Santa Rosa High School and his rumming mate Paul Holmes, an Orange Coast Junior College transfer. Both Holmes and DeLaughter are hard-driving speedsters.

In the frontcourt, Garfield George, a 6-4 Salinas Junior College star, will open with veteran Henry Crawford, 6-3. Both forwards are considered good leapers and rebounders.

While the quintet of George, Crawford, DeLaughter, Holmes and Ward are slated for starting assignments, Earl warned that his bench should not be overlooked.

Larry Austin and Bucklew are prepared to relive Ward underneath. Austin and Martinson will also help on the wings. Austin, a 6-5 jumping jack, was the Far Western Conference's second leading rebounder last season.

Football Hall Adds 10 Men

NEW YORK (UPI)—The National Football Foundation, ducking the selection of a national college champion for 1971, Tuesday inducted 10 new members, including former coaches Eddie Anderson and Jess Neely of Rice, into its Hall of Fame.

The Foundation, which for the first time in its history postponed naming a national champion until after the post season bowl games, held its annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria before a crowd of 1,500 including Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Also named to the Hall of Fame were Nello Falaschi of Santa Clara, Clarke Hinkle of Bucknell, Glenn Killinger of Penn State, Bill Willis of Ohio State, Ray Matthews of Texas Christian, Dan McMillan of Southern California, Clyde (Smackover) Scott of Navy and Bob Steuber of Missouri.

Prior to the ceremonies, the Foundation announced that it would not name its national champion until the conclusion of the Nebraska-Alabama Orange Bowl game on New Year's night in Miami, Fla.

In introducing the new members of the Hall of Fame, Fred Russell, chairman of the Foundation Honors Board, said, "it is a great honor and privilege to induct these distinguished American football players into the Foundation's Hall of Fame."

Santa Rosa In 'Super Bowl' At Bakersfield

Camino Norte Conference football champion Santa Rosa Junior College faces El Camino of Torrance Saturday, 7:30 p.m., in Bakersfield for the state championship.

This "Junior College Super Bowl" pits Santa Rosa's balanced attack versus the Warriors running. Backs Doug Jena, Dave Darden and Rudy Metoyer bulwark the Torrance team's rushing assault.

BERKELEY (UPI) —More than 150 skaters open three days of competition Thursday in the Pacific Coast Figure Skating championships at Iceland.

Friday night's competition includes the bronze and gold dance, junior men's freestyle and senior ladies freestyle. On Saturday night will be the gold dance final, junior ladies freestyle, senior pairs final and senior men's freestyle.

Yacht Club Elects Ryan

Robert C. Ryan of San Rafael has been elected 1972 commodore of Loch Lomond Yacht Club, to succeed Dr. C. J. Peetz of Corte Madera. Ryan served as vice commodore during 1971.

Also elected to officer posts for the new year were James E. Howard of San Rafael, vice commodore, Henry Serra of San Rafael, rear commodore, Richard J. Naylor, Greenbrae, treasurer; Robert W. Blakeslee, Corte Madera, secretary; Eric Nelson, Novato, port captain; Robert Sitzman, San Rafael, sail fleet captain; Edward Windfeldt, South San Francisco, power fleet captain. Directors will be Dr. Peetz, William Waller of San Rafael and James Dunn of San Francisco.

Nikki Periman Records A 224 At Greenbrae

Nikki Periman rolled a 244 enroute to a 658 series at the Greenbrae Lanes Marin County Women's 600 Club and Junior Association Doubles Tournament Sunday.

Len Lewis and Tony Trowbridge each recorded a 224 in the Junior Division. Pat Douglas had a high series of 662, also in junior play.

Last Second Victory For Marquette

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Marquette isn't quite ready for Coach Al McGuire's humble pie yet.

McGuire wasn't too optimistic about his team's chances this season after coming off a 28-1 record last year, insisting that, "we're going to eat a lot of humble pie this season." But somebody forgot to tell the third-ranked Warriors.

They used a 30-foot desperation jump shot at the final horn by George Frazier and a pair of mistakes by soph Ron Foxworth to defeat Memphis State 74-73 Tuesday night and run their record to 3-0.

The Tigers led 73-70 with just 48 seconds left and Holcomb on the line when Foxworth was called for entering the foul lane too soon. Marcus Washington's jump shot narrowed the gap to 73-72 with 29 seconds left and Foxworth, who probably would just as soon forget the whole night, then missed the first shot in a one-and-one situation to give Marquette its opportunity to win.

Jim Chones led the Marquette attack with 18 points.

In other games involving the top 10 teams, No. 9 Michigan squeaked by Eastern Michigan 89-88, Florida State upset No. 11 Jacksonville 90-83, 13th-ranked St. John's (N.Y.) trounced Georgetown (D.C.) 107-67 and No. 15 Pennsylvania nipped Duke 50-49 in overtime.

COAST BASKETBALL

Another Bad Streak Ends

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

A second losing streak has ended in as many nights of West Coast cage action.

One day after San Jose State snapped a 22-game losing skein, Nevada Reno broke a 12-game loss streak with a 65-63 win over Sacramento State Tuesday. Terry Quinn's three free throws in the last 90 seconds and a 22-point burst by center John Davis decided it.

But San Jose State was back on the losing side as it called on Denver and collapsed 79-66.

Two tough teams took victories Tuesday as Nevada Las Vegas grabbed its first win with a 90-83 win over Northwestern Louisiana. Booker Washington had 28 for the Rebels, who lost their opener at Long Beach State.

Seattle, a new member of the West Coast Athletic Conference, opened its season with a 76-62 win over Seattle Pacific, which had won its first two. Greg Williams led a well-balanced Chief attack with 19.

St. Mary's, another WCAC dark horse, won its third straight with a 74-72 win over San Francisco State, which had won its first two. Earl Brown hit 13 of his 21 points in the second half as the Gaels fought back from a 10-point deficit.

Recent Trade Pays Dividend To Canucks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A recent trade with the New York Rangers paid off big for the Vancouver Canucks.

In the lone National Hockey League game Tuesday night, veteran wing Dave Balon, one of three players Vancouver acquired in the deal, scored the winning goal early in the second period as the Canucks edged the St. Louis Blues 2-1.

It was Balon's eighth goal of the season and third since joining the Canucks last month. He tallied 36 for New York IST SEASON.

The win moved Vancouver to within one point of the fifth-place Detroit Red Wings in the NHL East but the Canucks are still six points back of the fourth and final playoff spot now held by Tornto.

St. Louis missed a chance to break a third-place tie with Pittsburgh in the NHL West.

Center Fred Speck, with his first NHL goal, scored Vancouver's other goal. The only St. Louis goal was scored by Frank St. Marseille and gave the Boues a brief 1-0 lead in the opening period.

The Canucks, who lost defenseman Barry Wilkins late in the game with a shoulder separation, dominated play in the first period and outshot St. Louis 40-27. Wilkins will be out of action for up to seven weeks.

Riordan Tourney Opens Tonight

The Riordan High School basketball tournament opens tonight at the San Francisco school, with Marin County entries Redwood and Tamalpais idle.

Wilson of San Francisco meets South San Francisco at 7 p.m. and host Riordan faces Capuchino of San Bruno at 8:30. Should either Redwood or Tam advance as far as Saturday's finals, one of these four will be its foe.

Tam and Redwood play their respective openers tomorrow.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

Don't Get Married — That Is This Month For A Tax Savings

Don't get married.

If you are planning on marriage in December give a thought to the tax consequences.

It could be that postponement until after Jan. 1 would result in big enough tax savings to pay for the honeymoon.

If you are single, you may not even have to file a tax return. You are required to file only if your income is in excess of the below listed table:

Single individual,	$1,700.
Single individual 65 or over,	2,300.
Married couple, filing jointly,	2,300.
Married couple, one spouse 65 or over,	2,900.
Married couple, both 65 or over,	3,500.
Married person filing separately,	600.

Let's say that each one of you earned $1,724.99 during the year. If you get married in December and file a joint return, you will have to pay a tax of $144.00. On the other hand, if you don't get married until after Jan. 1, 1972, both of you can file as single taxpayers for 1971, and not pay tax. You will save $144.00 for your honeymoon.

NOT STATUTORY

Social security and welfare are not statutory income and are not taken into account in determining whether you are required to file.

Of course, if you were employed and had income tax withheld by your employer you would want to file a return to get a refund.

If you were self-employed and had self-employment income of $400. or more then you must file a return and pay the tax on your self-employment income, even though you are not required to file or pay for income tax purposes.

Also, if you remain single your parents might be able to claim the dependency deduction for each of you.

HALF OF COST

They must have furnished over half the cost of your support for 1971, but you do not have to have lived with them at any time during the year. Your gross income must not have been more than $675 in 1971, unless you were a student for five months or more, or were under nineteen years old on Dec. 31, 1971, in which case the income test does not apply.

If you meet all the tests for dependency, then they should claim you on their tax returns. This will in no way prevent you from also filing your own return (or not filing as above).

Profits Weigh On Blue Chips

NEW YORK (UPI)—Profit taking weighed on the blue chips today, but on balance the market was mixed in fairly active trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which measures movement of 30 selected blue chips, showed a loss of 4.08 at 853.32 near noon. Other major indicators pointdd in both directions, and advances held a slim lead over declines.

General Motors, Du Pont, Eastman Kodak and Jersey Standard surrendered fractions. Many of the steels, including U.S. Steel and Bethlehem, were on the plus side.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most active Amex issues were STP Corp. down 1-4 on 42,400 shares, and Presley Development down 1 1-8 on 32,700 shares.

On the Big Board, Superior Oil rose 7 points, Wrigley 3 3-4, and Walt Disney 1 3-8.

IBM dropped 2 3-4. Stocks down a point or so included Mercantile Stores, Natomas, Standard Oil of California and McDonnell Douglas.

Chemicals were narrowly mixed. So were rails and airlines.

Dividend Declared

NEW YORK (BW) — The board of directors of Loews Corp. today declared a quarterly dividend of 26 cents a share on the common stock, payable Feb. 1 to shareholders of record Jan. 14.

Postponement

HOLLYWOOD (BW) — The board of directors of Capitol Industries Inc. announced today that consideration of the usual semi-annual dividend has been postponed until the Feb. 9 board meeting.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

General Electric Office Moves To Northgate From Milwaukee

A new addition to the growing roster of firms at Northgate Industrial Park is the General Electric Co. western regional headquarters for the company's medical systems services division.

Located at 4300 Redwood Higway in the Margarita Plaza complex, it covers 10 districts which extend over a wide territorial area. It was moved here from Milwaukee, Wis.

The western regional manager, James Magner, who came to Marin from Milwaukee, is now a resident of Paradise Cay. The office is not a large one and is smaller than its district offices which sell and service all medical equipment manufactured by General Electric.

The lease was handled by Dohemann and Co.

THERE IS a new dealer-owner for Marin Dodge, Inc., in San Rafael.

Len Houston, who has taken over this operation, has been a resident of San Jose for the past 10 years, and general manager of All American Pontiac in that city for five years.

Corporate name will remain the same, but the firm is now being called New Marin Dodge.

HOLIDAY SEASON conversation piece on downtown Fourth Street, San Rafael, is the clever artwork of Sharon Simpkins of San Anselmo which adorns not only Chapman's Shoes where she works, but every store front on both sides of Fourth between B and C streets and around the north corner at C Street. If you examine her work carefully you'll find that each art subject is different and has a particular meaning. The area is labeled as the Old Fashioned Gift Block by the merchants there.

THE DEWITT READING CLINIC, INC., which has been in San Rafael since 1950, has purchased property at 62 Middle Rincon Road in Santa Rosa and has moved its clinic opened in that city last year from 2777 Cleveland Avenue. De Witt also has had a clinic in Napa since 1966.

JOHN A. DILLON of Greenbrae, executive vice-president of National BankAmericard, Inc., has been named to the executive committee of the American Bankers Association bank card division.

Dillon

Gregory

NEW MANAGER at the Larkspur Safeway Store is Ralph Gregory of Richmond. He replaces Robert Perry, who has been appointed manager of the new Safeway store scheduled to open in El Cerrito this month. Gregory started his Safeway career in Oakland as a food clerk in 1955. He advanced to store manager in 1960 and since then has managed several stores in Oakland and Richmond.

WALTER J. TAIT of San Rafael, retired manager of training and development for Standard Oil Co. of California, has returned from a six-month assignment with the International Executive Service Corps in Taiwan where he was advisor on the inauguration of a leadership and management training center. He was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Tait.

REAL ESTATE: Dennis R. Molloy of San Rafael and John W. Gamby of Marinwood have joined the residential sales staff of Grubb and Ellis Co. Molloy, at the San Rafael office, formerly was with Acherman and Carrier in Mill Valley. Gamby, previously with William Timmer, Realtor, is at the Terra Linda office.

Bank of Marin

Directors of the Bank of Marin have declared a 25-cent per share dividend to shareholders of record as of the close of business on Dec. 17, 1971, payable Wednesday, Jan. 19, 1972.

Peasant Aid — The Easy Way

NEW YORK (UPI)—"The United States doesn't have to go broke helping the rest of the world if it would only take pains to get its aid down to the peasants," says John L. Peters of Oklahoma City, president of World Neighbors.

World Neighbors is a businessmen's organization that has operated its own foreign aid program since 1958. It spends $1.5 million a year in contrast with the huge sums expended in economic aid abroad by the U.S. government.

Currently, World Neighbors has 121 projects going on in 15,739 villages in 21 countries. It has a staff of 21 in the United States and 1,546 abroad plus some 23,700 local volunteers.

Peters is a former Army chaplain who organized World Neighbors with the aid of a group of businessmen in the Southwest.

Peters is a strong believer in the old maxim —"Give a man a fish and you feed him for one day; teach him to fish and he feeds his family for a-lifetime."

How does World Neighbors go about it?

In Paramaiba in Brazil's desolate northeast, Dona Simplicia Oliveira, who just lost her husband and had a son to raise, had only one asset, a reputation for baking good bread. World Neighbors lent her $85. She built a mud oven and went into business.

John Modede, a Nigerian farmer, lost his arm in his country's civil war and had five children to feed. With a loan of only $4.50 plus some seeds from World Neighbors to buy a net, Modede became a fisherman as well as a farmer.

Lawrence Rwandema, a laborer, got a land grant in the new African state of Ruanda but had no money for seed and knew nothing about how to raise a crop and sell it. World Neighbors loaned him two teaspoons full of onion seed and gave him the necessary advice on how to grow and sell the onions.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. There are 1,400 stocks listed on the Big Board with more added all the time. I should think that duplication of symbols might soon become a problem — after all there are only 26 letters in the alphabet. Would you agree that there are more companies being lsited than in the past? — C.R.

A. Although there are only 26 letters in the alphabet, trading symbols may be made up of either one, two or three letters combined in any pattern. This means that there are 16,276 possible combinations. These, however, must be shared by the exchanges since symbols are not duplicated. Some combinations are avoided because of their connotations. Thus while CAT stands for Caterpillar Tractor and BAT for Bates Mfg., DOG and RAT are conspicuously absent from the ticker tape, although ANT, BUG and FLY are all to be found.

Surprisingly enough the single-letter symbols are not as popular as one might expect, there are still six which have yet to be used: E,H,L,O,Q and V. MR and MRS, Mallory Randall and Morse Shoe respectively, are joined by the Women's Lib-approved female form of address MS, the symbol for McCrory Corp. This same activitist group might have a comment on HER — Helena Rubinstein.

Given names are perennial favorites: PAT, LOU, PEG and SAM to name a few. Recent listings have been more circumspect with initial letters or syllables being favored. However a few humorous acronymns have slipped in including PST for Petrie Stores and MY for Marley Corp.

There has been no noticeable increase recently in new companies accepted by the Big Board. In the most recent 12-month period some 94 new companies qualified to have their common stock listed. In the late 1960s in a comparable 12-month period common shares of 109 companies were considered worthy of the Big Board.

Record Sales Told

ALBANY, Ore. (BW) — REM Metals Corp. has reported record sales and a return to profitable operations for the quarter ended Sept. 30. Sales were $676,579 with a net profit of $16,940, or 3 cents per share.

New Sausalito Shopping Look Is Backed

A long-time dream of a commercial area tailored for residents got a boost last night when the Sausalito City Council tentatively approved a proposal for a new zoning district in the city.

The resident-commercial zone, envisioned for the Caledonia Street area, would include shops and other businesses aimed primarily at serving residents rather than visitors and tourists.

The council directed City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to prepare for consideration at its Dec. 21 meeting an ordinance creating the new zone and to establishing uses in the zone.

Councilmen also agreed to send to the city planning commission a suggestion by Councilman Stephen A. Fraser that the resident-commercial zone be expanded to include the east side of Bridgeway to Humboldt Street in the area from Johnson to Mono streets.

As now envisioned the proposed R-C zone would be bounded by San Carlos Avenue on the south and by Napa Street on the north. It would extend 100 feet west of Caledonia and include the western portion of Bridgeway between San Carlos and Napa.

Fraser said he sought the expansion to "limit the visitor-oriented area of Sausalito" to the downtown commercial district. He said addition of the area east of Bridgeway would also preserve for resident use the city's newly-acquired property in the Humboldt Street area which it purchased with $560 approved by voters last November.

"We pay too much in taxes not to be able to enjoy our waterfront," Fraser said.

Principal uses permitted in the resident-commercial zone would include: banks, bookstores, libraries, business services, cigar stores, furniture stores, garden supply houses, household appliance sales and repair shops, locksmiths, florists and paint and wallpaper stores.

Other principal uses allowed: photography shops and studios, stamp and coin stores, upholstery shops, clock repair operations, beauty and barber shops, pharmacies, tailor and alteration shops, grocery stores, business and professional offices and dwellings located on floors above the ground floor.

On Fraser's recommendation, the council voted to require candy, hobby, shoe and sporting goods stores to obtain condition use permits from the council. Fraser said he sought the limitation because such businesses might become tourist-oriented.

Other conditional uses allowed in the new zone would include schools, churches, meeting halls, mortuaries, pet shops, nurseries, medical and dental laboratories and blueprint and photostat operations.

Certain kinds of restaurants will also be permitted under conditional uses, but those which offer take-out food, serve customers in autos, serve alcoholic beverages or offer entertainment will be excluded from the resident area.

In accordance with suggestions from the city planning commission, Planning Director H. Eric Borgwardt told the council off-street parking requirements for businesses in the area would be determined by parcel size. He said no off-street parking would be required for parcels containing 2,500 square feet of area or less. Those with area up to 7,500 square feet would be required to provide one off-street space for each 750 square feet of commercial floor area.

City Engineer Norman Wohlschlaeger noted that employees and customers from existing Caledonia Street businesses are already parking on nearby residential streets and creating serious parking problems for the people who live there. He suggested the council also require businesses in the zone to provide off-street parking for employees.

The council asked the city staff to prepare a comprehensive study of projected parking needs in the area for presentation and consideration at a future council meeting.

The Sausalito City Council also:

RAILROAD WAY — Asked the city attorney to file an action in Marin Superior Court to acquire a 60-foot wide railroad right-of-way extending from Johnson Street to the north city limits. Railroad service on the right-of-way was abandoned Nov. 24 by the Northwestern Pacific Railroad.

PARKING VARIANCE — Set for Dec. 21 a public hearing on a variance application from Joseph Scoma seeking relief from city off-street parking requirements in order to increase the floor area of Scoma's restaurant by 53 feet and to increase seating capacity by 16.

JAIL — Agreed to demolish the old Marin County Jail on Bee Street and to clear the land — formerly a city corporation yard — for other use.

EXTENSION — Set for its Dec. 21 meeting a public hearing on an appeal of planning commission refusal of a 12-month extension of a conditional use permit to build a 431-unit apartment on the old distillery property by Duffel Financial and Construction Company.

SIDEWALKS — Voted to hire architect Donald K. Olsen to prepare plans for Phase I of the Bridgeway sidewalk widening project which the council approved several months ago as part of its plan to enhance the downtown area.

Sale Relocated

The location for the Terra Linda Junior class bake sale, originally announced for Northgate Two shopping center near the Emporium in San Rafael, has been changed to the Mall of Northgate One, according to Donald Clow, class president. The sale will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Guess who was born today, Dec. 8, and became famous as:

1. A popular new NBC television comedian? In the U.S. Air Force this man's commander laughed at his clever quips, gave him his nickname (meaning quick wit) and had him tour Pacific bases lecturing on "the love life of coconut crabs": (A) Red Buttons; (B) Red Skelton; (C) Flip Wilson.

2. A celebrated Mexican artist? Considered the 20th century's outstanding muralist, this modern artist showed how it was done at the 1939 World's Fair and his work can be seen in San Francisco (Stock Exchange and Fine Arts Building): (A) Benny Bufano; (B) Diego Rivera; (C) Rufino Tamayo.

3. A great Finnish composer? A violin teacher, he received a state annuity in 1897 to concentrate solely on composition and proved his talent by creating seven symphonies and the tone poem "Finlandia": (A) Jean Sibelius; (B) Nils-Eric Ringbom; (C) Erkki Melartin.

4. One of the most honored poets of Rome? Born in 65 B.C., this lover of nature was commissioned by Emperor Augustus to use his talents, whereupon he gave the world everlasting masterpieces in satires, epodes, odes, and epistles: (A) Horace; (B) Vergil; (C) Cicero.

ANSWERS

1 (C) Flip Wilson); 2 (B) (Diego Rivera); 3 (A) (Jean Sibelius); 4 (A) (Horace).

Woman Sentenced In Bad-Check Case

Carol Ann Daenzer, 28, of Corte Madera, has been given 120 days in jail and five years' supervised probation for passing bad checks in Corte Madera in July and August this year.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court sentenced her on two counts of passing bad checks. The judge, however, gave her credit for 107 days already spent in jail.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Even In Bridge, The Cart Can't Go Any Place Without The Horse

If you have to get the car out of the garage, drive to the supermarket and do the family shopping, you have no trouble remembering the correct order of your chores. It's very clear that you can't do the shopping until you've reached the supermarket and that you can't drive to the market until you've taken the car out. There is an equally correct order in your chores at the bridge table, but it may not be as obvious.

RIGHT ATTACK

When today's hand was played, South won the first trick with the king of spades and wondered which of the three other suits to attack first. Since there was no clear indication, he started by leading a low diamond to dummy's king.

South had started well by doing his first chore first, but now he fell on his nose by leading a low club from dummy toward the honors in his own hand. It seemed to South that leading toward the clubs was just as correct as leading toward the diamonds, but East demonstrated the error of this idea by stepping up with the ace of clubs in order to return the queen of spades.

HOLDS UP

South held up the ace of spades but had to part with that card on the next round of the suit. Now South couldn't hope to develop nine tricks without leading another diamond, whereupon West took the ace of diamonds and defeated the contract with the rest of the spades.

It is clear to us, of course, that declarer should lead a heart from dummy after winning his first diamond trick. When the finesse with the queen of hearts succeeds, South leads a diamond to dummy's queen. (West must play low again because it cannot help him to give up his only side entry so early.)

GOES AFTER CLUBS

Now declarer goes after the clubs, leading low from dummy to win with the king in his hand.

He continues with the queen of clubs, dropping the ten. He can then easily develop three club tricks to add to his two tricks in each of the other suits.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - Q 7 4
♥ - K 10 9
♦ - 8 5 2
♣ - A 8 7 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one no-trump. Since this promises balanced distribution and about eight to 10 points in high cards, it is a better description of your hand than a raise to two clubs.

Batik Show

Batik art will be displayed at the San Rafael City Library through December by Gretchen Osborn of San Rafael and Jane Santucci of San Anselmo.

Bureaucratic Impasse: Specialist — Generalist

Publications that pour out of the U.S. Government Printing Office tend to be long on bureaucratese and short on readability. Not so, however, one upon which we chanced recently.

This 71-page pamphlet is entitled "Specialists and Generalists: A Selection of Readings." It starts with Aesop's fable of the mice in council ("who will bell the cat?") and ends with "Some Maladies of Leadership" from John W. Gardiner's 1965 annual report of the Carnegie Corp. Between are selections from writers ranging from Thucydides and Aristotle through Plutarch and Machiavelli to Alfred North Whitehead and Winston Churchill.

ALL HAMMER HOME, in different ways, a point that should be born in mind by elected and appointed officials in Marin and elsewhere: The specialist, the technician, has his place. But it is the generalist — the man of good sense and wide experience, however lacking in specialized knowledge — who must make the great decisions. The specialist is simply too limited.

As Viscount Haldane wrote (in one of the quoted excerpts): "There is a large class of skilled work, some of it requiring long training and even initiative, which is done better by competent permanent officials than by statesmen even of a high order. But when we come to the highest order of work it is different. There is a common cry that this, too, should be left to the expert. There is no more complete misrepresentation of a situation."

THE DIFFICULTY is cited by Max Weber in another selection:

"Under normal conditions, the power position of a fully developed bureaucracy is always overtowering. The 'political master' finds himself in the position of the 'dillettante' who stands opposite the 'expert,' facing the trained official who stands within the management of administration."

The result is that the county supervisor, or the school board member, or whatever he maybe, yields to the deep (but narrow) knowledge of a specialist who sees all things between a pair of blinders fashioned by his calling.

The last selection in the pamphlet — that from John W. Gardiner — suggests what he should do instead:

"After the facts are in, the leader must in some measure emulate the little girl who told the teacher she was going to draw a picture of God. The teacher said, 'But, Mary, no one knows what God looks like'; and Mary said, 'They will when I get through.' "

THIS UNUSUAL government pamphlet is not new. It was published in November, 1968. It resulted from a Senate subcommittee study of the planning, programming, budgeting process in the national security area—the much-talked-about PPBS. And the man who caused it to be issued was the subcommittee chairman, a gentleman most people probably would categorize as himself an expert (in defense matters) rather than a generalist: Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a current aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The cover page of the pamphlet says: "Printed for use of the Committee on Government Operations." But its lessons should be much more widely applied.

"What are you trying to do, destroy the two-party system?"

Smell Of Partisanship Pervades Debate Over Campaign Financing

WASHINGTON — When every Republican senator opposes and every Democratic senator favors a single piece of legislation, you can be sure there is politics all over the place.

It's all of that — and more — in the heated, partisan-dominated fight over whether presidential elections should be financed out of public money.

In the end the smell of politics from both sides became so bad that the Democrats, while passing their tax checkoff to get campaign funds, delayed applying it until 1976.

A PRINCIPAL MOTIVE of the Democrats has been to get their party out of hock as soon as possible by tapping the federal treasury.

A principal motive of President Nixon has been to preserve the political advantage of being so well-financed at the very moment when the Democrats are so deeply in debt.

In this bickering atmosphere, it was plainly impossible for Congress to shape the kind of carefully considered measure which would deal wisely with the staggering increase in the cost of national campaigns.

Whether the present bill is vetoed or becomes law but inoperative for four years, there is now time to re-examine its provisions in a calmer climate.

THERE IS CERTAINLY need for new legislation.

But the Democratic plan to tax the public to defray the cost of presidential campaigning raises some questions which hardly figured at all in the debate.

One provision promises a post-campaign reimbursement to any fourth-party candidate who gets more than 5 per cent of the popular vote. Is it really in the interest of good government to offer a financial incentive to a New Left dissident (like Sen. Eugene McCarthy who can hardly wait for such a chance) to get in the race?

Again, at the very moment when Gov. George Wallace is losing strength in the South, do the Democrats want to assure him in advance that he will have a kitty of at least $6 million to encourage him to run, whatever his chances?

Is it sound policy to use public funds to encourage third- and fourth-party movements and thus contribute to the erosion of the two-party system? And why isn't Congress repealing the "equal-time" provision which would save the parties millions of dollars in TV costs?

THOUGHTFUL PEOPLE may well differ as to what answers should be given to these questions.

But the Democratic Party's urge to get out of debt isn't a persuasive reason for saying yes.

And President Nixon's urge to retain his party's exquisite financial advantage isn't a persuasive reason for saying no.

My instinct is to prefer the proposal of President Kennedy's Commission on Campaign Costs, with a broad bipartisan membership, which recommended that contributors be allowed deductions from taxable income up to $1,000 a year for political contributions.

At a time when the number of small contributions to political parties has been growing, it seems to me it would be well to try this incentive before charging it all to Uncle Sam.

If this doesn't work, then there would be a strong case for full federal financing of federal elections. This concept has very respectable Republican ancestry. Its first advocate was Mr. Nixon's favorite President — Theodore Roosevelt.

Picture Emphasizes Extent Of Cruelty

If the Humane Society saw fit to print pictures and descriptions of all the unfortunate strays they rescue, or find abandoned, I'll bet they would be besieged by calls (tearful, maybe, like mine) from families wanting to adopt them.

Your picture-caption Saturday Dec. 4 made me realize with shuddering impact the extent of cruelty of this demented day and age.

'Junk Mail' Term Disliked By User

Last week you referred to third class mail, for the second time this year, as "junk mail." We happen to earn substantial part of our living through the use of third class mail, and we resent your insult. It is not possible to interpret our use of third class mail as "junk."

We do not know who feeds you the hateful copy, but the tone reeks of some kind of vendetta against third class users.

Cool it.

Question And Plea For Animal Owners

This letter is a question and a plea. First the question. How can a person, who probably is supposed to be an adult, make an animal more helpless than it already is and then throw it in a culvert to die? (I-J, Dec. 4, page 5)? I hope whoever did it realizes how cruel they were and suffers for it in their mind.

The plea? Please take any surplus animals to the Humane Society where if they have to die, they can die painlessly.

Better yet, have your animal spayed or neutered. It's worth it.

Power Of Press Proved At Gate 5

I finally have proof that the press will survive forever. Our social system is saved!

Unfortunately its perpetuation may not rely upon the poetry, or the whit, or the reporting of its editors and staff.

Today I was reading in the Gate 5 Restaurant, savoring a few minutes of relaxation after my lunch, though finding it difficult due to an apparent dog fight that was happening outside. Beside me lay my half-read copy of the Independent-Journal.

Suddenly I became conscious of an enormous man standing over me — a man who by his size alone seemed capable of convincing any mortal on earth of his opinion merely by a flick of his finger or a flexing of his muscles. He most deferentially asked if he may borrow my copy of the I-J for just a few minutes.

He then carefully rolled it, and proceeded outside, where he treated his hound dog to the verbal chastisement of his life for making such a noise — all the time accented by a slapping of your paper against his hand. Silence followed immediately!

On returning, he confided in me that "the only thing that dog is afraid of is a rolled newspaper!"

Now every time I read my I-J, I will think of that time in Gate 5 when. . . .etc., etc.

Maritime Academy Upgrading Advocated

The California Maritime Academy Alumni Association believes that California has lost a chance of becoming the center of marine transportation science when Governor Reagan vetoed AB 705.

This bill would have transferred the California Maritime Academy into the state college system and provided it with academic quality equivalent to other state colleges.

We had hoped that CMA would go through the same metamorphosis that the New York Maritime Academy did when it was transformed into the state University of New York Maritime College in 1948. . .

There has been broad support for upgrading the academy from California maritime industry, the California Legislature, the California State College Board of Trustees, the International Organization of Masters, Mates and Pilots, the San Francisco Bar Pilots, the California Inland Pilots, and the alumni association.

In view of the foregoing, we are now urging these organizations to again make their feelings known to the governor by urging him to sign AB 232 which would provide for a study of CMA by the Coordinating Council for Higher Education.

County Should Sponsor Clinics For Animals

What a shame to think of some 17,000 defenseless dogs and cats put to sleep in Marin County last year. Surely there must be a solution which would curb the amount of unwanted offsprings. Why not some sort of county-sponsored animal birth control clinic, whereby the county would add to its revenue, while giving the interested pet owners much reduced spaying and altering costs?

I can remember, as a child, in San Francisco we were able to take our pets directly to the Humane Society for this type of service, for reasonable fees. With the tremendous charges by the veterinarians here in the county, plus our much increased property taxes, how many of us feel we can afford $30 to $50 additional on our pets? We recently took our male cat to a new clinic here in San Rafael and spent exactly half of what the veterinary would charge. The place was so overcrowded, that I suppose additional help was hired, and I noticed their fees have already risen. I feel something county sponsored is the answer and perhaps people who do have their dogs altered might receive an extra bonus of lower fees on their yearly license. Our male dog was altered before he was given to us and even so I have to pay the same fee as if he were not, while the spayed female is charged half the regular fee. This never has seemed right to me.

Nixon By Chance Takes Right Stand On Public TV

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — When Mr. Nixon first moved into the White House and set up Herb Klein across the alley as media co-ordinator for the whole administration, some among us were tempted to label Klein the new "propaganda minister," despite his personal dissimilarity to the late Herr Goebbels. I am delighted now to have withstood the temptation, since Klein has been as softspoken in his propagandizing as anybody in political memory.

But while we have had an eye on him, and at the same time been bemused by Spiro Agnew's dignified journalism lectures, a younger, grayer eminence has emerged, with the freshly created and slightly ominous title of head of the White House Office of Communications Policy.

No propaganda merchant, Clay T. Whitehead is a 33-year-old engineering and management alumnus of MIT and the Rand Corp., who deals instead with nuts and bolts — with legislation and regulatory agency actions concerning the media. Because of the clearly protected status of the press itself under the First Amendment and because of the Federal Communications Commission's specific role in broadcast licensing, "communications" in Whitehead's case means mostly television. And because of the Nixon White House's obsession with TV in all its potential, it is no surprise that this administration was the first ever to perceive the public need for an Office of Communications Policy, and quietly bring it into being 15 months ago.

WHITE HOUSE communications policy in its broad sense, whether within Whitehead's purview or not, has been self-serving to the President and his party as a matter of course. Witness the resistance to limits on campaign television spending, and to lifting the equal-time provisions to make possible broadcast presidential campaign debates. That also is true, in a subtler way, of the position Whitehead takes in a current face-off with congressional supporters of the Public Broadcasting Corp.

Unusually, however, and quite by accident, in this instance administration policy is in the long-range interest of broadcasting, which has struggled so hard to be included in the First Amendment's guarantee against government interference with the press.

Whitehead, speaking for the President, opposes a bill to extend congressional appropriations for public television, nearly quintupling the present $35 million annual subsidy by the 1976 fiscal year. He insists that a substantial share of any further appropriations should be earmarked for use by local educational TV stations, rather than having the entire subsidy awarded to the "centralized" corporation, which decides on its own how much will be used for productions at the national level and how much passed out to the local stations.

AT THE HEART of the administration position is good old Republican ideology. The bulk of national public television's productions always have simply been too liberal for Mr. Nixon. There is no question that the public broadcasting diet has been badly out of balance over the years, and only lately has there been a noticeable effort to correct that with some rightward bias — by the signing of William F. Buckley Jr. to do his weekly interview-debates on the public air.

But what further galls the White House is tne hiring of Sander Vanocur to be top gun in public television's 1972 campaign coverage. Vanocur's most noticeable political affinity in his years with NBC was with the Kennedys. That fact inspired new enthusiasm in the White House effort to knife national public TV. And now, the disclosure that Vanocur is being paid $85,000 a year in his new assignment arouses resentment at the capitol — since that sum happens to be exactly double with a congressman makes.

The climate thus is for a very tough congressional attitude toward greater funding commitments. But what is heard only faintly so far is the constitutionally sound idea that Congress should not appropriate any money for public TV at all. Robert E. Lee, a veteran FCC member, stated it in part when he said congressional appropriations open up the danger of "shaping noncommerical broadcasting to an image that is politically dependable, and therefore dull."

He suggested financing by national lottery instead. (Public TV's main non-government backing now is from the foundations.)

Whitehead's overriding interest in the bill proves the commissioner's fear is valid. No matter who is in the White House, the government inevitably is going to try to exert control over any broadcasting subsidized by government money. And with more than 200 noncommercial stations now on the air, even a season of intelligent programs free of commercial breaks is not worth that built-in risk. No one should know that better than the broadcasters otherwise so eager to establish their independence from government control.

By RUS WALTON:

California Running Risk Of Encephalitis Epidemic

SACRAMENTO — Come next summer and some 90,000 acres of California pastureland could turn into breeding grounds for death.

Pools and puddles on these quiet fields will produce millions of mosquitoes — not just the ordinary itch-and-scratch variety, but the type that are capable of carrying encephalitis virus.

Encephalitis is an inflammation of the brain tissues which can cause temporary or permanent damage to the central nervous system. It is especially severe on infants and young children. In some cases it results in death.. In others, it can leave a child mentally handicapped for life. Doctors believe many cases of mental retardation may have been caused by some form of encephalitis.

MOST OF THE MOSQUITOES, encephalitis transporters, are becoming increasingly immune to pesticides. And, on approximately one-tenth of those 90,000 acres of that pastureland, species of mosquitoes propagate almost totally resistant to one or both of the common insecticides.

State public health officials say that, given the right circumstances, encephalitis could break out in epidemic proportions one of these summers. So far, they warn, California has been extremely lucky.

That luck has been based on several factors. First, until recently, the use of insecticides and various vector control measures have been fairly effective.

Second, for some unknown reason, the virus reservoir among the carriers such as birds and small field animals has been very low in recent years.

BUT THIS LATTER factor also causes public health people concern. They point out that when a mosquito carrying a low virulence or sub-threshold amount of the virus bites a person it can serve as immunization. There may be a low fever and slight headache but the person is then protected against later bites and stronger virus strains.

The encephalitis virus has almost disappeared in recent years in the Central Valley. This means that many individuals, especially children, do not have the immunization which could protect them.

Should the virus return to its normal level in the birds and animals, and should this combine with a heavy runoff of waters and summer temperatures, a prolific mosquito crop could transport encephalitis in epidemic proportions.

THERE IS NO INNOCULATION and no known standard treatment for encephalitis.

The only known safeguard is vector control. Vector meaning "an insect or other organism which transmits a pathogenic virus."

Richard Peters, vector control chief for the State Public Health Department, and his staff are doing what they can with what they have. But no one is willing to sit back and relax.

Peters needs more environmental control engineers. And, he needs more biologists and scientists to seek new facts and devleop more effective controls. Such an increased effort would require a relatively small amount of state funds. It is the only insurance policy the public has against the time bomb of encephalitis which keeps ticking away.

Los Angeles School Proves Inner City Syndrome False

By BRYCE. W. ANDERSON

A Los Angeles public school is one of four in the United States identified by George Weber, associate director of the Council for Basic Education, as doing an outstanding job of teaching reading to primary grade children from very low-income homes.

Weber is sure there are other such schools. But he identified the Ann Street School at 126 East Bloom Street, Los Angeles, and three others — two in Manhattan and one in Kansas City — in a year-long project which included classroom visits and third grade testing at 17 schools selected from 95 nominated as among the best.

He undertook the project to test the often-heard theory of educators that children of the very poor lack the ability to learn to read up to standard. His conclusion: the theory is false.

THEY LEARN TO READ at Ann Street, at P.S. 11 and P.S. 129 in Manhattan, and at Woodland School in Kansas City. They can learn at other schools, too, Weber holds in a just-published Council for Basic Education "Occasional Paper." If they don't it is the fault of the schools, not of the children.

Ann Street School has 406 pupils, of whom 62 per cent are Mexican-American and 38 per cent black, all residents of a housing project that surrounds the school, all eligible for free breakfast and lunch under federal poverty guidelines.

It is a graded school — as are all four of the outstanding inner-city schools identified by Weber. But at Ann Street, five of the 10 primary grade classes are mixtures of two grade levels. The classes are relatively big, but each has either two teachers or a teacher plus a teacher's aide.

It uses the Sullivan Programmed Reading Series, which has a built-in continuing testing program, plus other phonics-oriented material. A student commissioner of reading improvement makes reports on reading progress to the student council each week. Three times a year, charts showing test scores of all pupils are posted in the classrooms.

ALL THIS MIGHT be described as "pressure." But Weber found the children involved and interested, reading above the norms for average-income children, and with fewer non-readers.

The system was introduced by Mrs. Joyce D. Zikas, principal of Ann Street for four years, and Weber gives her much of the credit.

The Sullivan Programmed Reading Series is used also at Woodland School in Kansas City, which has 650 pupils, all black, 90 per cent entitled to free lunch. It also has large classes but makes much use of teacher aides.

Woodland is one of 11 Kansas City schools in "Project Uplift," headed by Robert W. Wheeler, who formerly was with California's Oakland Unified School District. The reading accomplishments of "Project Uplift" children are described by Lester Velie in an article in the December Reader's Digest.

P.S. 11 in Manhattan has small classes and a variety of reading materials which Weber found highly phonics-oriented. P.S. 129 has a highly structured reading program, strictly phonetic, for its average-sized classes.

IN SUMMARIZING his findings, Weber wrote of the four schools:

"Their success shows that the failure in beginning reading typical of inner-city schools is the fault not of the children or their background — but of the schools.

". . . The factors that seemed to account for the success of the four schools are strong leadership, high expectations, good atmosphere, strong emphasis on reading, additional reading personnel, use of phonics, individualization, and careful evaluation of pupil progress.

"On the other hand, some characteristics often thought of as important to school improvement were not essential to the success of the four schools: small class size, achievement grouping, high quality of teaching, school personnel of the same ethnic background as the pupils', preschool education, and outstanding physical facilities."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

As Angela Was Being Moved, The Power Went Out—Almost

Marin County sheriff's officials narrowly missed a big scare last Thursday when they were delivering Angela Davis from their charge.

Just as Miss Davis was being escorted from her third floor jail cell in the Hall of Justice, power was being knocked out in a wide area surrounding the building.

Electricity was out to about 2,000 homes and businesses in the northern part of San Rafael after wind blew a tree limb into a 12,000-volt Pacific Gas and Electric Co. power line in the vicinity of Prospect, Chula Vista and Coleman Drives, San Rafael.

The outage occurred at 5:46 a.m. as sheriff's officials prepared for the high security departure of Miss Davis, which officials said was accomplished shortly before 6 a.m.

A PG&E SPOKESMAN at first told the Independent-Journal that the Marin Civic Center, including the Hall of Justice, was affected by the power outage — which lasted more than three and a half hours in part of the area.

PG&E later corrected that report, however, on learning that the Civic Center had been switched to an alternate power line prior to the outage and was not affected.

The building has its own emergency power supply which would almost immediately have supplied the Hall of Justice with electricity, but any power shortage — even a momentary dimming of lights — at the moment the jail's star boarder was being moved would certainly have provided a few more gray hairs around the sheriff's office.

AND SINCE THE SPORTS pages continue their mysterious boycott on news of the biggest sports sensation in the country, you'll have to get it here.

The Marquette Warriors Boosters Association of Marin held its annual preseason cocktail party at the association's headquarters in Kentfield last week.

B-ball shirts were distributed and discussion naturally centered on Sports Illustrated picking the Warriors as the number one college basketball team in the nation. After some association members questioned whether the fabled Sports Illustrated jinx still meant anything, the general membership voted 26-2 that it did not.

Plans were announced at the meeting for the association's January ski and surfing trip to Reno, Nev., which will be highlighted by a Jan. 11 rout of the University of Nevada by Marquette as the Warriors sweep onto their manifest destiny as 1972 national champions.

Housing Issue To Be Studied

A recommendation that second dwellings be allowed on some single-family residential lots will be discussed at a 7:45 p.m. meeting Thursday of the San Anselmo Homes Association.

The report, prepared by the Citizens Committee on Zoning and Housing, recommends that second units be allowed under some circumstances in order to provide low-cost housing in San Anselmo.

The association meeting will be at Robson House, 237 Crescent Road.

Registration Will End Tomorrow

Preregistration for the spring semester at Dominican College in San Rafael will end tomorrow, with regular registration to be held on Jan. 17.

Final examinations will began at the school Friday and the fall semester will close on Dec. 17. The spring semester will start on Jan. 18 and end on May 13.

Days Are Recalled Preceding Dec. 7

A retired Air Force brigadier general recalled yesterday that his unit providing air protection to Pearl Harbor was taken off alert duty two days before the attack.

Brig. Gen. Jack Gibbs, who was a fighter pilot in Hawaii 30 years ago, told Novato Kiwanis Club members at a luncheon that his unit flew morning and night patrol over Pearl Harbor during the month before the Japanese aerial attack.

The patrol grew in intensity and then, on Dec. 5, "the alert, was called off," he said. The question, Gibbs said, is "why?"

The pilots, some of whom had been sleeping in hangers, were tired from the long period of alert duty, and when it was called off they went home to wives or into Honolulu, he said.

Gibbs, then a lieutenant, said he had been duck hunting and was scheduled to take over as officer of the day at Wheeler Field the morning of Dec. 7.

"I got there a little early," he commented. "It was struck at approximately 8 a.m. by Japanese dive bombers. We were not expecting them. We were not prepared," he recalled.

Gibbs also still wonders why "all our best planes were lined up in formation," a formation that provided "pay dirt for the Japanese."

Gibbs recalled ironically that he had flown over Pearl Harbor and as he viewed all the U.S. ships below, he commented to a friend. . . "Wouldn't that be a bomber's dream."

In reply to a question, he told how the approaching Japanese planes were detected by a radar man, who reported to "control central, but it was ignored. . . . I don't know why." There was some confusion, he said. "The Army thought it was the Navy and the Navy thought it was the Army." A flight of B-17s from Hamilton Air Force Base also were expected that day, he said.

Chief Master Sgt. R.T. Barnes, assistant commandant of the Noncommissioned Officers Academy at Hamilton Air Force Base, stressed the need for preparedness in the opening talk of the Kiwanis Club's Pearl Harbor Day program.

Barnes said the Japanese are not the major economic power in the Pacific and U.S. prestige is low in Southeast Asia. The Japanese are more "militant than reported in the press," and although they spend only one per cent of their gross national product on military forces, they "could revert to wartime footing with no sweat," Barnes said.

Hub Schools Radio Topic

Plans for citizen study of San Anselmo Elementary School District operations will be discussed at 9 a.m. tomorrow on KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board."

The study would include such areas as staffing and pay plans, special educational requirements, school housing and sites and budget and finance.

Speakers will be Kenneth W. Lowry, district superintendent; Franklin C. Latcham, president of the district board; City Councilman James F. Reed, who has two children in elementary school, and Louella Lamb, fourth-grade teacher at Brookside School.

Questions may be telephoned in during tomorrow's broadcast. The program will be repeated by tape at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

CHANNEL CHUCKLES

"This week's program is being brought to you by a sponsor or sponsors unknown. Now, back to 'Mystery Movie'."

Bracelet Stolen
